GIGANTIC WATER POWER PROJECT IN OREGON ENDORSED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Utilization of the Deschutes river, Oregon, and its tributaries for irrigation of approximately 140,000 acres in Deschutes basin with incidental power development was recommended to the federal power commission in a report of the board of engineers made public today. The board, composed of D. C. Henny, consulting engineer of the reclamation service, Colonel J. C. Cavanaugh, army engineer corps, and F. E. Henshaw, district engineer, United States geological survey, began its investigation more than a year ago to work out a policy to be followed by the federal government and the state of Oregon in using or disposing of public lands, waters, reservoirs and power sites contiguous to the Deschutes river which best would serve the public interest. By using the upper Deschutes for irrigation, an aggregate of 555,000 horsepower could be developed on the lower river, the engineers found and if the upper Deschutes storage be used for power the aggregate horsepower would be increased 613,000.

The Pacific coast, said the report, "is bound to become an industrial center in the future by reason of abundance of water power even though the uses to which it may be put, considering scarcity of certain raw materials are as yet uncertain. From the standpoint of economy the agricultural products which will ultimately be consumed should be raised locally both to avoid long distance transportation and build up communities in which the industrial and farming interests shall be reasonably balanced. Values of irrigated land are steadily advancing and it will be a question of a comparatively short time when all of these irrigation units, if not feasible now, will become practicable to the extent of available water supply."

Eugene O'Brien Loses Curls, But Will Live

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 11.—Eugene O'Brien, motion picture actor, who suffered a possible fracture of the skull and internal injuries when he was run down by a motor truck early yesterday was reported resting easily at Hollywood hospital today. Surgeons treating O'Brien's scalp found it necessary to shave off his curls.

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Prices in today's stock market session made good progress towards higher levels despite the critical railroad strike situation. Rails continued to show exceptional strength, several issues breaking through to new top prices, although trading was restricted, presumably on the disposition of many investors to await the outcome of today's strike conference before making further commitments. Sales approximated 600,000 shares.

TO INSPECT MT. ASHLAND ROAD

usually beginning Aug. 20, may be postponed until further notice as officially announced by the governor.

Strike matters have been unusually quiet at this terminal since a month or so, but of late several of the shopmen have been arrested charged with carrying concealed weapons, a change of venue being taken to Justice Taylor's court at Medford. Strikebreakers are guarded, and appear to be handling the required work.

Gene Moody has gone to Sacramento where he has secured a good permanent position.

Doc Blake still holds the fort here in a professional way, but later on will join his family at Newport. For the time being there are several important matters before the council demanding urgent attention, hence the city dads are sacrificing vacation pleasures in order the better to attend to interests of their constituents.

Don't get excited if the city water at times—especially if you are supplied from the upper intakes—assumes a milky hue. At this summer stage of a low supply, the water gets mixed with air, a circumstance which does not imply contamination, but merely aeration, a condition which improves the liquid rather than detracting from its qualities. The only contention is over rates, the question being raised whether or not meters are running up water rates on patrons when the utility supplied is blended as between air and water, instead of aqua pura exclusively. A board of experts will investigate the air clause of this water problem.

Arthur Peters has been a fireman pro tem as substitute for members of the regular force away on a vacation.
