Gordon Lee, chief of the automotive division of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce who spoke before the local chamber of commerce forum at the Hotel Medford Friday, left last night for Portland after having enjoyed a trip to Crater Lake with Ben Sheldon. The men made a trip on the rim road as far as was possible and then a trip around the shore line in a launch. Mr. Lee was enthusiastic in his praise of the lake and stated that he thought it more wonderful than either the Grand Canyon or the Yosemite.

3 INJURED AUTO ACCIDENT, MIRACLE VICTIMS ESCAPED

Mrs. Wm. Belmont of Bend, Mr. Mann of Salem and Mr. Rodenhamer of Portland were seriously injured last night when an Oldsmobile roadster, belonging to William Belmont of Bend, left the road at Neal creek bridge on the Pacific highway several miles south of Ashland.

According to reports, the Oldsmobile, driven by Mann, was racing with a Hudson Super-Six. The cars were coming south on the highway at an excessive rate of speed and the Oldsmobile ran off the road instead of crossing the bridge. The car practically leaped across Neal creek before striking and then rolled and slid a hundred feet over rocks and boulders. The car is a complete wreck, all four wheels, top, windshield and one side of the body having been smashed. It is thought that one or two complete revolutions were made by the car after the leap from the bridge although it was in an upright position when it came to rest.

Rodenhamer was out of the hospital and was walking around this morning. Mann is seriously cut and bruised. Mrs. Belmont is injured internally and the exact extent of her injury is as yet indefinite.

Persons who viewed the remains of the car after the wreck had happened state that they do not understand why all of the members of the party were not killed.

Elmer Knips and Wilbur Godlove returned last night from a trip to Crater Lake and Prospect.
