The Rogue River Ruffinex defeated the Kopko Kilowatts Saturday afternoon in a thrilling and well played game of baseball by a score of 8 to 5. The "country gawks," according to their manager, are tickled pink over defeating the "city slickers" of the home office division of the California-Oregon Power Co. Rooters were plentiful and rooting was enthusiastic at the game. Many of the home office rooters were divested of their loose change and all their cigars as a result of entering into wagers with the supporters of the Ruffinex. The dignity of the high officials of the company also suffered greatly from the defeat. S. M. Scott and A. P. Hagen umpired the game.

J.C. Brethingham presents The Ten Dollar Raise

and the seeming public craze for excitement. There's San Francisco's Chinatown as only a San Franciscan knows it but there are the problems and incidents of everyday life as you know them and meet them or fall before them.

At the Rialto Bristling with dramatic incident sparkling with delightful humor and rich in romance and adventure, "The Duke of Chinney Butte," in which Fred Stone appears at the Rialto theatre is a clean-cut rollicking comedy drama. He displays his remarkable horsemanship, his skill at shooting and roping and at the same time does some clever acting.

Opposite Mr. Stone appears the charming Viola Yale, who portrays the role of the daughter of a wealthy rancher who left the young girl his property when he died. The Duke blunders into her ranch seeking work and serves her as her protector and aide against rustlers who have been harassing her for several months.

The Duke is captured by cattle thieves but escapes and then he rounds them up and puts them out of the way. Prominent in the cast are Jessie Hedgwick and Chick Morrison. Frank Borzage, the director of "Humoresque" had charge of production.
