

ANOTHER HOUSE ENTERED, LUMSDEN FINDS TROUSERS

In addition to the Lumsden and Brownlee residences on South Holly and the Watson residence on South Central, the residence of G. C. Garrett on South Oakdale was entered on Thursday evening and about $2 in cash was taken. Entry was made through a window on the side of the house which had not been securely locked. As far as can be learned nothing else was taken.

An attempt was made the same night to enter the residence of A. O. Bennett, also on South Oakdale. The Bennett residence is not far south of the Garrett residence.

It will be remembered that Mr. Lumsden lost a suit of clothes to the thief, in addition to $35 in cash, a watch and other things of value. The suit contained a pipe belonging to Mr. Lumsden. Fortunately the suit has been recovered and with it the pipe.

The suit was found yesterday morning on the front lawn of the A. W. Walker residence, which is several doors north of the Garrett residence. It was intact and still contained the pipe and Mr. Lumsden's Shrine emblem. A serious aspect of the case is, however, that, when found, the trousers were absent from the suit.

It was learned from Mr. Lumsden today that the new, and as yet unoccupied residence next door to him, belonging to F. E. Nichols was also explored by the marauders on Thursday night. Mr. Nichols had just finished waxing the floors of his new house and the doors had been securely locked for the night. Friday morning when the workmen returned to the house the floors were badly tracked, the prowler having entered the back door with the aid of a passkey and having passed through the house from back to front. The foot tracks were wiped out, however, before it was thought of that they might have some value for police investigation.

No clue has yet been turned up by the police in their activity to locate and identify the prowlers.

DISCUSS PLANS TO BOOST CO. FAIR

The part which the merchants of Medford will take to make the county fair a success next September will be one of the topics up for discussion at the dinner meeting of the Retail Merchants Bureau next Monday evening.

Committees of the bureau will solicit merchants on Monday morning to purchase dinner tickets for a series of eight monthly meetings. These will cost $5.00 or at the rate of 62 1/2 cents each. The meetings will be held at the American Legion hall on the first Monday of each month with the exception of July, August and September when they will be dispensed with and the affairs of the bureau will be delegated to an executive committee.

The trade expansion committee will have a report on Prosperity Week program.

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, April 29.—Under lead of various speculative issues, chiefly cilia, coppers and independent steels, today's brief stock market recorded further recoveries from the moderate reaction of the mid-week. Extreme advances among cilia, notably Standard Oil of New Jersey and Associated Oil of California ran from one to almost five points. Anaconda, Kennicott and American Smelting gained one to two points. Bethlehem, Gulf States, Lackawana and Vanadium steels rose one to one and a half. Motor specialties and tobacco, leather and chemical issues also strengthened. The railway group was not especially prominent in the movement. The close was strong. Sales approximated 750,000 shares.

BERT LYTELL in a Scene from "THE RIGHT THAT FAILED"

CENTRAL POINT

The Central Point delegates to the Epworth League Convention recently held in Roseburg, were Violet Scott, Leola Hesselgrave, Clifford Maxwell, Everett Faber and E. C. Faber. The party left here Friday afternoon in Mr. Faber's car and for two days enjoyed the convention, along with some three hundred other out-of-town delegates in the strawberry city, returning to their homes here Monday afternoon, delighted with the people of Roseburg and the warm welcome which they accorded them during their stay there.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Trolinger, who recently visited the latter's son, Joe Boswell and family here for several days, have returned to their home in Yamhill, Oregon.

Mrs. August Muller of Eugene, after enjoying a several week's pleasant visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ole Olsson at their home here, and her many Central Point friends, left for her home in the University city Tuesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pick and daughter, Virginia, of Jacksonville, were guests Sunday at the Holmes residence in this city.

In the dark of early morning Tuesday, a solitary figure puffy-footed up the main street, and with an air of great nonchalance stopped in front of the Popular Corner, better known as Faber's store, now the Evan's store, so called popular now on account of the many visits paid there this past winter by the night-working populace. The gentlemanly figure quietly picked the lock and opened the door, much as the proprietor might have. As he entered, what he thought was an untenanted building, he mused upon the ease with which one could satisfy his wants in the way of food and clothing and other things if he only had the nerve to go about it in the simple way which he had chosen. He had made up his mind exactly what he wanted and all he had to do was to go and get it and that he was doing. Everything seemed so simple and success was bound to be his, but—A dog barked, just as he was entering the grocery department from the clothing department and was quite near his heart's desire and success. Then an unlooked for figure sprang up and something shone in the darkness and a voice said curtly, "Hands Up! How disgusting, thought the night hero, or villain, whichever you may call him, as he covered his face with his hands to hide his identity. He wasn't frightened in the least, but it did hurt him to see his well laid plans go glimmering, and it made him angry. However, it took only a second to do this, making him angry, you know, and before hastily turning on his heel, he sulkily replied in a voice, the identity of which he failed to wholly conceal, "Hands up, yourself," then fled into the now gray dawn. And so it is those things that look the simplest are oftentimes the hardest, and a simple thing like stealing should not be tried, for the time gradually comes when it cannot be done without detection, so found out Mr. Thief, when he was confronted by the owner.

