Ye Smudge Pot

By Arthur Perry.

In the senseless backbiting prevalent in humanity at this time, and the tidal wave of agitation that ranges from the seething unrest in India, to the small town quarrelling over what church John Jones belongs to, there is ground to doubt the famous truth of Robert G. Ingersoll.

"That civilization hangs by a pair of suspenders." The suspenders seem to have come apart where they cross in the back, with three buttons gone in front. The world is suffering from an overdose of the "New Era" bunk, and the "New Freedom" bosh.

What creation needs is a little more sociability: a lot more of the Golden Rule. Unless the masses and the classes snap out of it pretty soon Russia will not be the only country hopelessly nutty.

A no. of people are suffering from what is generally known as spring fever, with symptoms of it all winter.

Congress denies the charge of ex-service men, that "the business interests and the money power are favored." This is borne out by the fact that the last named have never got the worst of it, to date.

It has been over a month since the movies furnished a scandal worthy of a spot on the front page of the papers.

The drive passion is dying hard. Children in the rural schools are still giving money for the starving Armenians. Somebody ought to write the starving Armenians a letter threatening to put them to work.

The militia ought to be sent over to Jville to keep irate citizens from pulling up the trees by the roots, right after they pay their taxes.

James Middleton Cox sasshaying around Massachusetts, under the hallucination that he is injuring Senator Lodge's chances for re-election announces that "the people never understood him." It is barely possible that Mr. Cox never understood the people.

The rain in the valley is below normal, and so is the sunshine.

The first epiphanies of the season passed through Mon. on Fords, a month ahead of the early gardens.

What became of the Swiss livery stable prop. of 47, and his romance with a child of 15 worth several millions?

MAKING A JOKE OF JUSTICE.

THERE must be something rotten in California. There have been four jury disagreements in as many important trials in the last few months. Two disagreements in the Fatty Arbuckle case, a disagreement in the Burch case and now a disagreement in the Obenchain case.

According to the state officials there were suspicious circumstances surrounding all the disagreements, and investigations involving perjury and corruption charges, are contemplated. Certainly where there is so much smoke there must be some fire.

It is to be hoped the state officials of California probe this deplorable condition to the bottom. Once destroy public confidence in the jury system and the very framework of our civilization totters.

Nothing could be better for California or for the country at large than a few convictions for perjury and corruption, and a few sentences to the penitentiary for those who are really guilty of thus sowing the seeds of lawlessness and violence.

IF WINTER COMES.

THE world is out of joint. So says Lord Northcliffe, and he speaks with authority for he has just completed a tour of its surface.

His Lordship is probably right. The spiritual exaltation of the war has passed. Discontent, unrest, suspicion, distrust almost universally prevail. One sees the manifestations here, there, and everywhere; in Washington, in Ulster, in Calcutta, in Angora.

But we can't share the Northcliffe hopelessness. These reactions are inevitable. The Pendulum swings to and fro, but its net progress is onward. After the rain comes the sunshine, and beyond the clouds which reach to the horizon, the same little lambskins are gamboling on the green.

This is not entirely Polyanna stuff. It is really one of the fundamental laws of Nature. One need not be an incorrigible optimist to conclude that the Northcliffe liver is slightly disarranged. One need only be historically scientific.

REGARDING COMMUNICATIONS.

THE Mail Tribune takes this opportunity of again stating its policy regarding unsigned communications. They will not be printed. If circumstances justify, and only if they do, the name will be withheld on request, but anonymous contributions merely go into the waste basket, where they belong.

Quill Points

Business can't get on its feet until business men get on their toes.

Romance: "He married the rich girl and the gossips lived happily ever afterward."

The suckers may be born at the rate of one a minute, but they are shorn in gross lots.

The roll of vamp victims indicates that the age of indiscretion is anything above sixty.

Getting rich quick would be rather pleasant if penitentiary life wasn't so darned confining.

Work diligently and be honorable, and when you are dead the world will ask: "How much did he leave?"

Let's see, how was it they explained business depression before the word "psychological" was invented?

Even those "farmers" who have no acquaintance with real dirt will have before they get through with politics.

How trivial world problems seem when we reflect that soon we shall hear the crack of the bat against a fast one.

'Twas ever thus. The Lord planted a garden in Eden, and it wasn't long before Adam noticed a chicken on the premises.

