MELLON OBJECTS TO A FARMER ON FEDERAL RESERVE

WASHINGTON, Mar. 15.—Objection to increasing the membership of the federal reserve board with a view to giving agricultural interests representation, as proposed in a bill passed by the senate, was voiced today by Secretary Mellon at a hearing before the house banking committee.

The measure provides that the bill shall have eight instead of seven members and stipulates that the president in making appointments shall give "due regard to a fair representation of agriculture as well as commercial and industrial interests. Mr. Mellon contended that the reserve board as now constituted was looking after the interests of farmers, declaring it was natural that some on the board should always be interested primarily in credit as it affects farming regions.

The treasury secretary also expressed opposition to a suggestion that the secretary of agriculture be made an ex-officio member of the board, declaring that such an increase in membership would have a tendency to make the board unwieldy and less efficient.

FORM BASEBALL TEAM IN CITY

Interest taken in the baseball meeting last evening at the American Legion club rooms indicated a well defined demand for a team here this summer. Both players and fans expressed themselves as willing to cooperate in an effort to put out a team which could schedule games with teams in this vicinity with a prospect of some high class baseball.

The matter of securing the backing of several Medford organizations was gone into and if this co-operation is received, Medford will have a team this year to be proud of. There is considerable fine talent here, among them being some new comers who are rated as among the best in semi-professional ball and with these additions to several well known local players who have formed the nucleus of the teams heretofore, Medford should have a snappy organization.

FIERY, ITCHY ECZEMA HEALED RIGHT UP BY APPLYING SULPHUR

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment and disfigurement. Sufferers from skin trouble should get a little jar of Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like a cold cream.

A New High School for Medford

By B. F. Lindas.

The most important duty of any community is to properly educate its children. A city may boast of its commercial importance, of its bank clearings, of its hustling citizens, of its many natural advantages, but unless along with it, it has the means of taking care of the educational training of the youth, it will not be attractive to the best class of people, it will not long appeal to the highest type of citizenship and it will soon deteriorate to a third-class town.

It is true that Medford has a wonderful future before it. It is well advertised along many lines: it has natural advantages, both scenic and commercial, that will help it grow into a real metropolis, but unless it gives more thought to education, it will miss developing that subtle atmosphere of refinement and culture that is half the charm of living.

It is difficult in this day and age to properly educate without the proper facilities. With a crowded school, a poorly equipped school, with students and teachers alike harassed by the inconveniences of disorganized classes, there is a lowered morale that does not speak well for the town.

Medford has some real spirit among its pupils and teachers. It does one good to attend an athletic contest and listen to the enthusiastic support given the teams, but how much better it would be if the people of Medford could catch some of that same enthusiasm and say to the boys and girls, "We are going to give you the finest high school that our money will buy. We are going to give you every advantage that you could get in any town of the state. We are going to make you as proud of us as we are of you." Do this, and I'll venture to say you will create a debt of gratitude in the hearts of these men and women of tomorrow that will return a hundred fold all that we do for them.

It is true that many will say that we can't afford it; that we have a heavy indebtedness now, etc. But what are the facts of the matter? Here is a list of the cities of the state about the size of Medford and here is how their bonded indebtedness for school districts stands.

|-------------|--------------|
| Albany | $146,000.00 |
| Baker | 182,000.00 |
| Bend | 157,000.00 |
| Good River | 139,000.00 |
| La Grande | 171,500.00 |
| McMinnville | 138,000.00 |
| Oregon City | 123,000.00 |
| Pendleton | 160,000.00 |
| MEDFORD | 105,000.00 |

The average for all the cities of this class in Oregon, not counting Portland, is $116,567.

Now how can we, in the face of this showing, keep insisting that we cannot afford a new high school? Suppose we do put an additional burden on our shoulders. Can't we do what other towns have done? Are we to be so parsimonious that we can't afford to see the splendid young men and young women of Medford crowded into a poorly equipped, out-of-date, and dilapidated structure, while the other cities of Oregon are giving their youth every attention?

