

LESS MEAT IF BACK AND KIDNEYS HURT

Take a glass of Salts to flush Kidneys If Bladder bothers you—Drink lots of water.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of ailments, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders. Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

A BUYER'S PHILOSOPHY

When I buy for service I would rather know the firm which makes the machine than to listen to wearisome talks about superior metals and brilliant engineering skill.

I don't know much about those qualities of different metals which makes them best for different purposes—nor do I know anything of the technical laws of mechanical engineering—but I do know human nature.

I know that a concern with the right ideas of service to its customers—the concern that has succeeded—has done so because its product has made good with the people who bought it.

I'll bet on that concern—and I feel comfortable when I have bought its product. It isn't good business for me to trade anywhere else. I cannot afford to do so.

We consider that our success—our nineteen years in business and the fact that our business is a growing business—has been due largely to the very fact just quoted. In no line is a greater degree of confidence placed in the seller by the buyer than in the nursery line. Therefore the nursery with an established reputation for good goods and a square deal is worthy of your patronage.

For nineteen years, we have grown and delivered from Toppensish, clean, well-rooted, thoroughly matured trees to thousands of orchardists in the State of Washington and throughout the west. We are still in the same old spot, in the same old pleasant occupation and our greatest satisfaction today is in meeting the smiling owners of productive, profit-making orchards in the trees standing in which were propagated in our nursery.

Our trees are grown on clean, new soil of the Yakima Indian Reservation. Rich soil, abundance of sunshine and moisture under control are all basic factors. But equally necessary is a continuous cultivation to develop the root system for which our trees are famous, and the hard wood fibre which is only made possible by the combination of the above necessary elements.

You can't produce good trees without brain and muscle intelligently applied. We think we know how to grow them. Our customers are sure of it.

ROUND TABLE TO BE HELD PHOENIX CHURCH TONIGHT

On Wednesday a number of the ladies of the Aid Society met at Clyde hall and spent the day cleaning and fixing it up for use. Among those were Mesdames W. E. Anderson, Otto Carter, John Roberts, C. C. Hartley, Walter Frazer Brown, Frank Dentzer and others.

Tonight (Friday) the Phoenix Brotherhood will meet at Clyde hall for a "Round Table" and general good time, with light refreshments, discussion of "Community Advancement," etc. Every man in the community is invited to attend and join in the discussion and social hour, 7:30.

About forty of the young people gathered on Monday evening at the manse for a C. E. business meeting and "observation social," and had a fine time. Several new members were received into the society.

Rev. Norman B. Harrison of Seattle has been engaged for a series of two weeks meetings at the Phoenix church to begin Sunday morning, Feb. 25th, which promise to be of unusual interest. Mr. Harrison, until a year ago, was pastor for about 10 years of the University Presbyterian church in Seattle, which grew during that time to be the second largest Presbyterian church in the city. He has since then held meetings in several Seattle churches similar to those he will conduct in Phoenix, and has been engaged constantly in Bible evangelism with much success. Make your plans to hear him. It will be worth while to keep Feb. 24 to March 10 open for these meetings.

On Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 15th the ladies of the Phoenix missionary society and their friends are invited to meet at 2:30 at the home of Mrs. T. J. Malmeron for the regular February meeting, and an interesting program. Mrs. Wm. Carless will talk on "Missionary Work Among the Indians," and Mrs. C. C. Hartley on "Korea." This will be the last meeting of this church year for payment of pledges made through the society.

Next Sunday evening, Feb. 12th, the pastor will give another chapter-lesson, entitled "Down in the Dumps," or, "How Are the Mighty Fallen," showing Elijah as he quailed and fled for his life before the threat of a wicked woman. In the morning at 11 also a sermon of special interest. Bible school at 10 o'clock with classes for all.

PARENT TEACHERS WANT TEETH IN THE CURFEW LAW

The Parent-Teacher's council of Medford is showing persistence in its efforts to make the proposed curfew ordinance effectual for its intended purpose. At the last regular meeting of the council of the several Parent-Teacher's circles of the city it was voted to circulate petitions among the circles and all other women's organizations of Medford, said petitions to urge upon the city fathers the necessity for a higher age limit than is now being considered for a municipal curfew ordinance.

The Parent-Teacher's council maintains that the proposed regulation should be operative up to the eighteenth birthday, with summer hours at 11 o'clock and winter hours at 10:30.