Advocates of the one-wife theory will be glad to learn that matrimony is no longer a harem-scarem business in Turkey.

A "financial wizard" is nothing remarkable. He simply offers something for nothing and lets nature take its course.

Bulgaria Asks Credits.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 21.—Bulgaria, first of the enemy countries to claim the privilege, has appealed to the financial commission of the League of Nations for an extension to its business men of the credits to be available under the Termeulen plan.

Congressman Is Better

ST. LOUIS, Mar. 21.—The condition of Congressman Lucien W. Parrish who was injured in an automobile accident Wednesday was slightly improved this morning according to a report by the attending physicians.

THE STREET.

MY ROOM is near the village street, too close to traffic maddening, and all night long I hear the feet of foolish people gadding. Hour after hour I hear their tread, their midnight vigils keeping; how people hate to go to bed and do some useful sleeping! I hear the tin cans climb the hill, a-honking and a-horning, and flappers' voices rising shrill, at 3:10 in the morning. We used to have our fun by day, by day we did our choring; when evening came we hit the hay, and did some fancy snoring. If any man sent up a yawp that sleepers' found disturbing, he'd run against the village cop, who'd slam him to the curbing. But weary people have no rights in this gray world of sorrow; they lie in bed awake o' nights, and long to greet the morrow. The young folks whoop beneath the stars, and yell and sing and clamor, and poisoned pups and Henry ears all help to swell the clamor. The midnight hour no comfort has, there's little chance for dreaming, for all the night is full of jazz and yips and flappers' screaming. And so the old folks yearn and weep for saintly nights departed, when they could lay them down and sleep and get up cheery hearted.

ULSTER BORDER IS LIKE BATTLEFIELD, SAYS NEWSPAPER

LONDON, March 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—The border line of Ulster is described as "like a battlefield," by the Evening News Belfast correspondent, who says rival forces of the Irish Republican army and of Ulster special constables were actually within rifle range and continually firing at each other during the week-end.

The combatants were too well concealed for serious losses to be inflicted and the exchange of fire was mainly intended to prevent surprise attacks.

The rival armies, continues the correspondent, are gradually creeping closer and the first collision is expected to occur on the frontier near Caledon, county Tyrone.

The sound of the blowing up of bridges on the Ulster border during the week end could be heard miles away, adds the dispatch. The northern forces were mainly republicans and as the result of their activities practically every important bridge leading from the free state has been demolished while hundreds of roads have been trenced and closed with trees.

The tension is already beginning to affect the inhabitants behind the battle line. The unionists along the frontier are much perturbed over the menace of invasion and have asked that more protection be afforded them.

Many in the battle zone which is now "no man's land" have had to evacuate their houses which have been taken over by the fighting forces.

YAKIMA MINISTERS AFTER BOOTLEGGERS

YAKIMA, Wash., Mar. 21.—The Yakima Ministerial association, at its bi-weekly meeting today, appointed "a law enforcement committee with teeth in it" to "inquire into the seeming intent of public officials to bring liquor legislation into disrepute and contempt," according to an announcement made by President W. A. Moore, pastor of the Christian church. The personnel of the committee was not given out. The association went on record as demanding that the city commission arrange for the construction of a new city jail and termed the present one a disgrace.

Three Children With Measles Are Burned

ELDORADO, Ark., Mar. 21.—Three children were burned to death in their home here last night when a fire started from a broken gas pipe. They are Edith, Beattie and Tessie Baggett. Their mother and two brothers were badly burned. Two other children escaped. The family had been quarantined on account of measles.

A Word to the Wise, Sufficient

Mrs. Weisenheimer, (having dropped in unexpectedly upon her neighbor and finding her in tears), "Why, bless your heart, whatever is the matter?" Mrs. Robinson, "I'm ashamed to be caught crying like this, but really, things have come to such a pass that I cannot see my way out. You know all the sickness and misfortune we've had, and with my four little folks to clothe I am at the end of my string. You know I can sew and make over things nicely. I wish there was some place in this town where one could buy things to make over. I could manage that way—but new materials I simply can not buy now." Mrs. Weisenheimer, "Why, bless your heart, I can tell you exactly the place—Oh, dear me, there's my phone ringing—I'll tell you tomorrow."

QUIT MEAT IF YOUR KIDNEYS ACT BADLY

Take tablespoonful of Sals if Back hurts or Bladder bothers—Drink lots of water.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night, when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders. Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.
