BRINGING UP FATHER

By George McManus

STUDEBAKER POPULAR AFTER BIG RACE

The sale of a Studebaker Light Six sedan to one of the most noted racing authorities in the United States as a direct result of the dealers' race at San Carlos, and the purchase of a car by the daughter of D. A. Worthington, president of the Dusenberg Motor company, racing car builders of Indianapolis, Ind., were announced here this week by the Chester N. Weaver company, Studebaker distributors.

For several days before the race was held the track was thrown open to the racers and daily followers of the game gathered to watch both the dealers' cars and the 183 cubic-inch cars in their trials. Among these was Ray Harroun, former well-known racing driver and now connected with the Disteel Wheel Corporation in an official capacity. Following the speed tests Harroun put in his order for a car.

Coincident with the Harroun purchase was the announcement that Miss May Worthington, daughter of the chief executive of Dusenberg, after consulting her father, had purchased a Studebaker Light Six roadster from P. M. Schubert, Studebaker dealer at Madera, Cal., where she enjoyed a short stay recently.

On account of the popularity of this model Schubert was for a time without the type of car she wanted, and it was after E. H. McCarthy, sales manager of the Studebaker corporation had wired of Miss Worthington's plight that the Weaver organization rushed delivery. Miss Worthington had notified her father, and H. W. Anderson, Dusenberg sales manager, in turn communicated with McCarthy whose wire to San Francisco followed.
