POP GATES FIRST STATE CANDIDATE TO BE QUIZZED

For the last week thick flying rumors have been whispering of nightly sessions of a state-wide committee, or council, of the Federated Societies, called into convention here to sit in judgment upon the political hopes, ambitions and aspirations of those seeking the governorship. One after the other, various of those so ambitious are reported to have gone in before the council to tell his story, state his case, to face his inquisition and pass out with the hope that at the end of it all his name would be the one chosen and recommended to the different units of the mother organization for endorsement and support.

Charles E. Gates, mayor of Medford and southern Oregon candidate for the governorship, has been in Portland throughout the week, first to await his turn and then to await the final result.

Gates, who rumor reports was the first to go before the council, is said to have turned the clock back to other days, so far as his own political fortunes are concerned, by advancing the proposition that should he be unable to win the endorsement he would, like the conventional candidate of days gone by, pledge his aid and comfort to the lucky man.

This pronouncement is said to have caught Baker and Patterson, and maybe the rest, in its backwash and to have led them into the same position, a situation the managing men of the Federated Societies, by all the dictates of political battle strategy, must greatly desire, for it would lead in its ultimate conclusion, to one candidate only for the republican nomination. It would at any rate, tend to narrow the field down to a finish fight between the endorsees of the Federated Societies and those who either did not seek, or did not promise to abide by its endorsement. Bean, it is said, will not commit himself thus.

Those candidates who are hankering after this endorsement, and most of them are known to be, have been marking time while they waited for the word.

The latter part of this week is expected to bring this final word, and when that word comes the campaign is expected to "open up" and start off with a bang.—Portland Journal.

BURGLAR SMASHES WINDOW, ESCAPES WITH $500 LOOT

A burglar was busy at his trade in the F. J. Huber tailor shop on West Main street last night about 6:30 o'clock, when he heard Horace Bromley tramping around on the roof, getting ready to start his fifth ad machine. The burglar thought some body was after him, and with a "Bump" smashed the plate glass in the door and walked out. Mrs. Bromley was standing near, but made no move, and a number of other people attracted by the sound of the falling glass, directed their attention to the hole in the door instead of the thief, who proceeded in a leisurely fashion till he reached the corner of Main and Fir street.

At this point somebody had presence of mind enough to shout "Hiy!" whereupon the man took off his black stouch hat and showed a burst of speed southward.

Mr. Huber checked up his loss this morning and placed it at around $500 which includes a $75 overcoat and several bolts of wool suiting, which was passed out a back window to a confederate. Entrance was gained by smashing a rear window.

All losses were fully covered by insurance," said Supervisor Duke, "and the state banks did not suffer to the extent of one penny."

The court also denied the application of the county for a writ of certiorari in the same case.

Mr. and Mrs. Cook from Portland, who have been in this vicinity the past two weeks were over Sunday guests at the F. O. Elliott home. Mr. Cook is a brother of Mrs. Elliott.

Mr. and Mrs. Schaffer and daughter Florence were Grants Pass week end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Matthews.

Charles and Pauline Chamberlain have been ill the past two weeks with whooping cough, but are about over the distressing symptoms of the disease.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Wahl, Mrs. George B. Alden and Miss Caroline Leeder were down from Medford Sunday and called on Riverside friends.

Fred Champin was a visitor in Medford several days of the past week.

Mrs. Kershaw visited her husband at the Pickett ranch over Sunday.

L. F. Pickett spent the past week with his family, returning to his sheep camp Sunday.

Mrs. M. Jacobs is making several improvements at her ranch home. The dairy equipment has been improved and there is a fine new hen house.

Mrs. L. F. Pickett was in Medford Thursday and attended the organization of the P. E. O. society at the home of Mrs. C. W. McDonald. Mrs. Pickett was a member of the P. E. O. in Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Champin were Grants Pass visitors Wednesday.

A very enjoyable meeting of the Riverside Recreation club was held with Mrs. R. W. Engel Friday afternoon. Eighteen members and guests were present. Judge Watson of Gold Hill gave a very interesting talk on the early history of southern Oregon and this vicinity. He has not only studied early history, but has lived a great part of it, which made the talk doubly interesting.

Mrs. Rose Gay, Mrs. Fannie Pickett and Miss Lyndall Jacobs demonstrated the use of pumpkin flour in the making of pronounced excellent. This product is manufactured in Atascadero, California, and is called Calcedero. The hostesses served sandwiches, pressed chicken, filled cookies, pickles and coffee. Mesdames Abbie Champlin, Georgia Keule and Beatrice C. Jones will entertain the club February 9.

All were pleased to have Mrs. W. H. Little of Gold Hill present. She is an old member but has been unable to attend for about two years. Mesdames F. E. Wahl, Furnas, Acker and Alden of Medford and Mrs. O. Kelley of Rogue River were present.

The Community club gave one of their popular dances at the club house Saturday evening, which was one of the most enjoyable this season. Fifty couples were present and the Peerless orchestra of Medford were at their best and a most excellent lunch, consisting of ham sandwiches, cake, pickles and coffee was served by the committee in charge.

A large crowd is expected for the next dance to be given February 11.

Thursday afternoon after the funeral of Mr. E. A. Hildreth, Sr., his son Huel, wife and her father, Mr. Fendale and the widow of the late E. A. Hildreth came in to spend the night on their way home to Butte Falls.

Frank Manning and Percy Boothby of Florence Creek came up from Ashland where they had been to visit Percy's parents, A. H. Boothby and wife and were on their way up home but stopped here for dinner Friday.

F. S. Brandon of the Snowy Butte mills, Central Point, was also here for dinner the same day. He and his brother George own the old original Snowy Butte mills here and came over to look after their property. He intends to move back and operate the mill here as soon as the P. & E. R. R. is opened up for business again. The only reason for their shutting down was the P. & E. suspending business so that they could not bring wheat in or ship the flour out.

John Allen of Derby, came out Friday to look after some of his cattle but turned aside long enough to take a look at the fine black Percheron stallion that Mr. Johnson has here for sale and seemed to be very favorably impressed with his appearance. Mr. Allen is a horseman and knows a good thing when he sees it.

C. H. Natwick, the railroad contractor who has a contract to do some grading on the Butte Falls extension of the P. & E. took his tools, etc., up on the P. & E. R. R. Friday and expects to start in on his contract the first of the week.

EAGLE POINT EAGLETS

By A. O. Nowlett

George F. Fendale, formerly of Hill, Calif., but now of Butte Falls, came in on the Butte Falls stage Tuesday afternoon on his way to Medford to meet his son-in-law, Buck Hildreth and wife who were coming from Cottage Grove with the body of his father, E. A. Hildreth, who passed away at his home there, Jan. 23, 1922, aged 80 years and a half. He was with two of his sons, A. E., Jr., and Buel and wife who went from their homes in Butte Falls to care for him. He leaves a wife and the two sons referred to above and his oldest son Delbert of Oakland, Calif., and a number of friends in Ashland, Central Point and Butte Falls, where he made his home for some time. The funeral was held Thursday afternoon in the Central Point cemetery.

Friday morning word came to me over the phone that Mrs. Mary Severance had passed away in Murrill, Calif. at the home of her son, Alfred Stricklin, aged 95 years. Mrs. Severance was for
