LOS ANGELES ADVENTURES' IS ARRESTED

Mrs. Paddleford, Notorious Woman From California, Is Apprehended in Vienna for Frauds in Paris and Lucern—Two Silver Vases From Ritz-Carlton Seized.

VIENNA, June 10.—Genevieve Paddleford, who claims to be the wife of a wealthy California oil trader, is under arrest here in connection with a number of fraudulent operations in which businessmen of Lucern, Paris and Vienna were the victims. Eleven trunks containing costly furs and other goods alleged to have been obtained illegally were seized as well as two silver mounted vases bearing the mark of the Ritz-Sarlton hotel, New York.

LOS ANGELES, June 10.—Genevieve Paddleford, under arrest in Vienna, is the wife of Dr. George E. Paddleford of Hollywood, Cal., former associate of E. L. Doheny, the oil merchant prince and she is widely known for the sensational part she had in the Gould divorce case, when she was known as "Mrs. Ben Teal," and at one time was Mrs. Eleanor McKinney Toomey of St. Paul.

She has been separated for more than a year from Dr. Paddleford and her departure from Los Angeles was followed by a sensational number of suits over accounts. According to the attorney for Dr. Paddleford, Mrs. Paddleford had a sensational legal history under the name of Mrs. Ben Teal, which figured in several sensational divorce cases. It is charged by Dr. Paddleford's attorneys that she married him under an assumed name and that she did not disclose her past life and in answer to this Mrs. Paddleford made denial and asserted that her history had been well known to her latest husband. A few months ago Mrs. Paddleford, with her daughter, Marie Paddleford, whose real name is Marie Teal, and who was reported engaged in grand opera work sailed from New York for Europe.

TEXAS OIL MAN WANTS $50,000 AS HEART BALM

John R. Roberts, Multimillionaire, Files Breach of Promise Suit Against Chicago Actress—Girl Declares Man Wants His Presents Back.

CHICAGO, June 10.—Reversing the code of love litigations, John R. Roberts, Texas rancher and oil man, whose wealth is reputed at $3,000,000 has filed the praecipe of a $50,000 breach of promise suit against Miss Gladys Wells, an actress now living in Chicago.

Miss Wells said she finally accepted Roberts' attention after he had followed her over the country.

"Because he presented me with furs and jewels valued, he claimed, at $50,000, he said that I was his property," Miss Wells said. "I moved to Mexico, Texas, where he lived, and during two years there he used to hurl such words at me as: 'I bought your soul. You belong to me.' He demanded that I marry him and pestered me until I was frantic. I had to escape from him and I left six months ago, hiding like a fugitive. What he wants, I think, is to force me to marry him or return his gifts."

Roberts is said to have become wealthy overnight when oil was discovered on his ranch.

HONOR MARK TWAIN ON JACKASS HILL

SONORA, Cal., June 10.—The beginning of Mark Twain's career of making men's tasks easier to bear is indelibly associated with his days in the mining country of Tuolumne and Calaveras counties, Governor Stephens said in an address today at the dedication of the Mark Twain memorial cabin at Jackass Hill near here. There was a great gathering of people on the summit of old Jackass Hill today. Long before the hour for the opening of the program visitors began to assemble from river canyon and the town of Melones. The zigzag trail over which the red shirted miners' pack animals of early days wended their way to the summit, now packed marked and honey-combed by the prospectors of years ago, has given way to a graded road over which automobiles now travel and these brought hundreds of people from miles around. It was the pack animals which gave the old hill its picturesque name.

A barbecue preceded the dedication ceremonies, over a hundred people being fed on steaks broiled over the open fire by the Tuolumne chamber of commerce, hosts of the occasion.

SPARROW LEAVES FOR CRATER LAKE TO OPEN UP ROAD

Superintendent Alex Sparrow left with a crew of ten men this morning in auto trucks for Crater Lake. They will go as far as they can by auto and then dig in through the snow to Anna Spring camp, where they will make their headquarters for several days while they attempt to clear the roadway of the deep snow from there to the lodge five miles away. It will take some time to clear a way to the lodge. Mr. Sparrow after starting the work expects to return to the city on Monday.

