Poland has given women the right to serve on juries. As in Oregon it will increase the expense, and decrease the efficiency.

The city council of Portland has ssed an ordinance prohibiting white ladies from dancing with Pullman porters, etcet, etcet, and vice versa, This is a blow to goodfellowship, and proof that one drink of moonshine makes the world kin. Things have come to a pretty pass when one cannot dance with whom one pleases. All candidates for all offices will report Friday, and get an injection of virtue. An elocutionist will arrive from the south tomorrow, and drill the martyrs for the public good on how to utter "down with extravasance," like they meant it, and with framatic force. They will also be drilled in starting a 11th hour canard. that So and So belongs to Such-and-Such-a-church without getting caught at it. Some of the amateurs are using an abused expression. It is too early and liable to resemble a dying calf gawk, unless handled by an experienced face.

Better get some of the print paper on rolls for wrapping paper at this and save 2 or 3 cents per pound. Come and look at it and be convinced.

ONE WAY TO REDUCE TAXES.

A N EXCELLENT way to keep taxes down is to keep non-tax payers out. That is, to say,—confine the voting power on all The Medford Sunday Sun is furnished measures which increase taxes to those who pay them.

Otherwise them.

Otherwise there seems little chance of materially reducing the tax burden. For as long as the non-tax paying element holds the balance of power, taxes and bonds for improvements will be voted, for the non-taxpayer gets the benefit without shouldering his share of the

Of course, there is an obvious objection. Associating the money power with the voting power has always been distasteful to the American people and contrary to democratic traditions. Moreover, there is the danger with an exclusively taxpaying electorate, of an ultraconservatism which might render normal and desirable development impossible, Nevertheless, if the people of Oregon want taxes reduced and are serious in the present campaign, some such restriction in the voting power is essential. Otherwise, the natural human tendency to vote for self-interest rather than public interest will push the snow ball of taxation along in the future as it has been in the past.

This regulation, of course, should apply only to tax measures. On all matters of public policy,-in fact on all matters except tax matters, the franchise should remain as it is today.

THE RAIN CARRIER.

WHERE ER I go it starts to rain before I've been there long; the water soaks the long parehed plain and drowns the human throng. The Kansas drouth was once renowned; I went there to be dry, and presently the state was drowned, and barns went floating by. Old watercourses that had lain for ages dry as dust, became wide rivers in the rain, to everyone's disgust. All bottomless was Kansas land, to husbandmen's despair; Niagaras on every hand, Nyanzas here and there. So to a country then I went where rain is seldom known, whose arid wastes, of wide extent, are drier than a bone. And to this bright and sunny clime I brought the word of doom; it's raining, raining all the time, and creeks and rivers boom. The big black clouds roll up and melt in rain and splatter me; I know just how Dad Noah felt when he was out at sea. It's wetter than the law allows, the lawns are sobbing seas, the streets are full of swimming cows, and floating cribs and trees. And people weep and wonder why the climate thus has changed, traditions curl themselves and die, and records are deranged. I am the hoodoo, I'm the gent who brought the change accurst; wherever I may pitch my tent the cloudbursts do their worst.
