

FOREST SERVICE WILL PROTECT WATER SUPPLY

Geo. H. Cecil Announces Cottage Grove Water Supply Will Be Fully Protected—Policy Toward Water in Oregon Cities Is Outlined.

PORTLAND, March 15.—Announcement has just been made by District Forester Geo. H. Cecil of the signing of an agreement by Henry C. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, and George O. Knowles, mayor of Cottage Grove, for the protection of the water supply of the town of Cottage Grove, Oregon.

This agreement provides that the watershed of Dinner Creek, an area of some 6,000 acres, within the Umpqua national forest, will be protected from fire, use by livestock, from camping or other human use, in order that possible contamination of the city's water supply may be guarded against. No timber will be allowed to be cut within the area prior to 1922, "except where necessary in connection with serious forest fires, insect infestation, or other catastrophes which necessitate in the public welfare the immediate salvage of dead or infested timber. No permanent buildings nor camps nor habitations shall be permitted on the area above the intake of the town's water supply system, and all persons employed therein or occupying such lands for any purpose shall observe the strict sanitation regulations as may be agreed upon by the forest service and the City of Cottage Grove."

The secretary agrees also, as far as practicable with the means at his disposal, to extend and improve the forests upon this watershed by seeding and planting, and by the most approved methods of silviculture and forest management. The city agrees to cooperate actively with the officers of the Umpqua national forest in the protection from fire and patrol of such lands, and to pay the salaries of such additional guards as shall be needed to insure protection.

In making this announcement, Mr. Cecil brought out the fact that within the states of Oregon and Washington 84 cities and towns derive their water supplies wholly from the national forests, and that the forest service protects from fire any deleterious use of the watersheds from which these water supplies are derived. The most notable example is that of Bull Run watershed, within the Oregon national forest, which supplies the City of Portland with its entire water supply, and which is very jealously guarded from any use by human beings or livestock. Mr. Cecil also emphasized that the two main functions of the national forests are the production of timber and the protection of water supplies, whether those be for municipal use, for irrigation or for water power, and that other uses, such as livestock and recreation, important as these have become, must always be harmonized with the two primary functions of timber production and protection of water flows.

In view of the fact that the forest service has recently denied protection to Medford's water supply as far as clearing off the timber at Fish Lake is concerned, this article will be of decided interest to the people of Medford.

MADRID, Mar. 15.—Spanish forces continue their successes against the Moroccan rebels despite stiff resistance, the latest official statement says, describing the occupation of Ichil Sidi Salam. Spanish warships bombarded the coast between the mouth of the river Keat and Afran.

Now Showing at Rialto Theater

Scene from MARY PICKFORD'S 'LITTLE LORD FAUNTLEROY'

"There are many features," says Mr. Antle, manager of the Rialto, "that indicate 'Little Lord Fauntleroy' is not only Mary Pickford's greatest photoplay but one of the most remarkable film plays ever shown. It is rich in color and human interest. We see Mary depicting a Fauntleroy who is all boy despite his curls, spotless collars and handsome velvet suits. For a dressed-up boy, he certainly does get powerfully mused up at times, much to the amusement of his stern old grandfather and to the chagrin of his idolizing mother."

The work Miss Pickford does in the dual role is said to be by far the best of her career. Her sympathetic interpretation of the mother part is a startling contrast against her portrayal of the boisterous, mischievous and exuberant boy.

Some of the best character actors in the cinema world will be seen in this picture, which opens a four days engagement at the Rialto theatre today, among them Claud Gillingwater, James A. Marcus, Kate Price, Fred Malatesta and others.

Special music was written for the production by Louis Gottschalk and will contribute materially to the presentation by Buster La Mar at the organ.

LADY ALICE WHITE MURDERED AFTER HER BRIDGE PARTY

LONDON, Mar. 15.—(By Associated Press.) Lady Alice White, who was found unconscious in her room in a London hotel yesterday morning, died this morning at 3 o'clock. A burglar is believed to have inflicted the fatal injury. A fracture of the skull caused death.

Lady White, widow of Sir Edward White, late chairman of the London county council, during a moment of consciousness made a brief statement before her death this morning. She asserted that a burglar had entered her room through a window and struck her. A woman occupant of a nearby room reported having heard a scream after Lady White retired Monday night and the assumption is that when she shouted for help the burglar struck her on the head. The police report nothing had been disturbed in the room. Lady White had given a bridge party in the hotel Monday evening, retiring about 11 o'clock. She was between 50 and 60 years old.

University President Closes Up Meeting

WORCESTER, Mass., Mar. 15.—Dr. Wallace W. Atwood, president of Clark university, invaded a lecture in the assembly hall last night before the university liberal club where Professor Scott Nearing, sociologist, was speaking, and after three times ordering the lecture closed, caused the lights to be turned out.

The audience of 300 filed out, hissing their disapproval. Professor Nearing who was dismissed from the University of Pennsylvania because of alleged radical views was criticizing the economic principles of government, society and churches in general and universities and colleges in particular.

BROOKLYN STEALS A MARCH ON OTHER BIG LEAGUE CLUBS

CHICAGO, March 15.—Brooklyn stole a march on other National league baseball teams at its training camp this morning. Burleigh Grimes, the Dodger, pitching ace, who had almost been given up, has signed a two-year contract and George Whitted, formerly of Pittsburgh has been added to the team. Brooklyn refused to waive Whitted out of the league and thus acquired one of the most versatile players in the game.

Meanwhile comes the announcement from the Yankee camp that Bobby Roth has been chased off the lot indefinitely for an infraction of the rules and that George Herman Ruth has been promoted for mere home run making to field marshal, and will get plenty of extra chances to argue with the umpires during the season.
