An octette consisting of eight soloists supported by Mrs. Marsh at the organ and Mr. Carlton James, violin, will give a splendid rendition of "The Manger Throne" by Mauney, which will vividly portray in song, the Nativity. The artistry of the musicians participating insures a very finished rendition of this musical work both in ensemble and solo work. Such a musical service will no doubt tax the church's seating capacity, the public being most cordially invited to worship with this congregation on Christmas morning. The personnel of the octette is as follows: Sopranos, Mrs. Fred Strang, Mrs. R. McElhose; contraltos, Mrs. Frank Isaacs, Miss Sherwood; tenors, Forrest Edmeades, Everett Brayton; baritone, Wm. CHRISTMAS CONCERT AT M. E. CHURCH

The Christmas music at the First M. E. Church, corner of Fourth and Bartlett streets, will be fully up to the high standard maintained by the director, Mrs. May Jordan-MacDonough. In the morning the anthems, "Arise, Shine," by Maker, and "Bethlehem," by Bartlett, will be sung; while the evening offering will be Dudley Buck's beautiful Christmas cantata, "The Coming of the King."

The cantata is divided into eleven parts, as follows: Noel, Prophecy, Advent, The Annunciation, Across the Desert, The Plains of Bethlehem, The Virgin's Lullaby, The Questioning of the Magi, The Adoration and Adagio Fideles.

Mrs. Van Scoyoc will sing The Prophecy; Mrs. Pierce The Virgin's Lullaby; Mr. Scanzall will take the part of Herod; and Mrs. Sasnett, Mr. MacDonough and others will be heard in the various solos. A chorus of women's voices sings the tender music of The Plains of Bethlehem, while the swinging march of the caravan across the desert is delivered with wonderful effect by the men's chorus. The splendid work of the choir on previous occasions is ample guarantee for its excellence in the ensemble numbers in this program.

CHRISTMAS PROGRAM A DECIDED SUCCESS

The Christmas entertainment given last night by the Sunday school of the First Baptist church drew an audience that taxed the seating capacity of the church, many remained standing until the close. The church was attractively decorated. The program was out of the usual, and interested young and old alike from start to finish. The processional was an interesting feature, followed by the entrance of Mary and two angels, when Mrs. Leach sang "Silent Night, Holy Night," after which five girls sang Luther's Cradle song. Interesting recitations were given by several of the little children, when one of the most attractive features of the entertainment was given, the scene "Going to the Party, from Bird's "Christmas Carol." Mrs. Effie Daily took the part of Mrs. Ruggles in a charming way. The audience greatly enjoyed the presentation of this laughable story. At the close Santa Claus came in and distributed gifts to all the children present. The program was arranged by Mrs. F. R. Leach.