We can put over things in Medford if we desire. We have one of the best paved and best lighted cities in the country; we have recently raised money for a fair grounds and an armory, now let us all pull together for a new high school; for a school that will place us on the map as alive educationally as well as commercially. It will be the best investment we ever made. If necessary, let us prime our expenses in every other line, but let us be open-handed and liberal when it comes to such an important matter as education.

So we want to ask for the co-operation of every live citizen of Medford. We want you to take an interest in

NOVEL CONTEST FOR NAMING MICHELIN MAN

Carl Fichtner, the local Michelin tire dealer is very enthusiastic over the nation-wide contest now being conducted by the Michelin Tire company offering $1000 in cash and sixty-five other prizes for securing a suitable name for the interesting tire man which has been a feature of Michelin advertising for many years, and whose antics have amused countless thousands of people.

"This tire man already has a fame, but the Michelin company feels the name is not exactly suitable because it is not a name easily understood or remembered. It is libelous, and is hardly suitable for American use.

The story about the original naming of the Michelin Man takes the reader back to France where the modern pneumatic tire had its birth-place in the Michelin works at Clermont-Ferrand. The story goes that the Michelin man was developed from a crude idea suggested by a workman in the factory who noticed a pile of tires, carelessly assembled, bore a crude resemblance to a man. He mentioned this to a member of the advertising staff, who developed the idea, using tires of different sizes.

All the contestant has to do is of course first find a suitable name for the tire man and an appropriate slogan or phrase of not more than ten words. After selecting a name and phrase the contestant simply mails them to the Michelin factory at Milltown, New Jersey, before March 25th.

The contestant should first learn all he can about Michelin Tires and the Michelin man. To help him the company has provided Mr. Fichtner with circulars telling all about the House of Michelin, also has printed postcard forms for use in sending names.

Foley Kidney Pills help the kidneys rid the system of acids and waste that cause lameness, backache, sore muscles, swollen joints and rheumatic pains. Tonic in effect, quick in action. EDMONDS SHOE CO. STANDARDIZES SHOES

The Edmonds Shoe company of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, has succeeded in standardizing the manufacture of their "Foot Fitter" shoes, thus enabling them to manufacture a shoe of the finest quality and workmanship at a minimum cost and the buyer gets the benefit.

One interesting feature is that the shoes contain no leather substitutes, and in spite of the present leather market conditions, the price has not advanced.

In the "Foot Fitter" factory, each shoe maker does just one thing—and does that well. This specialization lowers manufacturing costs.

Another point of interest is the establishing of an exclusive "Foot Fitter" agency in practically every town and city in the country. C. M. Kidd & Co., are local dealers.

The Edmonds Shoe company has further standardized by making only one shoe. That is, one quality, one grade, and one leather in three lasts, which have been nicknamed Tom, Dick and Harry.

Tom and Dick are made in both a rich mahogany shade and black, while Harry is only made in a mahogany shade.

A well-known slogan of the company is "Wear a good pair yourself."

MARY PICKFORD WINS IN LITTLE LORD FAUNTLEROY

There came to the Rialto yesterday for a four days run, a photoplay that left a profound impression on the audience. It was Mary Pickford's "Little Lord Fauntleroy," the most appealing and at the same time one of the most perfect photoplays ever to pass thru a projecting machine. The mingled laughter and tears, accentuated by resounding applause, acclaimed "America's Sweetheart" goddess supreme of the roles of Dearest and Little Lord Fauntleroy will probably never be approached by anyone in the picture realm. The fine artistry, the delicate shading, the conviction brought to these widely different parts by Mary Pickford, represents the greatest achievement of all time in the shadow world.

Among the players whose interpretations do much to make "Little Lord Fauntleroy" the crowning screen achievement are Claude Gillingwater as the earl, Joseph J. Dowling, as Havisham the solicitor, Collin Kenny, as Bevis, the earl's eldest son, and the three cronies, Mrs. McGinty played by Kate Price; Mr. Hobbs by James A. Marcus, and Dick by Frederick M. Maletesta. Others are Rose Dione as Minna, the pretender, Francis Marion, as her son, and Madame de Bodamere in the role of Mrs. Higgins.