Notwithstanding that there is now six feet of snow at the lodge and four feet at Anna Spring camp, as Superintendent Sparrow found on a trip to the lake from which he returned last Thursday night, the present outlook is that tourists can go all the way to the lodge by auto when the Crater Lake season opens July 1st. In past years visitors to Crater Lake on opening day often had to leave their cars at government camp and go to the lodge, a mile away, by foot.

According to present plans Superintendent Sparrow and his secretary, H. H. Long, will move their office and records from the federal building in this city to Government camp, about July 15th, for the season. The force of laborers at the national park will probably not be increased until July 1st or a few days before.

JUDGE CALKINS IS THREATENED BY THE K. K. K.

Circuit Judge Receives Mysterious Missive Signed "K. K. K." Telling Him to Beware" if He Gives Dud Wolgamott a New Trial.

Circuit Judge F. M. Calkins presented the following statement to the Mail Tribune this noon:

To the Author of the following notice:

"Hon. F. M. Calkins,
If Dud Wolgamott is given a new trial

BEWARE K. K. K."

I found this notice under my office door this morning, and as you failed to leave your address I am compelled to answer through the newspaper.

In answer I wish to assure you and any organization which you represent that I shall do my duty as I see it regardless of any threats.

F. M. CALKINS.

June 10, 1922.
The threat from the Ku Klux Klan consisted of a number of newspaper clippings pasted onto a plain sheet of white paper, and signed in red ink "K. K. K." Apparently the unknown writer went to great pains to escape detection, for each word in the warning was a separate clipping, in different sizes of type, taken it is believed from the Jacksonville Post. There was no typewriting on the sheet and the secret order's letters were printed with a pen very carefully.

"I am surprised to receive such a communication," said Judge Calkins, "particularly as I gave Wolgamott a very stiff sentence, a severe lecture, and my record in such cases is well known. Naturally I would not be inclined to grant a new trial except on a plain case of error."

Judge Calkins did not wish to be quoted regarding whom he believed responsible for the threat, but he plainly showed that he resented such a procedure, and was determined to consider the case on its merits, regardless of any threats sent, or any further threats received from any source whatever.

ASHLAND HILLAH TEMPLE FIRST TO ARRIVE IN S. F.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10.—The stage is set and the banners of San Francisco are waving. In the distance the smoke of Shrine special rolls black against the horizon while the trains thunder onward to the enchanted city.

Three delegations of nobles to the golden jubilee of the Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, are making headquarters in San Francisco today. They are Aahmes temple from Oakland, Cal.; Arabia from Houston, Texas and Hillah from Ashland, Oregon.

Kareem temple from Waco, Texas, in fifteen special cars, will arrive here early tomorrow. Four temples are en route from Kansas, Abdullah, Leavenworth; Midian, Wichita; Mirza, Pittsburg, and Isis, Salina.

President Harding's temple, Aladdin of Columbus, Ohio, will arrive about the same time, after a journey via the Canadian Rockies. Every member of the delegation of 200 is a personal friend of the nation's chief executive and added the president in his trip eastward over the flaming sands.

One of the members of the Aladdin's crack musical organization plays the president's own cornet, loaned to him for the golden jubilee. When President Harding was a youth he played it in the village band.

Housing arrangements are completed for thousands more than the capacity of all the city's hotels.

Bankers Reconsider; May Grant Germany A Small Loan Now

PARIS, June 10.—(By the Associated Press.)—An important conclusion arrived at by the international committee of bankers, as set forth today in their final report to the allied reparations commission, is that although a large international loan to Germany cannot be recommended at the present time the subject can be taken up later and that meanwhile a relatively small loan, to prevent financial collapse in Germany might be arranged if necessities should require it.

BISHOP SUMNER WINS AUDIENCE H. S. FAREWELL

After getting away to a late start because of a combination of unfortunate circumstances the annual commencement of the Medford high school, which began at 8:55 o'clock last night, proved to be one of the delightful and impressive ones in the city's history, the varied program of short addresses, musical selections and other features moving along with precision and snap.

