BRINGING UP FATHER

By George McManus

HANLEY HERE TO SEE FRIENDS

Like a breeze of wholesome fresh dr Tom Hanley arrived here on this norning's train with his wife and ons Gtorge and David from Bakersfeld, Calif., on their three weeks vaation, which is being spent in stops oetween Bakersfield and Seattle, and om, whose Sunday school name is comas Francis Hanley and only ased on pay days and national holi-days immediately began mixing with his many friends throughout the city the former well known Asse

Tribune, who left here in 1918 to locate in Bakersfield, where he is the Associated Press operator of the Eakersfield Californian. Among Tom's favorite so-called nephews here are Karl Knapp, Judge E. E. Jackson Co. Kelly, "Bob" Ruhl and Jonas Wold. Mr. and Mrs. Hanley and sons after a visit here of several days move on to Grants Pass where he resided for

"The Storm" at Page. The clean glory of the great north woods furnishes the background for tyld emotional work by master players in "The Storm," the special vivid emotional work by master players in "The Storm," the special feature with House Peters as a star at the Page this week, including Saturday night.

The story is a simple and powerful drama of three stranded human souls bound together in isolation from the outer world and forced to meet an intolerable situation. Langdon McCormick wrote the play which was extremely successful on the New York stage.

House Peters, Virginia Valli and

York stage.

House Peters, Virginia Valli and Matt Moore form the triangle. One man is afraid of women because he has never known them; the other because he knows them too well. Then the girl comes into their lives unex-pectedly and unavoidably. On this basis McCormick wrote his play. The forest fire and snow storm scenes are works of art, and have won wide-spread commendation wherever the film has been shown.

The Last Trail, Rialto.

A lone outlaw terrorizes the countryside in "The Last Trail," showing for the last time tonight at the Rialto, giving plenty of surprises and plenty of dramatic interest to the story that is built around him.

Zane Grey's book from which the picture is made had wide circulation and millions of readers. The picture gives prominent employment to Evn Novak, Rosemary Theby, Wal-lace Bery and Maurice Flynn.
