Angus Beard, son-in-law of the late J. J. Hill, and party consisting of Angus Beard, Jr., Miss Beard, Leo Webber, valet, and Martha Howard, maid left Medford last night in their private car for Portland on S. P. train No. 16 after having spent the last few days visiting Crater Lake. Since starting from his home in New York Mr. Beard states that he has seen nothing like Crater Lake and that it's unsimilarity to any other scenic wonder which he has before visited was its most attractive feature. The party came west by way of southwestern Utah and touched the Grand Canyon of Arizona and the Royal Gorge of the Colorado on their way west as well as the Yosemite. They will return by the Northern Pacific and will stop in Yellowstone National park on their return trip.

Last hope of airplane patrol of any part of the national forest land in the northwest was abandoned today with receipt of a wire from H. H. Arnold, chief air officer of the ninth corps area, United States air service, in California. Arnold in his wire stated that the air service in this area has been reduced to one squadron of 290 men, whose time is entirely taken with military work. His wire was in reply to District Forester George H. Cecil, who wired asking what possibilities existed of air patrol over the wind blown area of the Olympic national forest in Washington.—Portland Telegram.
