

J. WINBURN BUYS ASHLAND HOSPITAL FOR 'COMMUNITY'

ASHLAND, Aug. 28.—It's a cold day even in the good old summertime when Jesse Winburn is not either directly financing some noted public improvement or subsidizing one on a liberal scale. A late move of his is the purchasing of the Granite City hospital and presenting the name to the city outright, with but few strings attached. The object is to have a community hospital, unfettered by any denominational control. It will be neither a Methodist nor a Presbyterian institution, and will also be minus the destination of any saintly patronymic, both Jew and Gentile being welcome within its walls.

The hospital was built some ten years ago or so, and has witnessed the vicissitudes of many corporate institutions built on a stock basis. When originally constructed its location was on extensive acreage, a circumstance which was thought to be an asset at the time, but developments proved to the contrary and a portion of the land was sold, this sale helping out the stockholders to a limited extent. The installation of sewers and paying improvements added a heavy burden to the concern's liabilities. Of course Winburn did not pay for this stock. It has never been a dividend payer, and the transfer is said to have been made on a fair basis considering this fact. The purchase will carry with it in due time the installation of notable improvements. Whether the name remains the same is yet to be determined. However, the city will control it, either by municipal management direct, or by lease to some responsible supervision, subject to control the same as that exercised over other departments.

Of the numerous Smith brothers, two were railroad employees. Chet is with a creamery at Montague, and Leonard is with a threshing crew temporarily, the operations of which are extensive throughout the valley.

Better look out! It cost a local resident a good round fine for indulging in profane and threatening language. He pleaded not guilty, but the testimony of several neighbors convicted him nevertheless.

The Oregonian of last Friday has the following item: "Carlton V. Logan, of Tualatin, who has been a student at the school of Journalism of the University of Oregon, and who also has been connected with the Cottage Grove Sentinel, has left for Ashland, Ore., where he will become city editor of the Ashland Tidings."

Some railroad crews are viewing with alarm the installation of huge locomotives, from the viewpoint of the bigger the motive power the less help employed, the larger models displacing a correspondingly bigger number of the smaller ones. Now that turntables have been equipped to handle them, several engines of the colossal type are appearing in local yards, the Southern Pacific introducing them on the Siskiyou mountain haul, necessitating bigger turntables at Siskiyou station and Hornbrook also.

Ever on the alert to introduce added protection features, the First National bank is installing burglar-proof linings in its vaults, experts being here to do the work, which is an extensive job requiring ten days or more. This super-sensitive lining will, upon being tampered with release mechanism which will sound an alarm sufficient to awaken the traditional seven sleepers, in addition to the night watch, also all the bank officials either resident or non-resident. The clang of the melodious chime clock will be as nothing compared to the shrill clarion sounded by the new apparatus.

A look at the foundation of the new Enders wholesale grocery establishment gives some idea of the extent of the big structure. It will be located across the street, south of the Fruit & Produce association, and is to be about 150 by 90 feet, of concrete two stories high. Excavation is now going on with a rush, Enders himself personally superintending the job. This new improvement is a go, and is not stationary merely on a blueprint foundation.

About a dozen striking railroad shopmen still are employed on substantial improvements being made on the premises at Sap-and-Salt. Autos convey the men back and forth on the job.

The board of directors of the Talent Irrigation District, which is in reality the tax levying board, will meet at Talent on Sept. 5 to hear pleas for or against the estimates for the current year, Oct. 1, 1922, to Sept. 30, 1923, the budget being in the sum of $33,532.25, for management, supplies, upkeep, etc. O. Arnsperger is secretary of the board of directors, and A. H. Davenport, of Valley View, secretary of the budget committee.

Jesse Winburn has donated $300 to boost the big celebration in Ashland on Labor Day. Most of this sum will be distributed in prizes. All that is needed now is fine weather for the important event. Jesse himself will be the chief marshal of the day.

From the appearance of some of the auto occupants passing both in and through town, it's about time to invoke the state law prohibiting young folks under sixteen years driving a car.

Dwight Hicks has returned from a vacation trip, starting weeks ago to the Province of Alberta, having for a companion Lars Eliason, who is engaged in ranching wheat lands with his brother Ross up in that country.

