ASHLAND TEACHERS AND PUPILS ON HOLIDAY JAUNTS

ASHLAND, Dec. 16.—Nearly eight days of holiday are in store for school teachers and pupils during the Yuletide season. Spectacularly Christmas-like begins on Friday afternoon, Dec. 22, and ends with the week beginning in January. The customary exodus of teachers is already being planned, fully half the number being holiday visitors either with the home folks or friends in other localities. Supt. Briscoe and Principal Hughes will attend the State Teachers association at Portland a gathering which annually is slated for holiday week. Final exams for the first semester of 1922 will occur Jan. 19, and the second semester begins on Monday, Jan. 23. Any child six years old on or before March 1, 1922, is eligible to enter school, but said entrance must be at the beginning of the semester, and none will be received after the first of February. For the alternate designation "semester," substitute the word "term," according to the original version as applied to school periods, and the classical definition is reduced to plain English "as she is spoke." In this respect the public schools nowadays seek to ape the colleges and universities. Never were the local schools better equipped for efficient service. Instructors are numerous—about forty—and the "morale" of the student body is high, the work in all branches being enthusiastically prosecuted. Enrollment is at its crest, all the grades being crowded, with overflow classes being accommodated at the New Thought Temple. From the present viewpoint a new school building is imperatively needed.

The city library caters to readers of all varieties of technical literature, as was evidenced at the Winter Fair, when volumes on agricultural and kindred subjects were available at the booth in which that institution had a most creditable display. Floyd Crosslin, ex-serviceman, is now located at Weed, employed in the big lumber milling interests there.

In the absence of Pastor Koehler in Klamath county, Rev. J. Alexander Smith, of Rogue River, conducted services at the Presbyterian church last Sunday. George Damon, who contemplated retiring from active work some years since, not only built a new carpenter shop after the fire which destroyed his original plant, but has constructed an annex to the establishment on B street near the Southern Pacific spur.

Present indications point to a joint installation of officers by the Masonic lodge and Eastern Star on the evening of St. John's Day, Dec. 27. Although this is not a public affair, the families of Masons and the Star are cordially invited to be present.

Having sold their ranch east of town, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Buchner will remove to Idaho, visiting their son Lynn, student at Corvallis, in the meantime.

S. A. Stearns is the new commander of Burnside Post G. A. R.; A. C. Spencer, senior vice-commander; George Van Natta, junior vice-commander; E. H. Harris, officer of the day; L. A. Brush, quartermaster; G. W. Benedict, chaplain; W. E. Palmer, inside guard. "The Old Guard" is in a prosperous condition in spite of thinned ranks, the late Charles Ganders being greatly missed from past circles.

Ladies of the Baptist church will hold a food sale at Enders store, Saturday, Dec. 17.

J. F. Hittson, of Medford, carved, and John Fuller, of Ashland, "poured" at a social gathering of automobile exhibitors at the recent Winter Fair, a fine dinner having been prepared for their benefit at Hotel Ashland early in the week. The carburetor salesman feasted on a huge prize Fordson turkey, the gift of Harrison Bros. of this city, who won it for auto merits displayed at the Winter show. Hitt literally carved the bird, while John poured every drop in figurative terms by virtue of being toastmaster at this jolly reunion. Kindred spirits from valley towns in general.

Seniority rights as applied to the widowers of motive power on the Southern Pacific, who are residents of the Ashland terminal, are resulting in a number of junior employees, engineers especially, being "lumped" in accordance with the exercise of this privilege, Frank Dean is among engineers who will have headquarters at Hordbrook for the time being and pending developments, he having moved there with his family this week.

A. C. Joy and Ed Staples are Ashland directors of the Jackson County

SPORT FLASHES

COVINGTON, Ore., Dec. 16.—Clyde Hubbard, former baseball, basketball and football star of Oregon Agricultural college, has accepted temporarily the position of general manager of student affairs at the college, according to an announcement just made by Dr. E. G. Dubach, chairman of the board of control. Hubbard succeeds James M. Richardson, who resigned from the position of general manager to accept a position as business manager of the Seattle baseball club.

