

MINING WEALTH JACKSON COUNTY IS UNLIMITED

H. M. Parks, Director of Oregon Bureau Paints Glowing Picture Local Resources—War Eagle Mine Declared a Winner.

H. M. Parks, director of the Oregon Bureau of Mines and Geology, gave a very interesting and instructive address this noon before the Chamber of Commerce forum at the Hotel Medford.

The address dealt largely with the mineral resources of Southern Oregon and methods to be used in developing them. Mr. Parks stated that the country had just passed through a period of years unfavorable to all industries but that probably no industry had been harder hit than the mining industry. That the mining business is entering a period of revival at the present time because of the recent lifting of the excess profits tax from the gold mining industry and because of the fairly high price of silver, was one statement made by the speaker. He also stated that although the copper industry had suffered an overstimulation during the war that that industry was also looking up and would soon be on a normal basis.

Mr. Parks in starting his discussion of the general formation and geological characteristics of southern Oregon illustrated to the audience by means of a chart the manner in which deposition of metals in veins is made. He stated that southern Oregon showed particularly favorable characteristics and explained the reasons in a clear manner with the aid of the chart.

According to records, stated the speaker, Oregon has produced $187,000,000 in mineral products up to date. These records have not been kept complete, much of the gold in the early days having been listed as from California. In view of this fact it is safe to estimate said the speaker that the total production has been in excess of $200,000,000.

Mr. Parks showed with the chart the vast possibilities extended to the people by the yet undeveloped and unmined resources. He explained how due to erosion placer deposits were formed and how only about 10 per cent of the precious metals included in the eroded mass had been reclaimed by miners. This amount itself has been enormous but when an attempt is made to realize the quantity of wealth still beneath the surface of the earth the mind of the novice in such matters can comprehend nothing and the opinion arrived at is that which is always used by a college professor when stumped, namely "infinity." Mr. Parks stated that the only thing needed to make southern Oregon a productive and active mining district was a little real courage, that no apprehension need be felt about the presence of the resources but the only problem to be met was the mode of attacking them.

War Eagle Mine Promising.

The speaker mentioned the War Eagle mine. He stated that he had been watching it since the early stages of its development and that it had been particularly consistent and gave promise of being the most valuable and best quicksilver property on the Pacific coast. He stated also that Medford citizens should be proud of such an enterprise developed by local capital and that he expected to see in the very near future a real quicksilver producer in our midst.

In closing Mr. Parks stated "but the bureau had a very good relief map of the Diamond and Crater lake region and that in some way or another that the map would be presented to the Medford Chamber of Commerce. It is yet in an unfinished state and the cost of finishing it is estimated at $100.

Dr. J. F. Reddy was present at the forum meeting and asked the speaker several questions, one of which was "How much copper did southern Oregon produce during the war?" Mr. Parks said that the amount had been approximately $1,750,000 worth.

Vernon H. Vawter held the post of chairman and F. E. Merrick that of song leader in the absence of Mr. Millard. A number of guests were present, among them being E. V. Carlor of Ashland.

QUEBEC'S FAMOUS CATHEDRAL BURNS

QUEBEC, Que., Mar. 29.—Fire today destroyed the basilica of Ste Anne de Beupre, famous for its shrine, but the statue of Ste Anne and the historical relics to which miraculous cures have been ascribed were saved.

Ste Anne de Beupre, the most famous shrine in the new world, each year attracts hundreds of the lame, halt and blind who flock there from all parts of Canada and the United States to be cured of their afflictions.

Ste Anne de Beupre, a village of a few thousand inhabitants is located a few miles from this city. The present church of Ste Anne was opened for public worship in 1876 and by papal proclamation made a basilica in 1887. Near it is a well to which miraculous healing powers are ascribed.

BELFAST, Mar. 29.—(By Associated Press.) Several fires broke out in different parts of the city early this morning. A bomb was thrown into a crowd watching the burning of a factory in Unity street and three persons were injured.

POSTMASTER ASKS EVERYONE TO PUT ON STREET AND NO.