It is pointed out that the physical growth of early adolescence requires a long period of sleep; that satisfactory progress in school necessitates early hours; that the influence of the street after the hours proposed is not generally calculated to establish the highest moral ideals.

One of the most useful lessons for Young America is that worthy ambitions are often blighted by being exposed too much to the night air.

It is hoped by the Parent-Teacher's organization that a heavy weight of evidence will be produced by the petitions.

At the meeting mentioned above the more outstanding features were—the report of the Social Service committee, which showed that three grade schools are furnishing milk to undernourished pupils and that the committee is supervising the sewing being done for needy children; and the announcement by the chairman that all paid up members are soon to receive the Oregon Parent-Teacher's Monthly, the uniform fee of 25c in all local circles including the magazine subscription.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. George Kunzman, the vice president, Mrs. Klein, presided.

At the Page Kathlyn Williams has been known as an actress who plays powerful emotional roles and she has appeared in many a great one. But readers of Zane Grey's novels will agree that in the character "Beauty Stanton" in "The U. P. Trail," the picture which is being shown at the Page theatre tonight for the last times, Miss Williams has added greatly to her fame.

"Moonlight," a picture starring Mary Miles Minter, closes tomorrow night at the Riado theatre. It is an exceptionally clever comedy, and played by a splendid cast, it offers a sure cure for the blues.

"The Whistle" to Sound William S. Hart's new picture for Paramount, "The Whistle," will sound the rally call to the Page theatre tomorrow for three days with the three clever juvenile actors who add novelty to "The Whistle."

These are George Stone, Will Jim Hutton and little Richard Headrick the latter having already endeared himself to Page followers by his work in "The Child Thou Gavest Me."

The presence of these juveniles in the picture add mightily to the human interest as each is an admirable actor and ideally suited to the role.

The leading feminine role is played by Myrtle Steadman and Frank Brownlee is the "heavy."

Power and suspense and intense human interest are the outstanding features of this picture, while Clyde Cook will entertain in "The Toreador," his latest special two reel comedy.

May Robson Tuesday One of the best attractions booked at the Page theatre this season is May Robson in "It Pays to Smile" which comes Tuesday, Feb. 21st. The story was written by Nina Wilcox Putnam and published in the Saturday Evening Post.

Augustus Pitou Inc., saw the wonderful possibilities for their popular star, May Robson, in the character study of "Freedom Talbot," and Ethel Watts Mumford has ably adapted it for the stage, giving Miss Robson one of the best parts she's ever portrayed.

B. BALL GAMES SENT BY WIRELESS FROM CORVALLIS

The first messages between the barometer radio service of the O. A. C. and the Daily Emerald of the University of Oregon were sent out Friday evening. The first wireless messages exchanged between the two colleges were greetings and wishes for a growing spirit of friendliness and cooperation.

Results of the basketball games Friday and Saturday evenings were known in Corvallis immediately, although played in Eugene.

A regular schedule will be arranged so that information of events between the two colleges will be known directly after they happen.

The radio set at the O. A. C., has been available for a year, but arrangements were completed with the university only recently. Plans are being made for wireless communication with the University of California and the University of Washington. It is hoped that O. A. C. will soon be in close contact with all the large colleges of the Pacific coast.

EAGLE POINT EAGLETS

By A. C. Kowitz

Sunday morning came warm and pleasant, considering that it was the first Sunday in February and there was nothing unusual occurred. It had been announced the day before that Rev. F. A. Phelps would preach at the close of Sunday school and also at night, but an announcement of that kind does not cause any special excitement in our quiet little town and there were only about the usual number that attend Sunday school present, and during the afternoon he and Rev. H. G. King, the Sunday school evangelist for the Sunday School union called on your correspondent and inquired something about Rev. H. G. Adams, the minister in charge of the work here. They only remained a short time, but the next day I learned that there were about the usual number of people out Sunday night. Mr. Phelps represented himself as a traveling evangelist from Idaho, but I did not learn anything of his plans or purpose, as I was not in a condition to entertain company.

