With a view to adjusting the adopted text more nearly to the variable conditions found in each local community, a manual and outline for the teaching of agriculture in the elementary grades of the Oregon schools is being sent out by J. A. Churchill, state superintendent of public instruction. In the foreword of the new manual, Superintendent Churchill recognizes the fact that "the very large majority of country school teachers have neither the training nor the inclination to lead their pupils successfully in a study which is so foreign to their own experiences." The manual is designed with a view to enabling such teachers to take the standard text adopted by the state textbook commission and use it efficiently.

Sage Tea and Sulphur Darkens So Naturally that Nobody can tell.

Hair that loses its color and lustre, when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grand mother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair, which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wych's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wych's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

Wych's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite to impart color and a youthful appearance to the hair. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.
