U. S. ARMY AIDING EUROPE TO GET ON FEET AGAIN

CORLENZ—The American forces in Germany are assisting in every possible way in bringing about the ultimate stabilization of Europe generally, according to recent announcements here. The American detachments on the Rhine are now virtually on a peace time footing, the policy of Major General Henry T. Allen, in command, now as always, being to treat the civilian population with consideration, but at the same time maintaining, of course, the dignity and prestige of an army of occupation and of the Inter-Allied Rhineland high commission.

Outlining the policy of the American forces to some 400 officers, Colonel W. F. Hay, chief of staff, made it clear that a part of the duties of the army under the present circumstances was to help whenever the opportunity presented itself to create a friendly spirit among the countries of Europe and in this way carry out the peaceful missions so desired by the majority of the nations of the world.

The policy of General Allen, said Colonel Hay, had always been to deal with the Germans considerately, and at the same time firmly, and he emphasized the importance of each member of the army so conducting himself as to always reflect only credit upon his uniform and his country. The United States as a whole, he said, would be judged by Europeans for years to come, long after the American army had gone home, by the officers and enlisted men comprising the Rhineland forces at the present time.

Colonel Hay pointed out that his remarks with reference to intercourse between the Americans and Germans had no bearing on the question of social relations, as, this, he thought, would naturally take care of itself; and said that the American officers would probably continue to conduct themselves as heretofore, the relations of officers and the Germans having been confined chiefly to association only in official capacities.

American officers generally have never associated with the Germans in the three years of occupation, and there has been no attempt on either side to establish social relations. There have been exceptions both ways, but at the present time there is no tendency on the part of American officers nor the better class of Germans to inaugurate ordinary social relations, and each goes his separate way trying to make the best of circumstances unavoidable in an unoccupied area.

15 IRISH COLLEENS TO MAKE LINGERIE FOR PRINCESS MARY

LONDON—Fifteen Irish colleens, picked needle workers, have been selected to make part of the lingerie for Princess Mary's trousseau. The work will be done at the girls' own homes, and will take six weeks to complete.

Fashion experts are enthusiastic over the beauty of the models. The garments are to be of the finest Irish linen trimmed with exquisite Carrickmacross and Irish point stitch lace, and threaded with pale blue satin ribbon. Some of the lace has the shamrock pattern worked into it.

Donegal fisher girls are to make a number of white knitted frocks for the princess's honeymoon abroad. Technically they are described as "of very fine wool, quite plain in the bodice, short sleeves, and with a deep flounce for the skirt, showing raised knots."

Irish tweed is the material for the princess's travelling dresses.

JACKSON COUNTY LOAN ASSOCIATION HAS RECORD YEAR

On another page you will find the semi-annual statement of the Jackson County Building & Loan association. This association has been organized and doing business in Jackson county since 1909. This past year has been the most successful during its 13 years existence. Its records show that during the past six months the assets have increased more than $1000 each week.

This institution has grown to be one of the important financial institutions of Jackson county. During the past two and one-half years its growth has been phenomenal, the assets having practically tripled during that time.

At its annual meeting the same officers and directors were elected who had served during the past year, which assured the same careful management and attention to business that this institution has always enjoyed.

The objects of the association are to enable people to own their own homes, and at the same time to furnish a profitable and safe place for the investment of their savings. Its safety and reliability has never been questioned, and it is under the direct supervision of the corporation department of the state of Oregon, which department made a careful and complete investigation and issued it a permit to do business. We do not hesitate to endorse the Jackson County Building & Loan association and say that every citizen ought to support it. One of the features that commends it to us is that the money is all kept at home and loaned for the purpose of purchasing or building homes, and through its influence hundreds of people in Medford are now home owners who otherwise would not have been.

The expense of doing business is very small, which enables the association to pay a substantial dividend on the savings invested therein. The preferred stock has always paid 7 per cent annually, or 2 1/2 per cent semi-annually; the last dividend on the common stock was 8 per cent annually or 4 per cent semi-annually.

SELLING PROPERTY IN WASHINGTON FOR TAXES ALARMS GOV.

OLYMPIA, Jan. 16.—Declaring the abandonment of property for taxes throughout the state was alarming, Governor Louis F. Hart today stressed the need for uniformity of taxation and efficient administration of government in an address of welcome to county assessors assembled here for their 24th annual convention.

"We must come to the burden of property owners if we are to save this state from the trend toward socialism," said the governor. "There is always a public demand for newly created branches of government, but the time is past when property can stand further taxation."

The governor emphasized that different standards of value for different classifications of property must be done away with and a uniform valuation system substituted.