The ladies of the Women's Relief corps met at the home of Mrs. Annie Wright here Saturday afternoon and tendered a farewell reception to their member, Mrs. Janette Two-Pan, who leaves soon to make her home in Ashland. A rosy crowd of ladies were present, and all there greatly enjoyed the visiting good time and the delicious refreshments. Mrs. Two-Pan's departure will be a loss to the organization and community, and all who know her, regret her leaving.

A very pleasant time was enjoyed by all present at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Thornbrue Saturday evening when about twenty relatives and friends gathered for a social time. Visiting among the older folks and dancing for the younger ones present were the happy pastimes of the evening. A dainty lunch was served at midday, and after a little more dancing and cheerful conversation the guests departed for the homes, very grateful to their host and hostess for the evening of joy and fun which they had given them.

Fair and Normal.
WASHINGTON, April 29.—The weather outlook for the week beginning Monday:
Rocky mountain and plateau regions—Considerable cloudiness; normal temperatures and occasional showers.
Pacific states—Generally fair and normal temperature, but with a probability of occasional showers in Washington and Oregon.

Mrs. A. Plummer departed for her home at Mondovk, Wash., Monday evening after having made an extended visit with her daughter, Mrs. E. L. Thornbrue and grandchildren. Mr. and Mrs. Russell Thornbrue and little daughters.

Several frame buildings on main street are getting a new coat of paint this week and the looks of same are greatly improved by the new covering that owners have given them.

Mrs. Ed Eldred of Medford enjoyed a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Mellinsey at their home here Wednesday.

The local Odd Fellows and Rebekah lodges held a joint meeting here Wednesday evening. A fine program was rendered. Professor Root of Medford was present and led the high school orchestra in the splendid music which it furnished. Refreshments of all appetizing varieties were served during the evening and everything was greatly enjoyed. A large crowd of members was in attendance and every one enjoyed himself to the utmost.

JOHN F. MILLER NAMED ACTING P. M. FOR J'VILLE

Jacksonville has a new acting postmaster, as Louis Ulrich, present postmaster whose term expired last June and who has been holding over until his successor is appointed, received a telegram last night from the postoffice department at Washington, accepting his resignation and announcing the appointment of John F. Miller to be acting postmaster until the appointment of a permanent postmaster is made. The change takes place Monday, May 1.

Mr. Ulrich, always a good democrat, has shed a glorioususter on the Wilson administration. Even during the darkest hours of that late defunct organization the party men everywhere looked with pride toward Jacksonville and cheered up. But Louie, although always a party patriot, could no longer bear to be a hold-over under a republican administration when all his fellow patriots in office had gone into the discard, their places having been filled by fat, healthy, optimistic republicans, who see nothing but happy days ahead for four years.

He got to thinking it over night before last, he says, and realizing that the country was going to the dogs fast under republican rule and fearing that some of that party's taint might light to him if he remained in office any longer, he called for his horse and galloped over to Medford at once, where he telegraphed his resignation to Washington. Another thing which influenced this move was that his able assistant, G. R. Chapman, who has had charge of the office for several months, was quitting Monday to take up another and better position, which would leave the holdover postmaster in a bad fix, as he had moved to Medford and is in business here.

When Ulrich's resignation telegram reached Washington it created a great shock there. Postmaster General Work hot-footed it at once over to the White House and broke the sad news to that already much worried man, President Harding. The cabinet was hurriedly called into session and after having had the matter under consideration all night Thursday and all day Friday, finally reluctantly decided to accept the resignation, after the president had remarked that as Louie is a brother Elk the administration should help him out of his fix, and after the postmaster general had remarked sadly that perhaps another man could be found in Jacksonville who might come somewhere near filling the job there as good as Louie.

The examination of the half dozen Jacksonville aspirants for the county seat postoffice was held some time ago, but no appointment has yet been made of Mr. Ulrich's permanent successor, because the list of eligibles has not been reported by the civil service commission. The fact that John F. Miller is one of the candidates for the appointment, has been appointed acting postmaster, has the other candidates guessing.

TWO REASONS why the Jackson County Bldg. & Loan Association is able to pay 7 and 8 per cent dividends on all classes of stock.

We keep practically all our funds loaned out at all times because the Corporation Department of the State makes it unlawful to accept demand deposits, therefore, it is not necessary to keep a large amount of cash on hand—Cash on hand bears no interest.

Our overhead expense is kept down to a fraction over one per cent to comply with the ruling of the Corporation Department of the State.

We therefore are in a position to pay the highest rate of interest consistent with good business and absolute safety to all stockholders.

Gas Is a Clean, Convenient Fuel

It comes into your house and to the stove in a small, well-concealed pipe. Gas fires produce no smoke and their flames can be perfectly controlled.

Kitchens in which gas is used for cooking are easier to keep light and clean. The advantages of brightness and cleanliness in your kitchen in themselves are reasons for investigating more fully the many merits of gas as a fuel for cooking.
