Ye Smudge Pot By Arthur Perry.

Yes, Millicent, the public is disgusted with the carrying-ons of perfumed honeybees, and dainty beauties, and gosh! how they hate to read the colorful details.

Only in the movies is it possible to clear the atmosphere with a Hays.

THE PINK ELEPHANTS (Chico Enterprise)

Leo Plunkett was brought here last Friday from West Point on a charge of insanity. It is stated that the fubbing of "white mule" at Sheep Ranch was the cause of his downfall.

Killing a cold with moonshine is all the vogue, but great care should be exercised lest a double murder occur.

The French have made deductions from their war debt to the U.S. The deductions are for trench rent, and deliberate scuffing up of the grass at Chateau Thierry.

Unless two little girls and a little boy quit acting like Ireland, by fighting among themselves, they will get their names published herein, and they will not be warned anymore.

RIGORS OF SOCIETY (Sandy News)

The Ladies' Club was entertained last Thursday by Mrs. Gilbert Eri. The following ladies braved the storm.

The Portland young man of a wealthy family, one Hubert Berry, who went crazy after the police accidentally captured him for hitting an old man over the head with a beer bottle for $3, is still crazy.

MR. NORDYKE GETS BUSY (Albany Democrat)

J. M. Nordyke, one of the directors of the school, was at the schoolhouse Tuesday morning and helped repair a stove pipe.

J. M. Nordyke was an Albany visitor Sunday.

Clara Wade and Dorothy Wisberg of Albany were guests at the home of J. M. Nordyke Saturday and Sunday.

J. M. Nordyke was a Corvallis visitor Monday.

J. M. Nordyke made a trip to Albany Saturday night.

A birthday party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Nordyke Saturday in honor of their eldest daughter, Pearl. Twelve guests were present.

J. M. Nordyke got a new calf Monday from Bob Lindsay.

William Jennings Bryan still possesses the blind persistency of a kitten, and the running ability of a Russian soldier in war. He is going to be a candidate for senator from Florida.

Indications indicate that some more citizens will soon enter an undeveloped field of business, and start a garage. The weather will soon be fit to plant a jitney line to a point where nobody ever goes.

Arrests for bootlegging are falling off. It has not been determined yet whether this is due to increased slickness on the part of the bootleggers, or because the keeneyed cops are getting so they can hear a yell for help, as well as an alley gurgle.

All old-world monkeys, with one exception, have the same number of teeth as man.

HARDING AND THE PACIFIC TREATY.

HATE is an expensive luxury. It is a luxury in which President Harding, whatever his faults may be, does not indulge.

In his address today, at the closing of the Washington conference, it will be observed that the President carefully avoids any pointed references that might offend the sensibilities of his predecessor.

He claims no world-shattering spiritual discovery. He does not deny that similar efforts have been made in the past. All he does claim is that here, for the first time, something actual toward a reduction in arms has been accomplished, and without creating a super-government, progress has been made, toward organizing the world for peace instead of war.

A homely kindness pervades everything the President says. Combined with an ample supply of common sense, it forms Mr. Harding's most striking and most valuable characteristic.

With Senator Lodge the reactions are decidedly different. A hatred of Ex-President Wilson that is positively malignant, colors every action and every utterance. By a strange irony of fate, moreover, Senator Lodge now promises to adopt the attitude toward the Washington conference, which President Wilson, so unfortunately adopted toward the Paris conference.

According to reports from Washington, when any imperfection in the arms parity plans are hinted, the Massachusetts senator sees red. He will brook no suggestions, he will consider no compromises. He accepts the grossing of the "I" and the dotting of the "i" dietum, only on the other foot.

There is a general impression today that the Harding program will pass the senate. But overly optimistic partisans should not forget that a similar impression prevailed, the day Wilson's League was ratified in Paris. Opposition to any world agreement is bound to grow as the days pass by.

President Harding had very little to do with the actual formation of the program, but his spirit toward it will have a great deal to do with its final fate. Just so far as his attitude prevails and just so far as the Lodge attitude fails to prevail, will the opposition to the new arrangement in the Pacific, and the new agreement for arms reduction, dwindle down to its proper plane of ineffectiveness.

Quill Points

Only in the movies is it possible to clear the atmosphere with a Hays.

The three R's of the old diplomatic school are Raid, Ravage and Rapacity.

The maddest woman on earth is the one who buys a perfect love of a hat and sees its mate on a woman she doesn't like.

The evil that men do lives after them; the good is often repealed by the opposition party.

Just because a four-power treaty has four sides, it doesn't follow that it is a quadwangle.

The budget system will help, of course. But what the country needs is less budget and more system.

Hays' experience teaches us that it isn't necessary to kill a husband to get into the movies, after all.

Learn one new thing every day. A little floor oil sprinkled on the baby's dress will keep the floors shining.

Still it's easier to get a square peg in a round hole than to get a square deal in a sphere of influence.

