SPRING MILLINERY ON BUENOS AIRES' FASHION AVENUES

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 30.—While New York's Fifth Avenue shops are displaying the latest modes in furs and new creations in winter hats and coats, the millinery of Buenos Aires is showing the latest concoctions in the millinery of spring and the smartest designs in summer gowns and Miss Argentina's cheeks are now with the warmth of spring sunshine.

There are half a dozen large department stores on the Florida and numberless specialty shops, and in them she finds everything a feminine heart could desire in any city of the world, costly gowns, hats, lingerie and dainty footgear from Paris, practical household implements from the United States and jewelry, furniture and art objects from the four corners of the globe.

The fashions, so American women residents of Buenos Aires declare, are just two seasons ahead of New York. American women arriving in Buenos Aires in the spring, they say, can buy hats, gowns and shoes which they will find on returning six months later to the New York spring are "just coming in."

"Buenos Aires from the beginning has kept about three inches ahead of New York in shortening skirts," says the wife of an American business man who makes frequent trips with her husband between the two cities. "The first time I came down here three years ago, I was quite shocked at the shortness of the skirts the Argentine women were wearing. But when I got back to New York a few months later I found American women had also shortened theirs."

"They have been wearing almost knee high skirts in Buenos Aires for more than a year, but it was only on my last trip home this summer that I saw them as short in New York as here. Argentine women refuse to be behind anybody in dress and I think the Parisian style dictators, recognizing the opposition of the seasons, give them a six month's advantage."
