

OREGON GROWERS GETTING READY FOR BUSY SEASON

With a corps of able packing house superintendents engaged and box makers and other workmen busy at all its plants the Oregon Growers Cooperative association, Rogue River district, is rapidly making ready to handle its share of the predicted pear and apple tonnage now being made ready by old "Pop" Nature. Under the leadership of W. R. Biddle, former president of the Frisco railroad, the local association anticipates that 1922 will be its most successful shipping season. Biddle is chairman of the directors for the Rogue River district.

H. T. Pankey, former state inspector of fruit and orchards, until a year ago a deputy under County Agent C. C. Cate, has been named superintendent of the Medford cold storage and packing plant of the association to succeed H. C. Stoltze, resigned. Bert Stanciliff succeeds Dee Hendrickson as superintendent at the Bardwell Fruit company's big plant and Raymond Fish will have charge of the association's Phoenix plant. Noel Davis is retained as packing superintendent at the association's Grants Pass house. Heads of the Talent and Gold Hill houses are yet to be chosen.

The directors of the local district this year are W. R. Biddle, P. A. Scherer, Central Point; C. C. Cate, Medford; A. H. Davenport, Talent; and P. S. Woodin of Grants Pass. Associated with them on the advisory committee are Col. Gordon Voorhies, M. B. Chase, J. G. Love, Hamilton Patton, J. A. Gammill, W. W. Canby, and Howard A. Hill.

PEACE LOOMS IN CHINA FOLLOWING HSU'S RETIREMENT

PEKING, June 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—Restoration of peace in China, torn by civil conflict for years, seems nearer than at any time since the Peking government first encountered armed opposition. The whole matter, as viewed in the light of recent developments, revolves around President Sun Yat-sen of the southern government, whose fight to wrest control from the Peking government has been based on the contention that Hsu Shi-chang's occupancy of the presidential chair was illegal and that he and his associates were unduly subject to Japanese influence.

Developments in the north tend to minimize the power of General Chang Tso-lin, who recently let it be known he planned to establish an independent government in Manchuria as a disturbing factor. Hsu, in response to the pressure of public opinion, offered his resignation to the cabinet at an extraordinary session yesterday as a means, his letter of resignation said, of aiding "any plan to relieve the country of its difficulties." The resignation apparently came as a response to public sentiment, which had been growing for some weeks in the Chinese newspapers for the resignation of President Hsu and a calling together of the old parliament, dissolved in 1917, to act for the unification of China. Recently also there have been suggestions that if Dr. Sun would resign office and tender his support to the move for recalling parliament, there would be no further obstacle to settlement of all the differences between north and south China. Dr. Sun, up to the present time, has maintained a discreet silence.

However, there are indications that the same pressure that brought about Hsu's withdrawal as a central figure in Chinese politics is operating to remove the southern president. General Chen Chin-ming, the principal military power of south China a few days ago, demanded Dr. Sun's resignation and announced he intended to support a movement to bring about a reassembly of parliament and the restoration to office of Li Yuan Hung who was forced from the presidency by the militarists in 1916. Last Wednesday word came from Peking that General Chen had aligned of the more powerful Tachun or military directors of provinces with him.

This accession of strength to those opposing him is believed likely to prove a powerful factor in influencing Dr. Sun's decision.

Bing Miller Heard From.
CHICAGO, June 3.—(By the Associated Press.)—Ed (Bing) Miller, the slugging outfielder of Philadelphia, is giving George Sisler and Ken Williams, the St. Louis stars, a hot race for the leadership in batting and home run hitting in the American league, according to averages released today.

"Bing" smashed out a brace of homers in his last six games and now has an even dozen—just two fewer than Williams, who jumped out in front at the start of the season. The average includes games of Wednesday.
Sisler is topping the batters with an average of .412. The batting mark of the St. Louis star was given a setback in the series with the White Sox, but the St. Louis favorite appears to again have struck his stride. In the last 21 times at bat, he has driven out 14 hits, giving him a total of 76 hits thus far. He leads in total base hitting with 110, which includes 11 doubles, 3 triples and 5 homers.
Miller is right on his heels with an average of .387.
Sisler, with 18 stolen bases, is leading Williams, his nearest rival, who has ten.

Waving fans, swayed by the hands of men and women whose labor was held of small moment save as it provided comfort to their high-born masters, was once a symbol of luxury.

To day every man and every woman, and every small baby, sleeping through hours of summer's heat, may have the comfort of air stirred to invigorating freshness by constant motion.

Instead of ostrich plumes, the fans are made of scintillant blades of brass. Instead of hands of ebony slaves, they move to the power of our modern servitors—volts, amperes and watts, summoned by the touch of a button from today's Circuit of Service.
