COLLEGES STAGE GLEE CLUB BOUT CARNEGIE HALL

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Ten college glee clubs are going to compete at Carnegie Hall, March 4. The winners are coming from Harvard, Princeton, Yale, Amherst, Columbia, Dartmouth, New York University, Penn State, University of Pennsylvania and Wesleyan. The club judged the best of all is to receive a cup from the University Glee Club of New York. The judges are Dr. Walter Damrosch, conductor of the New York Symphony Orchestra, Henry Hadley, composer and director, and George Chadwick, director of the New England Conservatory of Music. Persons who have no liking for Damrosch's 'Give a House' will steer clear of Carnegie Hall on March 4 for that air is to be sung by each of the 10 clubs and they will be judged thereby. As a relief, the singers can contribute any other numbers they wish to the glee of the occasion. The competitions, which are for the purpose of encouraging choral singing, began in 1914, and the number of participating clubs has steadily increased. Harvard won first prize the last three years successively.