The world survives in spite of a broken heart, but statesmen are warned that it probably won't survive a broken back.

That Florida man named Hell who was arrested for bootlegging seems to cling to the argument that it doesn't pay to give a dog a bad name.

THE HOTHEADS.

WE LABOR at the daily grind, each in his wonted fashion; and some continue mild and kind, and some are in a passion. Some workmen cannot fix a chair, or ply a saw or chisel, but they begin to sweat and swear and make the language sizzle. They grumble like a house afire, both in and out of season; they're in a chronic state of ire that has no cause or reason. And one such delegate will spoil the ardor of the many, and kill the pep of those who toil at loom or spinning jenny. The hothead is a total loss and none admire his capers; we're not astonished when the boss gives him his walking papers. How different the quiet gent! No stormy wrath delays him; he calmly strives to earn the cent that his employer pays him. Sidestepping noise and fuss and strife, he draws his weekly money, and gives a nickel to his wife to make her days more sunny. What'er the tool that he may ply, a corkscrew or a spanner, he wields it with a beaming eye, in most efficient manner. Then comes the boss, some pleasant day, and says, "J. Reuben Smirker, we add nine kopecks to your pay, for you're a dandy worker. Your influence is mighty fine, you do no useless wailing; you keep the other boys in line, and harmony's prevailing."

'HIT THE LINE HARDER WHEN BUSINESS SLOWS UP' FRED MANN TELLS RETAILERS

DEVILS LAKE, N. D., Feb. 5.—A $650,000 retail business in a town of 5000 people, doesn't slow up, even on a little snow storm, lie in the philosophy of the Iron Strike harder and often and you'll get scratching because you're not getting the order. That's my advice to you, if you're a merchant. "If business shows any indication of falling off, we put on more merchandise world by building up a store. We may cut down in every department, but we don't curtail our advertising one cent. In fact, we spend more to let the people know what we have. And the plan has worked successfully, too."

How successfully, the statistic North Dakota man boldly estimated from saying. But his friends in Devils Lake knew what in 1921, with a $1,500 stock of groceries bought "on time" and $125 borrowed from his father to pay the expenses, Mr. Mann started the business which today is the marvel of American retail trade.

How did you do it? "It is the question most frequently put to the huge North Dakotan, who is six feet five inches tall and sturdy built. "We have to get sixty or seventy miles to get a mailing list of 5,000 customers, but we have a store at Marshall Lake that is just as good as Marshall Field's, only not so big. We have dirt roads leading into our town, but they are in fairly good condition most of the time. And we have a new county highway that is being graded and gravel covered, and we get a lot of business when they get a little snow on the highway, but we cut down on their advertising appropriations. That's a mistake. I would advise cutting down on every other department; even merchandising on a lower basis of profit, but don't reduce the advertising if you want to maintain your business."

Battles of O. Houses. How the retailers of North Dakota waged war on the big mail order houses, and how they are successfully meeting this trade competition, is related by Mr. Mann.

"We've put a dent in 'em anyhow," he declares with a smile. He has the frame and spirit of the fighter, and before the fight is over it is probable that the mail order concerns competing with him near Devils Lake will know that there has been a fight in progress.

His son and his brother are associated with Mr. Mann in the business at Devils Lake. He is a Shriner, a Retarian and an Elk as well as a charter member of the Ancient and Honorable Order of Optimists and Populogists.

"We can usually get what we want, if we want it bad enough to work earnestly and intelligently for it," he asserts. "And don't forget that it pays to advertise."

EAGLE POINT EAGLETS By A. C. Kowalski

Among the noted arrivals Wednesday at the Sunnyside were Mr. and Mrs. James Grievie and son Heston. They were on the return trip from Portland and Astoria where they had been combining business with pleasure. They traveled in their own car and when they came in after the first greeting James remarked that they had just come from Portland and that he was almost starved, that he had been gauging up in anticipation of a good square meal at the Sunnyside. And as he made the remark I naturally ran my eye over the luncheon menu, at least 190 lbs. avoirdupois, and mentally measured his girth and decided that it would require, at that time at least, a sixty inch belt to encircle that bread basket and wondered how long it would have to be if he was not gauged up. He related his experience on the road and speaks in glowing terms of the great Pacific highway that is now almost completed from the northern to the southern line of our great state. As it is it is not completed as yet, although the most of it is and hard-surfaced, with the exception of a few places. But he does not think that the cooking along the route will compare with our hotels in southern Oregon—the reader will bear in mind that the hostess of the Prospect hotel is recognized as one of the best cooks in the state. They did not have any time to spend visiting as they were homeward bound and the nearer they got to their destination the more eager they were to get home. But they promised to come again when James was not so gaunt.

Fred Pettygrove was also a diner at the Sunnyside at the same time and owing to the fact that he was here about concluded to remain overnight.

