Ye Smudge Pot By Arthur Perry.

All doubt about the peace treaties passing by an overwhelming vote is dispelled by the news that Woodrow Wilson is well enough to oppose them.

The glare of bright haloes, and the flutter of wings is heard in the primary campaign. All the candidates can now make their voices tremble, while telling the women, "the boys and girls must be saved!"

"Scions of Portland Elite" were nabbed in the raid on a lowdown negro dive Sunday. It is not socially correct to be caught in such a place, so the metropolitan dailies could only publish the correct name of a working girl, who had no friends and less money, but was among those present.

"WHEN DIAMOND CUTS DIAMOND" (U. P. Dispatch) San Francisco, Feb. 6.—Anita Diamond has been granted a divorce from Louis Diamond, jeweler on grounds of desertion. She was awarded the custody of their daughter, Ruby.

James J. Jeffries has started his career as an evangelist at Los Angeles, and did not play leap frog with the pulpit, or turn handspins down the aisle. The ex-champion will not be much of a success from this start, though, as he gains experience, he may be able to leave a town he visits in such shape it will never get over one of his revivals. The report states that Mr. Jeffries' first collection was large, with the minimum of pants buttons.

Farmers are alleging there has not been enough rain in the valley this year. The only time there was enough rain was the year of the first and biggest flood.

C. Heller was over from Willows Saturday evening to attend the dance. (Chico Enterprise). Only a few of the tribe left.

A WELL THROWN FIT (New York Herald)

For two or three years the purists in congress have viewed with horror the alleged expenditures made by Senator Newberry from his own purse—from his own purse, mind you—to secure his nomination for the United States senate. Today many of these same men—these same purists, mind you—who denounced Newberry in bitter and most scathing terms, are themselves out for the purchase of votes, but this time not with their own money but with your money, Mr. Citizen. This is what jamming through the bonus bill means stated in cold facts.

WANTED—Male stenographer for San Joaquin Valley who can cook and who is a practicing attorney. (Want Ad Los Angeles Times). "And, after supper mow the lawn."

THE LOVING CUP (With apologies to Walt Mason)

To the City of Roses was given a cup full of posies, flowers of gratitude and appreciation for generous deeds too many to mention; but just to recall a few, as humble pensioners should do—there's help to our normal school, the fishing bill for Crater Lake, and, for the good land sake! I most forgot the Japs! Yes—they have roses in their laps and coffee and canned stuff to sell; yes—they do need us like—well, it will do to tell, how much we of them, then perhaps, maybe, when they have something to give, the cup will prove to be a sieve; the gratitude bread will come back as a cake, full of raisins and plums for someone to take. "And he stuck in his thumb, and he pulled out a plum, and he said 'oh my! I'll be a congressman bye and bye.'" PEGGY LOVE.

ECONOMICS VS. POLITICS

IF YOUR friend Jones were attacked by thugs, and you went to his rescue, saved Jones' life, and then loaned Jones money to pay his doctors' bills, you would naturally expect Jones to pay back that loan, promptly and with a grateful heart.

So the man in the street regards the loans Uncle Sam made to his European allies in the world war. All this talk about cancelling the loans to England and France makes the American people as a whole unspeakably sick. Both the business and moral obligations appear plain. Any public man who would seriously advocate wiping out these rightful debts, would be hounded out of office by outraged public opinion.

Nevertheless all the best informed economists seem to think this is the thing to do. And now comes Frank H. Simonds, in the current "Review of Reviews" and also says it is the thing to do.

The payment of these billions declares Mr. Simonds will do Uncle Sam far more harm than good, will in fact compel our Uncle to jump from the frying pan into the fire.

For all these debts can't be paid in cash, most must be paid in goods. And being paid in goods, any business revival in this country or in the world will be delayed ten or twenty years. It will add to our too large stocks of gold on one hand, it will increase unemployment on the other; the "American farmer, cotton grower, cattle raiser will find his market still farther restricted and the return of prosperity in the United States will be thereby further delayed."

Assuming Mr. Simonds and the economists are right, the difficulty before the present administration, or any administration, is plain. The American people as a whole, have no time for fine spun economic theories. They see the situation in broad and simple outlines, as illustrated in the example of Jones.

Under the circumstances with the payment of the foreign debt in 25 years with interest agreed upon, it is not surprising that President Harding should feel justified in seeking physical rehabilitation with his golf sticks, somewhere in Florida.

There are, however, so many reasons for adding Diamond Lake to the park that they seem to outweigh all considerations of power. The plan would add indefinitely to the attractiveness of Crater Lake park. It would give the railroads and the National Park bureau greatly increased data for advertising Oregon attractions. It would go far to solve the problem of making resort hotels in the park self-supporting.