Postmaster Warner is conducting a campaign to have local patrons properly address their mail to street and number, instead of just mailing letters addressed simply to the city, as so many Medfordites carelessly do, especially business houses. This causes much trouble to the postoffice staff and often letters are either delayed while street address and number must be looked up, or because of the fact that the residence of the person addressed is not known in the postoffice.

In his letter to business houses, asking for co-operation in this regard, Postmaster Warner says in part:

"As one of our heavy mailers, especially around the first of the month, when monthly statements are mailed, it has been observed that all, or a large part of the letters mailed by you for local delivery are mailed without street number, or other specific address.

"When it is brought to your attention that this office has something over 20,000 names in its directory, including city, rural, box and general delivery, patrons as well as all forwarding orders, I feel sure that you will realize that no distributing clerk, however proficient, can do the memorizing necessary for the proper distribution of all patrons mail. This is exactly what you are expecting him to do when you mail your letters without street number or other specific address.

"I am endeavoring to speed up delivery of mail at this office to the highest degree of efficiency, and am making a personal appeal to you to assist this office in perfecting your mail service to the extent that you address all mail for local delivery to street, R. F. D. or box number.

"May I not have your hearty co-operation?"

Edison Marshall, winner of the O. Henry short story prize today received his check for $500 for the first award and a letter from Dr. Blanche Colton Williams of which the following is an extract:

"As I announced the winners, I took upon myself the pleasant duty of reading your letter. Needless to say, your proposed bear hunt and all your other comments were vastly enjoyed. Your letter was applauded heartily."

USED CAR VALUE VERY NECESSARY IN BUYING AUTO

In purchasing a new car everyone should take into consideration the used car value when they want to sell or trade in on another car. Used Velle cars are always picked up when offered for sale, which is one of the evidences of their true value in the used car class as well as when new.

The local Velle dealer and the state distributing agency, have no used Velle cars on hand, and seldom keep one more than a few days.

The Medford Velle company has the latest models in their show room on South Front street, that they will be glad to show or demonstrate to those who call. They also ask Velle owners to call for any information they may desire or to have their cars looked over. It's always a pleasure for them to accommodate the public.

BLOODSHED IN IRELAND

the treaty, but "who believes that, if the provisional government were foolish to drop the treaty, the Orangemen would drop their vendetta."

The newspaper contends that the Belfast horrors can be ended by national action, but that this must be taken by an existing government and that only through acceptance of the treaty can the government be established.

All officers and men have been relieved of the responsibility of obeying orders given by any superior officer who severed his connection with the army through attending the "irregular" convention of last Sunday or who recognizes the so-called executive council elected by the convention.

The organizers of the convention claim to have 40 per cent of the army votes and declare to have a right if they so choose to prohibit the forthcoming elections.

Hope in London.

LONDON, Mar. 29.—(By the Associated Press)—A conference called by the imperial government to consider the situation growing out of the recent disorders in Ireland, opened here today.

The meeting was under the presidency of the imperial secretary for the colonies, Winston Spencer Churchill. Five members of the Ulster government and four southern ministers are attending and some members of the British cabinet besides Secretary Churchill will be present at least part of the time.

The correspondent of the Evening News ventures the opinion that the warring elements in Belfast have called a truce until the results of the conference shall become known.

LIMERICK, March 29.—Armed men in disguise attempted to burn the Kilpeacon rectory near here last night. They ordered the rector, his wife and daughter to leave and then set fire to the house. The rector returned with helpers and put the fire out. The raiders took most of the rector's silver.

concentrated on this one case. I think it fair to state that in view of the jury's decision I would not think it worth while to submit the same facts to another jury on the abduction indictment.

His statement followed a declaration by Max D. Steuer, attorney for Rickard, who said the assistant district attorney had regarded the case as ended and had promised not to try Rickard on the other indictments if the Schoenfeld case failed.

Seldom has there been such a demonstration in the court house as that staged when the jury brought in its verdict freeing Rickard. Hundreds had lingered about the building, thinking the jury would not deliberate long before reaching an agreement. When the first syllable of the verdict fell from the jury foreman, word was shouted through the corridors and passed along to the throat waiting in the street outside. Rickard was almost overwhelmed by his friends but made his way through the crowd to a telephone, where he called his apartment and informed Mrs. Rickard of his acquittal.