Last week J. W. Johnston who has charge of the selling of the blooded horses on the Kirtland farm had farewell to your correspondent and family, took the stallion, "Retab," that he brought over here to sell, back to the farm as he had failed thus far to accomplish a sale, although there were quite a number of horsemen around here who wanted to have an interest in him but could not agree in the organization of a company, so he gave it up as a failure, but after he took him home Fred Pettigrew, after trying to secure a third interest in him, concluded to buy him himself so went over to the farm and made the deal and Monday the horse was brought back, the deal perfected and now Fred Pettigrew has him on his own place. It seems to be a general opinion among horsemen that it is a fine thing for the entire community that he is left in this section of the country as his coits are said to be among the best in the country. I heard Mr. Pettigrew say the day he received him that he had quite number of mares already engaged and anticipates having all that he can serve.

Last Monday I mustered up courage to try to go to the postoffice for the first time in five weeks lacking one day, and after crossing our wire suspension bridge I began to look around to see what I could that would be of interest to the general reader of the Medford Mail Tribune and the first place of interest that I came to was the old Eagle Point Hardware store, where so many of the farmers resorted to, not only to buy what they needed in that line, but to spend a few minutes with the genial proprietor, Roy Ashpole, it being one of the old landmarks where hundreds of autos stopped enroute to the different parts of the country, for gasoline, oil and other things necessary for their outfit, but when I reached the old store building found it locked and looking through the windows saw only a few of the many articles that were on exhibit a few weeks ago as the rest had been sold or moved to the new headquarters of the new firm of Ashpole and Nichols in the old Von der Helde hardware store. And it was with a feeling of sadness that I look around and think of the changes that are continually taking place in this busy world of ours.

Passing on my way, but somewhat worried with my work, inasmuch as the Lewis confectionery store I began to meet some of the oldtimers, but hurried on as best I could to the next station, W. L. Childreth's blacksmith shop. I squared myself on the end of a horseshoe keg about tired out. While enroute to my resting place Frank Brown, one of our prosperous and affable merchants passed me and expressed his joy on seeing me on the street again and at the shop I found our old standby, W. L. Childreth, hammering away on horse shoes, and one of Charley Dellin's young bustling teamsters, Dale Shelley, who was working on the Crater Lake highway having him fit the shoe just to his notice, and he was putting it on a horse for Ed Dutton, but there was quite a group around the shop who seemed to be there for the same reason that I was, to see and be seen, although there were some who were on business. But it looked good to see so many of our old neighbors and friends enjoying the warm sunshine.

Among those I met there was our old road supervisor, Wm. Perry, and W. P. Hurst and another man sitting on a pile of lumber outside of the shop enjoying the morning sun, and L. P. Terrill of Big Stickey who was having his horses shod, and Frank Roberts, also of Big Stickey, looking as though he was enjoying his usual health, and John Smith, the old standby, who reported that his son Poik, while working on the railroad had had one of his fingers badly jammed, besides several other. After resting awhile I started again for the postoffice and after inspecting my post-office box turned across the street for Nichols' store and on the way met the saleslady who has charge of the store, Mrs. R. A. Weidman, rushing to the postoffice to mail a package by parcels post, and soon was seated by a warm stove taking a good and much needed rest, and as I entered the store found our old reliable creamery and eggman, C. E. Bellows interviewing the creamery truck driver regarding more cream cans, and Mrs. Weidman about that time was calling on him for egg crates, which he failed to have on hand. I did not feel strong enough to proceed on down to the Brown store or to visit the Ashpole & Nichols new stand but soon started on the return trip for home.

R. H. G. Adams, the preacher, in charge of this field, started for Butte Falls the 28th of last month to hold a meeting there and the only word from him up to date, Feb. 5th, was that he was to continue the meeting over last Sunday, Feb. 5th, and that he would preach in Brownsboro in the forenoon next Sunday and here at night the same Sunday.

The expression, "We're in the same boat," was first used by a Chinese writer.

Goes Farther

A can of Calumet Baking Powder will make more pies, cakes, biscuits, muffins, etc. than a can of most other brands. It lasts longer—goes farther because it contains more than the ordinary leavening strength—therefore you use less.

When a recipe calls for two teaspoons of baking powder, use two level teaspoons of Calumet, the results will always be the same—perfectly raised bakings—remember this when you buy baking powder and don't forget that Calumet is the economic buy because it goes farther.

A pound can of Calumet contains full 16 oz. Some baking powders come in 12 oz. instead of 16 oz. cans. Be sure you get a pound when you want it.