Thomas P. McCabe also was here for dinner and so was George Albert. Mr. Albert is a very important factor in his line of business as he has a small motor car that he runs on the track of the P. & E. and by that means renders good service to the people back in the hills who wish to come out or are out here and wish to go to their homes in Butte Falls or beyond. When he came out he took Mrs. Buel Hildreth and her mother-in-law up with him to their homes in Butte Falls. They had been stopping at the Sunnyside for a week waiting for the weather to moderate, as there was and still is considerable snow along the track.

Mrs. James Watkins of Central Point, was out the middle of the week to visit her sister-in-law, Mrs. N. E. Watkins and daughter Anna. R. D. Hanson and E. J. Thomas were here for dinner Thursday. They are in the employ of Foster and Kiefer, successors to Klum & Co., in the advertising business. Mr. H. S. N. under the old company, was acting as general superintendent and even to be occupying the same position under the present company. His field extends from the California and Oregon line to beyond Roseburg. Mrs. C. R. Farrar of Lake Creek, came out on the Lake Creek stage Friday morning and took dinner at the Sunnyside.

Friday morning when the men who are working on the P. & E. R. went to work they were informed that their services were not required as there was so much snow on the track that they could not run the motor car to move the ties from where they were unloaded along the track to where they were needed, so they began to snatter. Mr. W. G. Smith went to join his family out on the Crater Lake highway about eight miles out, and Sam Ousey procured a job splitting stove wood and others went to their homes, but when the snow melted off and the foreman decided to go to work in the afternoon he found that he was short several men.

The continued showers that we are having greatly interfere with the work not only on the railroad but to a great extent with all kinds of work, and where men are depending on their day's wages to keep up expenses, paying board, and then have to lay off every few days it works a great hardship on them. On the other hand it is hard on the railroad owners or contractors as they are also being on their jobs, but it appears as though the employers are doing their best, and hopes are entertained that there will be a change for the better soon.

Fred Fridegar who owns a twenty acre orchard just east of our town, came in Thursday night for supper and bed. He is cleaning up his orchard and getting ready for the spring work.

Lawrence Lay of Wellen, one of our prosperous and promising young men called Friday night for supper.

Rev. H. G. King, the Sunday school evangelist who is looking after the interests of the American Sunday School Union called on our correspondent this Saturday morning and told me that Rev. P. A. Phelps of Talent would conduct services here tomorrow. I am glad to learn that our little town is attracting attention in that direction.

Today C. H. Natwick, the railroad contractor on the Butte Falls extension of the P. & E. railroad, was here for dinner and tells me that he is getting his tools, machinery and teams all ready to go to work on his contract in a few days. We also had John Butler and F. W. Reid who have been employed on the job enlarging the Fish Lake Ditch Co. canal to take water up the valley above Medford and they report that the continuous showers of rain and snow interfere greatly with the work as the ground is so soft that they have difficulty in carting the dirt away from the steam shovels.

Experiments at the University of Oregon showed that one fruit fly produced 115 female offspring and no males.

"If I Could Speak Personally to Everyone Who Has Rheumatism and Stomach Trouble I Would Tell Them to Take Tanlac," Declares Seattle Citizen. Own Health Restored.

"If I could speak to everybody personally who has rheumatism and stomach trouble I would tell them to take Tanlac, for I have tried it myself and have never found anything like it," said Herman Bostsch, 1421 West Bay Street, Seattle, Wash., well-known landscape gardener. "I hardly ever have even a twinge of rheumatism now, although this trouble had made my life miserable for many years before I was fortunate enough to find Tanlac and get relief."

"More than that, it has put my stomach in such good order that I am getting more enjoyment out of my meals than in years. In fact, I am feeling fine in every way." Tanlac and Tanlac Vegetable Pills are sold by the West Side Pharmacy, and by leading druggists everywhere. Adv.

There's Never Been a Peach Borer in Our Nursery

In some sections the peach root borer infests a large percentage of the peach roots in the nurseries. In some southern localities the dreaded Nematode or eel worm is a serious menace to peach roots. In the nineteen years we've been growing trees at Toppenish, no one has ever discovered a borer or Nematode in any of our trees.

The planter is entitled to absolute protection from all such risks. He gets it when he buys our trees. We use healthy, vigorous peach pits and bud on the resultant seedling, our peaches, plums, apricots, etc. You can't find better rooted trees than we produce on our clean, new Yakima Reservation soil.

Then our own growing of apple and pear seedlings are used for our own stock. We grow the entire tree on our own fresh clean soil from the seedling root to the finished, budded or grafted tree, one or two years old. That's the way to insure satisfaction. Our customers' appreciation is found in an increased business every year.

We want your business, but we won't book your order if we can't please you. Your money would do us no good. There are some things worth more than money. Ask us about the Wright Red Home Beauty which is Home Beauty in all particulars as to tree, bloom, bearing, ripening, keeping and shipping, but with a brilliant red coat.
