French Count to Replace Jusserand Snapped Before Meeting Harding

Count Charles-de Chambrun, (right) has arrived in Washington to act as minister plenipotentiary to the French embassy there during the absence of Ambassador Jusserand (left) who leaves shortly for France. Rumors around the capital have it that the Jusserands may not return, although as yet, nothing is definite.

PRESIDENT SENDS CONDOLENCES TO LADY NORTHCLIFFE

LONDON, Aug. 15.—(By the Associated Press)—A remarkable tribute is paid by the British press to the late Viscount Northcliffe, this morning, columns and in some instances even pages being devoted to editorials, photographs and special articles on the achievements and personality of the master journalist whose career ended at the height of his power.

Naturally the Northcliffe publications make the greatest effort to eulogize "the chief," and the Times devotes four pages with upturned column rules as a mark of mourning to biographical sketches and messages of regret from journalists, statesmen and the diplomats in all parts of the world.

Tributes from America, including President Harding's message of condolence to Lady Northcliffe, are displayed prominently. George Harvey, the American ambassador, sent a message from Scotland, but King George who is there also, is not represented among the published telegrams of the empire's prominent personages.

The press generally terms Lord Northcliffe the greatest British journalist of all times. His spirited Fleet street competitors, yet intimate personal friends, Lord Burnham and Lord Beaverbrook, the proprietors of the Daily Telegraph and Daily Express are unstinting in their praise of Northcliffe's journalism.

Those editorial writers who are unwilling to accord Northcliffe the highest pinnacle of journalism, pay tribute to his charm as a man, and include a respectful word regarding his devotion to his mother, one of the abiding traits of his personality.

Big Shipments at Yakima.
YAKIMA, Wash., Aug. 12.—Five hundred and thirty-nine cars of fruit, vegetables and sheep were moved out of the Yakima valley this week, according to figures of local railroad officials, announced today. In spite of the strike, there was no delay in car movements, they said.

WAY OF A MAHOUT WITH THE FEMALE OF THE SPECIES

LONDON, Aug.—A big female Indian elephant that went on strike at the Zoo last spring and refused to do what all big elephants at the Zoo are required to do—earn money by carrying children around on her back—has been cured of the sulks and laziness by the seemingly magic treatment of an Indian mahout.

She was presented to the zoo by the Maharajah of Cochin Behar two years ago. She had been well trained and acted at all times like a sensible, well-behaved elephant and obeyed orders properly. She developed no vices beyond that of picking pockets for edible dainties. But every elephant that has any sense at all learns to do that in the zoo.

Then she took it into her big head that she would not submit to being tossed any longer. She declined to stand between the new riding steps that had been fixed up for the convenience of juvenile elephant riders. When the old wooden steps were substituted for the new ones she proved equally obdurate. In the end she declined to leave the elephant yard at all.

As the elephant is a fine animal, and quite good tempered, it was decided to obtain a mahout from India. He was cabled for, and arrived in due course. He was taken to the elephant house. He at once entered the enclosure and formally saluted the animal, standing first at her head and then at her tail. Next he took off his shoes, and knotted a rope loosely round the elephant's neck, which he afterward used as a kind of stirrup.

With little difficulty he persuaded her to kneel and mounted her neck. In less than two minutes, soothing, patting, and talking volubly to her in Hindustani, he had got on good terms with the animal. Then he took her round to the elephant ride, and apparently had her in complete control.

Phrases of his admonitions, freely translated, were as follows: "I am told that you eat your food, and will not work; it is wrong; Allah enjoins us all that we must work if we would eat. You are cheating your masters, and it is unworthy of you. I am only a black man, and you must not mind me. Put fear out of your mind; take it up from your heart, and throw it out."

The elephant certainly seemed to understand and now obeys every order. The mahout was given quarters in another part of the gardens, but he obtained leave to sleep in the elephant house, as he says that he wishes to talk to the elephant during the night. He has not yet tried to saddle her, as he wants to take things slowly, but he is confident he will conquer all her fears and make her permanently obedient.

"CANNED HEAT" HAS POWERFUL PUNCH

WICHITA, Kansas, Aug. 15.—In Kansas, which went "dry" when little old New York thought talk of national prohibition was a joke, they do peculiar things nowadays to get the "alcoholic blues."

Canned heat is the latest drink, and it might well be called "canned dynamite."

Sumner Greene, in police court, said his very complete state of intoxication had been caused by drink-

THOMAS MEIGHAN IN PAGE SCREEN STORY

Thomas Meighan in George Ade's first original story for the screen, "Our Leading Citizen," is at the Page theater this week beginning today, and should keep that extremely popular house even more crowded than usual, for it is delightful entertainment. Ade's humor ripples through the subtleties and his skill at character acting makes the people of the simple story seem real and very human.

"Our Leading Citizen" deals with Dan Bentley, a well educated young lawyer who prefers fishing to work in the courts and neglects his business until he is waked up by a pretty girl, well played by Lois Wilson, who is quite charming enough to wake up any man.

She fires him with ambition and he goes into politics, putting the old war horses to rout and winning after a hard fought battle.

Meighan played in one of Ade's first comedies "The College Widow," in which also Larry Wheat, who is in "Our Leading Citizen" had a big part. Meighan played the young college hero.

In the cast besides those mentioned are Lois Wilson and Theodore Roberts.

Coal Strike at Sydney.

SYDNEY, N. S., Aug. 15.—Virtually every important coal mine in Nova Scotia is closed today by a strike of upwards of 12,000 miners.

Terms of the latest company offer raised minimum day rates from $2.55 to $3.25 and contract rates 10 per cent. This would give a rate of pay about 22 per cent below the wages of 1921, which the miners are asking.