A cucumber war has broken out in the Rogue River and Willamette. Ashland produces the most gigantic specimen, but the up-north papers don't want to admit it.

Visions of big strikes of gold, platinum and quicksilver deposits are reported by experienced parties who have recently been prospecting in the Applegate country, adjacent to Wagner Gap, territory which is tributary to this city.

In the American league Washington, though out by Detroit, won 7 to 2. The Yankees and the Browns were prevented from playing by rain. They will however, play off the game today.

CHILDREN MUST HAVE MILK FOR HEALTH

If a child is below its proper weight at 12 the chances are against its ever becoming perfectly normal, yet upwards of 5,000,000 American children are below weight today.

Recent surveys in different parts of the United States, both in the cities and rural districts, show that from 10 to 20 per cent of the school children in each community weigh at least 10 per cent less than they should. These underweight children yield readily to contagious diseases, and death takes large toll of them on account of their unpreparedness to resist sickness by virtue of rich blood and healthy vital flesh.

It is not a question of quantity of food, but of the right balance. Startling as it is, malnutrition was found just as often among children of the very rich as among the exceeding poor people. In fact, the average of correct weight was oftener found among the great middle class than at either extreme. Not always there even, however. There might be food in plenty and of the right sort, but if the mother lacked knowledge of food elements, the child's prejudices and tastes were allowed to rule to its own undoing.

An effort is now being made to teach children, as well as their mothers, the kind of food that must be furnished to each child to make it grow, keep it well and repair waste.

The thing that is insisted upon most emphatically in these campaigns is that the child must have plenty of milk. Feed an abundance of milk, and you have gone a long way in giving a child a chance for health. A quart of milk each day for every child is not too much.

The Jackson County Creamery pasteurizes their milk which is the modern method for purification.

EAGLE POINT EAGLETS

Sam Harnish and his son Ray and family started for Klamath Falls to look after property belonging to Mrs. Ray Harnish and to have an outing in the mountains. They did not say how long they expected to be gone.

Among the caterers for Giner Sunday were A. R. McDonald and wife, Royal Brown and wife and his brother, Wm. H. Brown of the firm of Geo. Brown & Sons. His wife who went to British Columbia some weeks ago had not returned at that date but he thought she would likely be home by the middle of the week. Mrs. S. B. Holmes, a sister was with them. Also Mrs. M. L. Abbott and son Obba of Butte Falls and Vose Adams, a son of Rev. H. G. Adams, the minister who has charge of this appointment, who has been spending his vacation working with the civil engineers corps on the extension of the P. & E. railroad beyond Butte Falls. He remained until Monday morning and went out to Medford intending to take passage on the stage to Roseburg on his way to Corvallis to go to work in the hop fields until the O. A. C. term begins again. He is a bright, promising young man and with his industrial habits bids air to make his mark in the world. Also C. A. Hansen, C. Gall and Earl Miles of Medford, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Trowbridge of Medford, Earl Bechtold and Miss Alta Allen of Derby, Floyd Charley of Brownsboro, who was not here for the county fair and engage my help in the enterprise. He says that if anyone has anything they wish to place on exhibition and have not the means to get it to the fair grounds if they will notify him he will provide means to have it taken in and arranged in the proper class. From the interest that seems to be taken in the move the prospect is that we will have the best fair we have ever had in Jackson County.

C. W. McGrew of Ashland also called Sunday evening and spent two nights. He was working in the interest of the oil and gas project of Ashland.

C. A. Pickett, the meter reader for the California-Oregon Power company was here for dinner Monday. He always manages to be here for dinner about the 21st of each month and never forgets to read the meters, there are two of them and he always finds them both.

Mrs. Glenn Haley of Gold Hill, a sister of Mrs. A. J. Florey, was also a visitor at the Sunnyside Monday morning but went back to take dinner with her sister.

Harold Nichol and wife of Fort Klamath, came in Sunday afternoon to visit his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Nichols and remained until about 10 o'clock and returned home that night, a matter of but a few hours run.

Carl Beibersteadt, one of our prosperous citizens who owns a fine farm and orchard a few miles above here, was a business caller Tuesday.