The Page theater was filled with relatives and friends of the 52 graduates and other people interested in educational affairs. The stage presented a pretty sight with the graduates seated in a body, flanked on the side with the school officials and other speakers, and cut flowers banked up at the front of the stage and overhead the floral and greens "Class of '22." Bishop Sumner's Address

Medford has heard many commencement orators of varied worth and styles of delivery, but none was more appreciated and well liked than Bishop Walter Taylor Sumner of Portland, who delivered last night's address. His address was on the need of general and higher education, and his democratic utterances, oratory, friendliness and relating of humorous stories to illustrate important points quickly won popularity with the audience and paved the way for the latter and more serious part of his remarks, which were all the more appreciated because of his long practical experience in educational affairs, including six years spent as a member of the Chicago, Ill., board of education.

Bishop Sumner stated among other things that Oregon stands first in the number of its high school graduates it sends through colleges and universities, and in the number of its grade pupils it sends on through high school. While he was handing out his educational bouquets he congratulated the people of Medford on the high standing of its schools and reputation in the educational world, especially during the last two years.

He also congratulated Medford on having two such able educational leaders as Superintendent Aubrey

MILLIONAIRE, ANGEL FOR GRAIN MEN

Senate Investigation of Grain Growers, Inc., Brings Out Fact That Member of Chicago Board of Trade Behind the Co-operative Marketing Scheme.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Organization by the United States Grain Growers, Inc., with the assistance of a Chicago millionaire of a subsidiary for the co-operative marketing of grain was detailed by James K. Mason of Milton, Ind., vice-president of the grain growers, in testifying today before the special senate committee investigating the alleged activities of the United States Grain Dealers association to prevent co-operative marketing legislation.

Mr. Mason, who with other officers of the grain growers, appeared at the committee's request with books and records in connection with charges that the organization had marketed no grain for its members, said the new subsidiary was known as the United States Grain Growers Sales department.

The Chicago millionaire, whose name he did not disclose, was engaged in the sale of grain upon the Chicago board of trade, he said. The millionaire, he added, is expected to loan the grain growers $50,000 to be used in obtaining a membership on the Chicago board of trade and was financing the newly created sales department. The financier, the committee was further told, was willing to add a million dollars or more to make the undertaking a success.

When mention of the Chicago millionaire was brought into the hearing, Chairman Keyes asked: "Will you give the committee his name?"
"I very much prefer not to do so," replied Mr. Mason, "but will do so if the committee insists."
"Under the circumstances then, the committee will not insist," Chairman Keyes said, and no further attempt was made to obtain the name of the Chicago man.

Smith and Principal O. R. Campbell. The bishop impressed on his audience the value of higher education and its influence on the world's affairs. He asserted that the old slogan, "Honesty is the Best Policy" had given away to the new slogan "Honesty is Absolutely Necessary in Business." His address was full of sound practical advice and helpfulness to the graduates, parents and audience generally. He advocated character, self sacrifice, helpfulness and unselfishness as absolutely essential to success and contentedness.

Medford's School Needs
Superintendent Aubrey Smith in his introduction of Bishop Sumner as the speaker of the night took occasion to call attention to the congested condition of the schools of the city and declared that enlarged quarters must be provided for both the grade schools and high school, to do away with what he termed as "this deplorable condition." He said in the opinion of those familiar with the situation it could be remedied by the erection of a new and modern high school building. Every nook and cranny of the present old building is utilized along with the renting of outside buildings.

"Sooner or later it must be done," said Superintendent Smith, in closing his remarks on this matter, "and the sooner the better."

The valedictory and salutatory addresses of Miss Muriel Schuchard and Miss Alta Knips were both of merit and originality. Each had a good stage presence and delivery. The musical features of the program by members of the graduating class won much admiration, especially the "Song of the Vikings" by the double mixed quartette, four girls and four

73 YEAR OLD TWINS FAIL TO WALK TO CANYON CITY WITH WHEEL BARROWS

HOOD RIVER, Ore., June 10.—David and George Upton, twins, aged 73, once pioneers of Canyon City, are the most disappointed men in Hood River, because of their failure to realize an ambition to walk to Canyon City and participate in the sixtieth anniversary of the discovery of gold. The aged twins started to walk the 215 miles, after their trundling in front of him a two-wheeled push cart loaded with camping paraphernalia.

"We had more enthusiasm than endurance," said David Upton, "and the enthusiasm seemed to wane after we had pushed our carts to The Dalles over the Columbia river highway. We spent a night in The Dalles and started back home. At Rowena I determined to take the train. George and I argued the matter over considerably there, sitting by the roadside, but he declined to ride home. I left him sitting on the road."