SPOKANE, Wash., Dec. 16.—Five players from Washington State college are given places on a mythical all-star Northwest conference football team selected by George M. Varnell of this city, who has served as referee in Northwest and coast conference games for a number of years. University of Idaho and Oregon Agricultural college are given two members each and University of Montana and Whitman college one each.

SPOKANE, Wash., Dec. 16.—The athletic board of Washington State college voted unanimously at a meeting held Tuesday night to tender to Gus Welch a contract as football coach for 1922. It became known here today. Welch will confer with the board relative to the matter before leaving for the east late this month.

EDEN PRECINCT

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rapp of Talent were visiting Mrs. Rapp's sister, Mrs. Ray Coleman of Jacksonville last Sunday.

Mr. Larson of North Talent made a trip over to Fern valley Monday and became very much interested in the prospects. There seems at this writing no doubt but that oil has been struck. The frequent encounter of gas pockets work a hardship on the driller, making the work somewhat difficult. Rumor has it that another well is soon to be put down in the near vicinity of the Trigonia. This, the report says, will be commenced within sixty days.

Solitors for a reliable company, are making a thorough canvass of all the hold owners above Phoenix, trying to get down on the head that they may put down another well in the floor of the valley. There has been strong talk of well being commenced immediately on Louis Colver's place. This land lays just opposite the Trigonia, but on the west side of Bear creek. This company is very sanguine as to the existence of oil in the vicinity of Phoenix.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Henry, former residents of North Talent, but now residing near Brownsboro, were visiting old friends in the neighborhood last Sunday. Among them Mr. and Mrs. Noah Chandler and James Allen, son and wife.

Elton Benson of Talent walked off with several cash prizes at the winter fair at Ashland. Mr. Benson had ten head of fine cattle on exhibit and each took a prize. The total in prize money was about eighty dollars.

Mrs. Rattie of west Phoenix took her fine lot of hares to the winter fair at Ashland. Many of these were scored as the best in the state. His Flemish Giants were of mammoth size, and faultless as to color. Mr. Rattie had some very fine dressed alphas on display, many of which he sold at a good figure.

Mr. Benn of Phoenix visited the Trigonia oil well last Friday and was very favorably impressed. He was at the well when the gas was very active, raising the casing several inches. He heard the disturbance in the well very plainly, while there.

Guests at the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Purry last Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Coleman, Mr. and Mrs. Beagall, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bellenger, Mr. and Mrs. Colver, Harry and daughter Corrol, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Franklin, Mrs. Donna Graf, Miss Frank's Moal.

John Bush, the Phoenix blacksmith, gave his friends quite a surprise Monday, when he announced his marriage Sunday to Mrs. Stacy Sewerick. The happy couple will make their home in the little town of Phoenix.

Mrs. Neno Davis arrived at the home of her mother, Mrs. Wm. Short of Phoenix to remain for some time. Her two little sons will attend school in Phoenix during their stay at their grandmother's.

Mrs. E. M. Coen of Denver, Colo., an aunt of Mrs. Walter Allen, came up to visit her a few days last week, then proceeded on her way to Chehalis, Wash.

Aubrey Purry writes home from the U. of C. that their steer club of which he is a member, will get out this part of the state as it was thought they would enter in the section.

Mrs. Anna Lane of Medford was visiting at the homes of Mrs. Noah Chandler and Mrs. Jack Allen, and Mrs. C. Carey's Monday of this week.

Thursday of last week, one of the most inhuman crimes against dumb animals, that has ever been perpetrated since the road was paved, occurred just above Talent. An unknown auto driver overtook a man driving a small band of sheep, and drove through the band at breakneck speed, killing seven of the poor dumb animals as he went. The owner was unable to get the number of the car, owing to the fog, which had come up in the afternoon, and the sheep running from the speeding car.
