STATE TO VOTE ON A PORTLAND TAX
1925 EXPOSITION

By Mayor Baker of Portland.

PORTLAND, Oregon—The time has come for the people of the city of Portland and the state of Oregon to finally settle the question of the 1925 exposition. The plan of promoting and financing the project has been determined by the leading business men and financiers of the state, the world has been invited to an exposition here and we are being counted upon for a fair second to none in the history of the country. It is therefore the duty of every section of the state to forget sectional differences and unite for a greater Oregon.

As vice-chairman of the exposition managing committee I have been requested to make public an appeal for the exposition cause and for a settlement of the issues which have temporarily overthrown the original plans. In the exposition question, which is to be made an issue at the general election in November, is involved the future growth, development and prosperity of the state as a whole. It is a proposition too big and important to become involved in any personal, factional or sectional controversies and must be settled on the basis of what it means to the state, and by "state" is meant every man, woman and child in the state. With Oregon now the 41st state in the union in point of population and first in point of resources, the needs of the future are decidedly apparent. We must have more population and more development and these can only be had by exploiting our resources to the people of the world. There is no better way than through the medium of a world exposition.

Portland is to be asked to finance the exposition, but the moral support of the state is essential. The vote taken in Portland last November is invalid at this time because it was contingent upon a state tax, which is eliminated in the new plan. It will be necessary therefore to again submit the question at the coming November election, allowing Portland to tax itself. The people of the state will be asked at the same election to give Portland the state's moral backing, a united Oregon in behalf of the exposition, which is to crowd our country with people from every corner of the globe during a period of several months.

As mayor of Portland, and believing that no more important work confronts the state than that of exploitation of our resources through the medium of the exposition, I have agreed to head the campaign in behalf of the vote at the November election. The business men of Portland, who have Oregon's future at heart, will finance the campaign to the extent of $50,000 for the preliminary work. Afterward $1,000,000 will be raised as a stock subscription to start the exposition fund. This subscription is to be voluntary and to extend throughout the state. Portland will be asked to vote an annual tax levy of $1,000,000 for three years to apply to the exposition fund which with the $1,000,000 stock subscription will finance the exposition.

The measure on the ballot will include a provision for the selection of a commission to handle the expenditure of the money thus assuring the safeguarding of the funds and the expenditure by a group of citizens selected by the voters. The stock subscription will be represented by a board of directors and this board, together with the commission selected by the people of Portland will select the management of the exposition. The method of promoting, financing and managing the exposition, is such that there can be no legitimate grounds for opposition, and therefore no reason why the state should not get solidly behind the project and see that our promises to the world and our development plans for the future are carried to a successful conclusion.

IN HAYMOW IS EASY FOR DOCTOR

LONDON—To find a needle in a haystack is popularly supposed to be a feat so difficult that the odds against its successful accomplishment would be something like a million to one. Yet a feat that to the ordinary man would appear, if anything, still more difficult, has recently been accomplished in Jerusalem, according to newspapers published there. It was nothing less than the finding of a needle hidden in Jerusalem, and with no clue to its whereabouts of which the five senses could take cognizance, except that it was hidden "somewhere" in the city.

This was done by Dr. Hanussen, who claims to be the possessor of something more than the usual five senses and to be endowed with a mysterious "psychic" faculty by means of which he can read thoughts and find out things that cannot be discovered by means of mere sight or hearing. The finding of the needle was accepted as the proof of his claim and he was awarded 100 pounds. He found the needle within 25 minutes, excluding the time taken to reach the place of concealment.

A committee was appointed to supervise the test and to see that there was nothing of a "put up job" about it. The committee consisted of several journalists, some policemen and an expert in nervous diseases. Dr. Hanussen was secured in a house and a guard placed over him. Then the members of the committee set forth in motor cars, one of them carrying the needle.

Several streets of Jerusalem were traversed. Cars and drivers were changed on the way and then, by a circuitous route, the lunatic asylum was reached. There behind a portrait of Sir Herbert Samuel, the needle was hidden. Then the committee returned to the house in which Dr. Hanussen had been left and released him.

In a motor car, accompanied by the committee he started out to find the needle. In the course taken the driver followed his directions. After passing through many streets Dr. Hanussen left the car and proceeded on foot to the asylum. Arrived there, with hardly a moment's hesitation, he made for the portrait and found the needle.

The proceedings aroused enormous interest in Jerusalem. A crowd of several thousand persons awaited the result of the test, and cheered when Dr. Hanussen's success was announced.
