

BETTER DAY AHEAD SAYS 'Y' OFFICIAL IN FINE ADDRESS

Men who attended the Roberts luncheon yesterday were given an intellectual treat as well. Mr. Roberts, who is an International Y. M. C. A. secretary, with headquarters in New York city, brought one of the most thoughtful addresses which has been heard here recently.

With a clear-eyed vision beyond the cynicism and distorted thinking characteristic of multitudes today, Mr. Roberts accepts the present chaotic condition of the affairs of men and nations as what history should have taught us is the inevitable backwash of war; but with the philosopher's steady faith he sees the dawning of the new day. He warns against the futility of constantly harking back to the days "before the war." He says it's fine to have "laurels on one's brow," but it is suicidal to "brown on one's laurels," and so the definite and confident forward look is necessary.

Mr. Roberts says that when General Sherman made his classic characterization of war, he was not thinking merely of the killing of men, but rather of the conditions through which we are now passing. He apologized for the title saying that "nations are looking to America." "With two million Frenchmen under the sod a million and a half hopelessly maimed and a million and a half more staggering back from prison camps, the wrecks of their former selves, and with other world powers in a similar state, where would they look other than to America?" said the speaker. He further said that world leadership of the future must come from the schools of America. The saviors of the civilized world, the boys in khaki, served nobly in their day, but the experiences of the great conflict have, in a very certain sense unfitted them for leadership in the days of reconstruction. The challenge is to the youth of America, the youth of the country-side; not the prematurely old and wise offspring of the city breed; our boys and girls, a generation far enough from the actual conflict to feel its glorious idealism, but not its sordid abuses.

The speaker then laid the responsibility for their preparation for this leadership on the men and women, to guide them patiently and conscientiously through the strange varieties of adolescence to the threshold of man and womanhood. Mr. Roberts also spoke both in the Medford and Ashland high schools, seeking to impress indelibly upon the young folks the responsibility which is theirs. He says our youth, to be worthy of their trust, must be clean in mind and body. He says that the president of the National Cash Register company has told him that if he himself smoked cigarettes it would cost the company $25,000 a year in the lowered efficiency of the employees, whom he must of course accord the same privilege as himself. The speaker also said that they must "play the game according to the rules." Clean methods in business are what win and not "pull," or preference. He made a plea for chivalry among our young people, the quality which honors all womanhood with the respect and demand for our own mothers and sisters. He said that Christ must lead America. There is no human reason why our men were able to stop the Prussians at Belleau Wood. So if our leadership is to succeed, Christ must be entered in our lives, for the task before young America is infinitely bigger than the one which faced our fathers and brothers on the western front. Mr. Roberts goes from here to the Y. M. C. A. convention at San Francisco.

LANDIS TO QUIT BENCH

plea which finally won over the jurist. The resignation of Judge Landis takes from the federal bench one of the most feared and at the same time the most respected judges in the country. His unusual conduct in court, where he frequently took cases out of attorneys' hands and examined witnesses himself, caused him to be feared by all lawbreakers. At the same time his reputation for administering justice regardless of technicalities which sometimes obscured pertinent facts, brought him universal respect. He was vigorous in his attitude against anti-Americans during the war. His son, Reed Landis, was serving with the British air service, and the judge several times tried to obtain war work which would send him across but failed. In every war case brought before him where the defendant was found guilty the judge imposed heavy sentences.

His strong rancor against anti-Americanism was particularly demonstrated in the trials of I. W. W.'s, socialists and pacifists brought before him. In one speech during the war he advocated that the German kaiser and his six sons be executed by allied firing squads "out of justice to humanity."

Judge Landis was made one of the thirty persons to whom bombs were mailed on May day, 1918, and during the 1911 blackhand trials here he received many death threats. Against the wishes of his friends he insisted on sitting through the trials.

Judge Landis first became a national figure when he fined the Standard Oil company of Indiana $29,240,000, which decision later was reversed by a higher court.

Judge Landis said he had mailed his resignation today, addressing it to President Harding personally.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—President John A. Heydler of the National League expressed gratification today when informed by the Associated Press that Judge K. M. Landis had resigned from the bench to devote his entire time to the technical control of professional baseball.

"The major and minor leagues and the baseball public at large are to be congratulated," said he, "Judge Landis' decision means everything for the sport. "Under the terms of his contract signed in 1920 Judge Landis will continue to receive the same remuneration as in the past," Mr. Heydler said. His contract, running for a period of seven years, called for an annual salary of $50,000, with a deduction equivalent to his salary as a judge.

WHEAT PRICES DROP AND RALLY UPON ENGLISH 'CHANGE

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—Wheat declined today during the early trading, affected chiefly by downturns in quotations at Liverpool. Besides numerous holders of wheat continued to show a disposition to realize profits whenever the market rallied. In some quarters there was evidence of a desire to let go of May contracts and to take July instead because of unfavorable weather and crop reports from the south-west.

Opening quotations which varied from unchanged figures to 3/4c lower, with May $1.29 to $1.29 1/2, and July $1.21 1/4 to $1.2, were followed by an irregular but general decline.

Corn and oats eased down with wheat. After opening 1/4c and 1/2c off May 62 1/2 to 63, the corn market recovered to some extent.

Oats started a shade to 3/4c lower, May 42 to 42 1/2c and later rallied a little.

Absence of offerings made provisions average higher, despite contrary action of hog and grain values.

LADY IN MOURNING GARB FOUND DEAD, TRACKS IN SNOW

CAMDEN, N. J., Feb. 18.—The frozen body of a young woman bearing the imprint of fingers on the throat, was found today twenty feet from the driveway that leads from the Kaighan avenue bridge over Cooper creek to Forest Hill park. Tracks of an automobile and the footprints of two men were found in the snow around the body.

The body was found by a lamp trimmer employed by the public service corporation. The woman was about 30 years of age and was dressed in what detectives described as a "mourning" costume.

There was no evidence of a struggle, leading the police to believe the woman was either dead or unconscious when laid in the snow.

There were several deep scratches on the throat. The body must have been exposed to the cold for many hours, in the opinion of Coroner Hall.

The driveway was deserted last night and no one has been found who saw or heard an automobile in that vicinity.

KANSAS AGITATOR BEHIND IN VOTE UNITED MINERS

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 18.—The majority in the roll call against naming Alexander Howat and his associate Kansas following nominated in the convention of the United Mine Workers of America, 400,000 men, was marked by disorder.

The administration was 65 votes in the majority after the Illinois delegation had cast its vote. The majority then was 10 28 on scattering returns and with nine small districts left to vote, delegates express doubt of a substantial change.

Mother Jones, 52-year-old organizer, took the convention in hand at the height of the disorders and succeeded in quieting the delegates for the time. This came after a charge that the administration had increased the eligible voting list. Vice President Philip Murray was presiding.

Mr. Murray explained that the committee had accepted credentials that were submitted too late for inclusion in the printed roll call. The explanation apparently was not satisfactory to the Howat men, who continued the noise.

Then Mother Jones made her dramatic appearance. The howls and hoists changed almost instantly to cheers and she began addressing the delegates.

Mother Jones praised Howat for his opposition to the Kansas industrial court law and his other work as a member of the miners' union, saying "my desire is to have a million Alexander Howat's in the country. Howat's fight, she said, had advertised the damnable Kansas law."
