Local and Personal

A stony hearted motorist deliberately and cruelly ran down Wm. Hammett's brown Irish terrier dog on the street in front of the Hammett home on East Main street, yesterday afternoon. Both shoulders of the dog were broken and every effort is being made by its owner to save the animal's life. The dog was still alive today and is in charge of a veterinary surgeon. Neighbors who witnessed the brutality say the dog was at the side of the street and the motorist who was going along at 50 to 60 miles an hour, deliberately crossed over from the middle of the road and ran the animal down. The affair was reported to the police who are trying to find the car driver.
