

Local and Personal

Last night's council meeting was much shorter and involved much less argument than is usual. The only argument between members of the council was one involving the question of whether the rules should be suspended or not so that the ordinance might be passed at once authorizing the execution of a deed to the armory site to the state of Oregon for $7000 to be applied on the city's $20,000 share of the armory. Two of the councilmen were not in favor of the suspension of the rules and wished the remainder of the council to wait until the next meeting when Mayor C. E. Gates would be present as he is expected to return from his vacation at Pelican Bay in a week. Regular procedure provides that the ordinance be laid over until the next meeting for a final vote. However the vote was taken, the rules were suspended and the ordinance was passed, after which the meeting broke up at 9:30 and all the councilmen became harmonious with each other and were invited by Dick Antle to attend the show at his "shrine of the silent art" in a body.

JURY DECIDES COLLINS IS NOT OWNER OF SHOW

The falling barometer of fortunes marking the progress of Lew F. Collins' Golden West Shows came to a storm center this morning when some dozen of its employees, clowns, jugglers, wire walkers, etc., sought relief in court before the sheriff's jury, with Sheriff Terrill presiding.

When the storm center cleared fortune smiled once more on Lew Collins, but not so on those who have helped the show on its perilous way.

Attorney H. A. Canaday endeavored to uphold an attachment on the show, while Attorney B. F. Lindas for the defence argued to prove ownership vested in persons other than Collins.

It was decided by the sheriff's jury that the property attached for
