TURKS PROTEST GREEK ADVANCE IN ASIA MINOR

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 3.—(By Associated Press). The sublime Porte has presented to the allied representatives here a formal protest against the Greek proclamation of autonomy of Iola.

The movement of Greek troops from Asia Minor to Rodosto, in Thrace, continues. The remainder of these forces, it is stated in well informed allied quarters, will bring the Greek strength in Thrace to more than 60,000 men, while the allied army on the defense lines northwest of this city total only about 10,000.

Local opinion inclines to the view that the Greek concentration is merely an effort to assist the powers in forcing the Turkish nationalist government at Angora to agree to peace terms.

There are reports that as soon as the troop concentration is completed new peace talk will begin under the patronage of the powers. Both the Greeks and the nationalists will again be asked to state their minimum terms, it is declared, and if the Kemalists decline to listen to reason, the allies threaten to withdraw their troops, leaving Constantinople open to the Greek advance.

EAGLE POINT EAGLETS

A. C. Howlett

George Albert of Duffrey mill has been stopping here for several days, to repair the water tank at the P. & E. depot, and understand that the head man of that department for the company has been out and promises to order material for a new tank, as far as the lumber is concerned, entirely.

Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Lufner and their son, Jim, and daughter Eleanor, came in to spend the night. Mr. Lufner is assistant state engineer, Salem, Ore., looking after the interest of the water users from Little Butte creek. He seemed to be a very busy man and found after he had looked over the field that he had more of a job on his hands than he could accomplish in a day, so leaving his wife and little daughter at the hotel he started out Saturday morning; he kept at work all day. In the meantime Fred Cummings, the water boss for this district, stopped in and learned that Mr. Lufner was here at the hotel, changed his plans somewhat. He had his family with him and were on the way to Prospect to have the family enjoy a camping season on Rogue river, and decided to spend the night at the hotel also, so that the two families had a good visit together, and so Mr. Cummings started quite early to their camp ground he had already selected, so as to enable him to get back to Medford in time for him to vote, reaching here to vote, reaching here in time for supper and meeting. Mr. Lufner was here again and arranging their plans for future work. The next morning, Sunday, they arranged to start on their return journey to Grants Pass, although Mrs. Lufner seemed to regret that the time had come for them to depart, for as she expressed it, it seemed so much like home. There had been some complaints about the improper use of the water in the upper part of the district, but Mr. Lufner seemed to think that they had it all properly arranged again.

Harvey Stanley and three others, strangers, were here for dinner Friday.

There were quite a number here Friday beside the regular boarders, and among them was Charley Manning and what I took for his brother. The people come in, sit down to the table, eat in a hurry and pay "Ma," and are gone often before I can learn who they are.

Saturday being election day, was a busy day in Eagle Point, and I am satisfied that there was more people in town than any other one day in five years. We polled the largest vote we have had for years—184, and all for Charley to remain sheriff, and there were ten voters reached the polls too late to vote and as near as I can learn, all wanted to vote for Charley. They had been haying, and by the time they worked ten hours, took care of the teams, eat their supper and reached the polling place the time was up.

As an evidence of the interest taken in the election, while I was resting after I had voted, I spent an hour or so in the polling room. There were ten persons, men and women, came in and filled out registration cards who had not voted for years.

Mrs. George West, whose husband is in the civil service employ, and is now in eastern Oregon, came out and took a room at the Sunnyside, closing her home in Medford.

Among those who were at the Sunnyside for dinner Saturday Lawrence Conger, Walter Wood, Frank Haselton and his brother, Oden Haselton, John Greb, and his daughter, Miss Francis A. Y. Florey, Jerry Lewis and W. C. Daley, the last five named were the election board.

Saturday afternoon I went out to Medford, and the first place I went was to Dr. Emmons' office, but found that he was out. That was the second time I had called and both times found him out for that afternoon, but my case with him was not very expert as he had fixed my eyes, so that I can see to do my own writing and read it after I have done it, but I sometimes pity the poor printer who has to make the types. The next move was to call on Dr. W. W. P. Hunt, and found him in and there also met his father, Rev. Dr. Holt, who is canvassing the coast to raise an endowment fund sufficient so that the interest can be applied for the support of old or worn out ministers of the Presbyterian church, and all the business I had with him this time was to let him know that I was all O. K. My next move was to visit the office of the Mail Tribune and have a little social chat with the editor and his staff of helpers, procure a copy of the D. M. T. and scan its pages until time for me to start home. This is quite a digression, but I wanted to let my readers know that I was on a winning ground.

There was another ball game here Sunday afternoon, the B. B. T. from Rogue River came down and played against the E. P. B. T. and the result was that the Rogue River boys came out second best, the score standing 6 to 17 in favor of Eagle Point. I heard some of the boys from Rogue River complaining that our pitcher, Harold Van Scoy was a world beater when it came to pitching, he gives the ball such a funny twist. But if he happens to see this and you hear of an old man getting rode on a rail, you need not be surprised.

Among the callers at the Sunnyside Sunday were Miss Etta Grieve, Earl Ulrich of Prospect, Eli Dahak and son Everett, Earl Mathews, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Haley, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. McPherson and son Fred, Ed Wolfer of Hubbard, Ore. He came in Sunday to look after the interests of his father-in-law, James Jordan, who is quite aged and has been in poor health for some time past. His daughter came down about a month ago to take him home with her, but he would not go, but he finally grew worse and sent for Mr. Wolfer to come for him and they started Monday night, Mr. Wolfer was in the tin and hardware business in Medford for some time and finally bought a tract of land now owned by William Perry and went into the strawberry business, finally married a widowed daughter of Mr. Jordan and eventually moved to Hubbard and is now engaged in the berry business. He has quite a variety of strawberries, 13 different kinds, besides other kinds of berries.

Buck Hildreth, his wife and mother of Butte Falls, came in in the afternoon on their way home and remained until after supper and went on up home in the cool of the evening.

Monday morning about 1 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. George King and Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Smith of Central Point came in and called for beds. They had started Sunday morning to go to Crater lake, aiming to go there and back in a day, but one can never tell what will happen to a party who are out with an auto. To sum it all up they had tire trouble along the latter part of the trip, and to make a long story short, they had, if I understand them right, 37 punctures and blow-outs and when they reached Eagle Point found that they had not enough gas to take them home so ran the car down to the garage and began to look for some one or some where to stay the rest of the night, and finally succeeded in finding the Sunnyside and were soon comfortably tucked away in bed. The next morning on passing to see the condition of their car found that they had been running on two flat tires, what was left of them, for they were somewhat scattered, but in a short time they were on their way home.

There is some changes taking place in Eagle Point in business lines: the B. F. Eagle Point Irrigation Canal company having purchased the old Racket store building, have fixed it up for their office and moved from the E. P. Hardware company building into it. But I find that my letter is getting too long so will keep the rest for my Saturday letter.

Rev. H. G. Adams will preach Sunday morning and evening.
