Hunting conditions in Josephine County are summed up in the Grants Pass Courier in yesterday's issue as follows: "Two of the largest bucks killed this year were brought in by Oliver O. Morton, who was hunting in the Williams creek country. The big fellows had fine horns, one being a six-pointer and the other a five-pointer. They were killed in the Craggies, John Pence, of Williams, was also successful in bringing down a nice one. They were the prettiest ones checked this year by Game Warden Bancroft, who says he has seen 41 deer brought in this season. A number of these are now at the cold storage plant."

As proof that fishing in the Rogue river is now so good that almost any one can catch a fish the following case is cited by some of the old disciples of Isaac Walton. Ben Pymale caught one at the High Banks last night. It was a steelhead and furthermore was one of the largest which has been caught in the river this year. Grover Corum helped Ben land the fish and between them they took the first two falls. It began to look doubtful whether or not they would win the match before the time limit ran out so Corum held the fish while Ben dropped a rock on its head. The fishermen both declare that a fly was the lure that was used.
