There was a frost this morning with a temperature of 32 degrees in Medford and of 28 degrees in the low lying parts of the valley. Most all the orchards equipped for smudging fired up about 6 a. m. The frost lasted two hours and did some damage to the pear trees in the low parts where there was no smudging. Fair and warmer weather is predicted for Saturday.

Thirteen people who arrived in five cars spent last night and this morning at the new city auto camp, all being enroute north from California. The most popular place so far with tourists for parking cars and establishing their camps at the new grounds is the large space beneath the Bear Creek bridge, because of its more sheltered and cozy location. The work of erecting the office of William Davis, caretaker of the auto camp, is under way.

The following item concerning a well known Medford man appeared in the El Dorado Times of El Dorado, Kas., of May 15: "Splendid entertainment featured the regular weekly meeting of the El Dorado Kiwanis club at the Hotel El Dorado last night. The attendance was much better than has been recorded at a meeting of the Kiwanis in several weeks. The principal address of the meeting was made by Sumpter Smith, of Medford, Ore., who was called here two weeks ago by the sudden death of his father-in-law, Capt. W. L. Riley. The speaker talked briefly on the motor car laws of Oregon, which are held up as a model in every state in the country. Mr. Smith also touched on several subjects, making his talk one of the most entertaining heard by the Kiwanians in a number of months."

Relatives near Weaverville, Calif., are seeking information as to the whereabouts of Alvin Bennett, supposed to have been a one time resident of the Rogue River valley, according to Wade H. Wilson, editor of the Weekly Trinity Journal at Weaverville who himself resided in Medford during the years 1906 and 1907. Mr. Wilson writes that he recollects that a man named Bennett whose first name he thinks was Alvin but is not sure, lived somewhere in the valley during those years and was president of the stock association which had a blooded stallion. Marcus Morton Bennett, brother of Alvin Bennett, died recently at his home at Douglas City, Calif., seven miles from Weaverville and relatives since then have tried to locate Alvin Bennett without success.