And there are other reasons.—Portland Journal.

The inevitable: A lazy man's alibi.

Hollywood appears to be in need of a little judicious pruning.

"The voice of the people demands sound financing." Sure. But it needs a sound amplifier.

Suggested subhead for all stories concerning methods of raising the bonus: "Read 'em and weep."

A woman never realizes that the worst has happened until the salesman says: "We have some charming models in stouts."

The public is beginning to suspect that a star of first magnitude is one who loves the director.

What we can't understand is how the small investor so unerringly picks out the swindlers to handle his funds.

When one's arteries begin to harden, about the only pleasure left is that of scolding about the way the young people dress.

The agricultural bloc can't remove all of the farmer's troubles, however, unless it can get control of the weather bureau.

When a car can't pull through, they say the engine is missing; when a bank can't pull through, they say the cashier is missing.

'T WAS EVER THUS.

I WEAR my silken shirts and scarves, and shoes that cost twelve bones, and somewhere some poor aleck starves, and sends up anguished groans. I eat long strips of costly pie, and drink imported tea; and hungry reubens amble by, and doubtless snarl at me. I ride around in my sedan whose price was pretty steep, and pass some sore and seedy man who has no place to sleep. Oh, is it right and is it just for me to ride in state, while, blinded by my smoke and dust, toils on some hapless skate? Am I a sinner when I eat, or buy a gorgeous lid, or clothe my large but shapely feet in kangaroo or kid? Would there be less poverty, of sorrow and despair, if I should from the fleshpots flee and fill a hermit's lair? I doubt it much; the wail of woe would rise from people riled, if I should let my whiskers grow and in the woods run wild. If I quit buying shirts and hats, with my spare chickenfeed, some girls in crowded city flats might lose the jobs they need. The boss would say, "There's been a slump in spangled shirts and socks, and so I shoo you to the dump, and pay you no more roeks." It's hard to know just what to do, in this cheap vale of tears; the thing that looks all right to you, to me a frost appears.

SEVEN NEBRASKA MOTHERS ATTEND GIRL'S SCHOOL

LINCOLN, Neb., March.—Seven Nebraska mothers, carrying from four to ten credit hours, have become the schoolmates of their daughters at the University of Nebraska. In the case of two of the mothers it is the realization of a girlhood ambition to attend college. The others are enrolled for individual purposes, one to learn American ideals, another to study modern student life, and still another to theorize.

Mrs. U. C. Brecht is the mother of three children, all girls, and now her classmates. The entire family is studying dairy and animal husbandry.

Daughter Emma and her mother, Mrs. Emma J. Koch, frequently are mistaken for sisters in university circles. Mrs. Koch is a sophomore, and besides, has two step-granddaughters in Cotner university. Art, renaissance history and economics are found on Mrs. Koch's card.

Mrs. Frederica Lau received her higher education in a German institution. So she entered the university with her two daughters to "be with Americans and learn their ideals."

Philosophy, art, history, federal administration, economics, business administration and kindred subjects draw the mothers of four other students to the university. Two of these mothers report it "rather hard to get back into the swing of school work—there is so much to unlearn that we learned before." These mothers report a change in theories—but to their liking.

These seven mothers are regularly enrolled students.

Quotes Shakespeare In Child Labor Case

WASHINGTON, Mar. 8.—A brief of many novel and unusual features has been filed in the supreme court by the government in the child labor law cases, argument on which was begun late yesterday.

In it Solicitor General Beck quotes Shakespeare at length in support of the contention that "unless the people themselves awaken to the fact that they themselves must defend and preserve their own institutions and not rely wholly upon this court as a tutelary guardian, a serious if not a revolutionary change may develop." The brief also through an appendix points a historical moral in the French revolution, which parallel column methods are used to strengthen the argument.

Wire Hundreds Houses For Radio Telephone

PHILADELPHIA, Mar. 9.—A local builder announced today that the one hundred million dollars worth of houses he is building will be wired for radio telephone service.

CHICAGO, Mar. 9.—The local weather bureau is completing plans for the broadcasting of weather reports by radio. The service is expected to start within a day or two and is expected to reach a 200-mile radius.

Good for That "Flu" Cough. For quick relief from the wearing coughs that "hang on" after the gripe or influenza, take Foley's Honey and Tar. Mrs. K. D. Drake, Childs, Md., writes: "After an attack of the flu that left me with a severe cough nothing seemed to relieve me till I tried Foley's Honey and Tar, which I can highly recommend." It is also good for croup, whooping cough and colds. It puts a soothing, healing coating over the inflamed surfaces, cuts the phlegm, eases hoarseness, clears the air passages. Sold everywhere.