Wm. Bigham who is on the J. M. Rader farm on Antelope, Sam Coy, the mail contractor on the Eagle Point-Climax route, and four other men were here for dinner Tuesday. The four men might have been known to me but I just saw them as they started for the dinner table and they were too busy to bother about names.

Mrs. J. M. Stine and son Malcolm of Los Gatos, Calif., were here for dinner Wednesday and so was D. E. Patterson of Talent and A. E. Williams, V. O. N. Smith and J. W. McCoy of Ashland were also here for dinner and C. M.

McAlister, Portland, representing the Union Stock Yards at Portland. He and B. C. Chaney, secretary of the Jackson County Farm Bureau, assisting Mr. McAlister, on his way to Lake Creek, where there was to be a meeting at which moving pictures of the business connected with the Union Stock Yards were to be presented. Mr. McAlister has his own electric lights and all the necessary appliances. He is canvassing our county in that line of business. They ate supper and then went on up to Lake Creek and returned to Medford that night.

J. J. McMahon, state traffic officer, was here for supper and Mr. R. Panche and his brother of Pueblo, Calif., came in Tuesday and remained until Wednesday afternoon. They are traveling for the Ornamental Distributing company of California.

Wednesday afternoon the family, all except myself, went to Central Point to attend the funeral of Lewis G. Smith's little daughter. I remained at home on account of being unwell and after I had had an afternoon nap the following men called for dinner, the provisions all cleared away after feeding twenty or more, most of them regular boarders, and I was at a loss to know what to do but then I would do the best I could, so looking around I found the bread, a piece of cold boiled ham, etc., and soon had Messrs. D. E. Patterson, Talent, A. E. Williams, Ashland, V. O. N. Smith, Ashland, and J. W. McCoy, Ashland, seated at the table and a more grateful set of hungry men I have not seen for a long time. They had been up in the Lake Creek country to look after some goats and I referred them to the classified columns of the Medford Mail Tribune for I had just sent in an add for J. G. McAlister of Lake Creek.

J. H. Carlton of Welen, called for supper Wednesday night. He was running his threshing machine out to J. L. Robinson's and was on his way home. He reports that the grain is not coming out as well as usual on account of the unusual heat in June, but is fairly good. After writing the above item I learned that Mr. Carlton had with him three other men and that they all stayed that and the next night.

Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. W. DeWitt, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Randall and two children, Ruth and Irving from Westward, Calif., Lou McCallister of Grants Pass, Joe McCurdy of Grants Pass came in and called for supper. They had come in via Fort Klamath from Ashland, stopping two hours at Crater Lake, and went on down to Ashland.

Since writing the foregoing Mrs. Wm. H. Brown has returned from British Columbia where she has been visiting and assisting in caring for her aunt, Mrs. Robert Brown, and reports that she is somewhat improved in health.

being who can thrill to the joys, the disappointments, the pranks and the glory of boyhood will gloat over the trials and tribulations of Speck Brown, better known to the screen world as Wes Barry.

Roy Stewart at Rialto

Patrons of the Rialto theatre are assured of exceptional entertainment when they witness H. H. Van Loan's latest photoplay entitled "The Sage Brush Trail." There is action aplenty and a remarkably fine vein of suspense. The feature offers an appeal in its romance between the sheriff of Silvertown, Arizona, called the toughest town west of the Mississippi and an eastern school-teacher.

In the cast which is of all-star proportions are Roy Stewart who displays a horsemanship unexcelled by any actor of westerns, Marjorie Daw, who contributes an appealing performance as the heroine, Wallace Beery and Johnny Walker.

Those in search of adventure, romance, action, sentiment and thrills are certain to find it in "The Sage Brush Trail," which will remain at the Rialto through tomorrow.

"School Days" is Appealing Picture

Freckle-faced Wesley Barry, the inimitable movie celebrity, will grace the screen of the Page theater, five days beginning tomorrow matinee, in his latest starring vehicle, "School Days," made from the Gus Edwards classic of the same name.

The very mention of the words "School Days" holds an appeal for young and old, and it is said that every mother who has boys, every man who remembers his boyhood, every human
