"Will Klamath county have an assessor, and how can he gain office?" says a news dispatch from Klamath Falls. "These are the questions facing the county clerk's office and commanding the attention of Attorney General Van Winkle as well. The county develops from the fact that the incumbent, W. T. Lee, was appointed by the county court upon the death last year of his father, Captain W. T. Lee, who held the office for 16 years. Ordinarily the term would expire in January, 1924. The question now is does W. T. Lee continue to hold office for the remainder of the elective term, or shall he or some other person be elected to hold office for the remaining two years; and, if elected, would the incumbent hold office for two or four years."
