The water consumers of the city are warned not to turn the water on again to irrigate until the fire whistle sounds which will be as soon as the repairs have been made in the pipe line and the reservoir is filled up to capacity again. They should not confuse the whistle signal that will be right again with that sounded as a regular fire alarm, which is blown to designate the ward location. It will be some time this evening or during the night, according to present outlook, when the break in the main pipe line will be repaired.
