DARING ROBBERY LOCAL JEWELER

A burglary that occurred in a local jewelry store February 26, has been kept quiet because those interested have been following a clue that has led to the discovery of who the robbers were, but not the recovery of the stolen jewelry.

The burglars entered through a basement window and bored a hole through the floor and into the drawer in which the jewelry, consisting of gold chain, flexible bracelet, string of gold beads and gold solder, amounting to a neat sum were kept.

The jewelry store where the robbery occurred was Johnson's, and the robbers proved to be packrats. The jewelry was in envelopes that were drawn through the hole made by the rats and was not found.

Luckily Mr. Johnson had a policy with R. A. Holmes, the Insurance Man, and yesterday paid in full for the loss. This policy Mr. Holmes says can be taken out by individuals or firms on jewelry.

LOCAL EXPRESS BUSINESS SHOWS TRADE REVIVAL

The express business is a good barometer of trade, according to O. J. Gould, agent in charge of the local express office, who declares it is significant that the American Railway Express company is preparing for a heavy movement of express traffic during April.

Fluctuation in the express business, according to Mr. Gould usually precedes like changes in general business by several weeks. The express people are confident that business is near at hand. At their New York office, it is stated that an unusual number of buyers have visited New York City recently and that many concerning have a full corps of traveling salesmen on the road.

The express company is getting ready for a return of the small package business, and the first two months of the year showed a noticeable increase in this traffic.

As the first step in the preparations made for business increase, the express company is experimenting with steel collapsible packing trunks, which are expected to give even greater protection from crushing, soiling, damage by moisture and pilfering of all small shipments.

WAR EAGLE MINING COMPANY QUICKSILVER

Most everyone in Medford at least, knows of the above property located 25 miles north of Medford in the Meadows Mining District and managed by Medford business men. Over 50 stockholders are local citizens and about 25 additional subscriptions have been secured recently from local people.

In order to secure a little working capital a small block of stock was set aside and Medford people are being given the first opportunity to secure an interest in this valuable property, which is to be started up under the supervision of a thoroughly reliable and experienced quicksilver operator.

This is a proven mercurious property which will soon be turning out the finished product which a leading commodity expert advises his efforts to buy on the present market.

We own 520 acres of land and in addition thereto about 140 acres of mining claims, all heavily timbered and with abundant water.

Lay aside all local prejudice and think soberly and honestly of your own best interest. Take good advice and buy at least some of this block of worth while stock.

Present offer will only hold good for this week. Phone 218. Call at our office, room 208 First National Bank building, or mail attached coupon for further information.
