Law and Order—City ordinances

Police Matron—An efficient woman should be appointed as police matron or advisor, whose duties and remuneration shall be defined by the council.

Women of Our City—The women should be encouraged to take more interest in municipal affairs.

Milk—All milk and cream sold to consumers in the city should be tested and approved by a competent inspector, and no milk or cream allowed to be sold within the corporate limits carrying less than standard amounts of butterfat.

Garbage—Our city should be kept clean and sanitary at all times, and the garbage disposed of without cost to the household.

City Market—Our city market should be encouraged and extended.

Main Street Crossing—The continual blocking of Main street by the S. P. trains should be remedied as quickly as possible by the opening up by viaduct or otherwise, of Sixth street through to West Main street, thereby relieving the congestion of traffic through the city and removing the danger of great loss by fire, because of the delay of fire fighting apparatus to points west of the railway tracks.

Payrolls for the Community—An era of prosperity is at hand and more industries should be encouraged to locate among us in order to increase the payrolls and add to the building up of our city and to the development of our great natural commercial resources so close to hand. We should assist those industries already located with us. The Jackson County Industrial Fair board should be encouraged and assisted in every possible manner in order to bring about a great annual exposition entitled to be called "Southern Oregon Inter-State Fair."

J. M. ROOT THROWS HAT INTO RING FOR MAYORALTY

Local politics is beginning to warm up. It has been known for several days now that a business men's slate for mayor and members of the city council will be forthcoming any day now with Earl C. Gaddis, present councilman and vice mayor as the candidate for mayor, and today John M. Root announced his independent candidacy for mayor. With the latter's announced candidacy this makes two majority aspirants in the race so far, as Ben F. Lindas several months ago announced his candidacy.

Mr. Root's formal announcement follows:

To the Editor: Having been requested by numerous friends to head a citizens ticket for the election of city officials to serve for the two years from January first, next:

I hereby announce myself as candidate for the office of mayor for the city of Medford, and stand for the following:

Administration—The city administration should be carried forward at the least possible expense to the people and a full dollar's worth obtained in benefits for each dollar expended.

Taxes—Taxes should be reduced to the minimum.

Financial—A statement of the finances of the city should be published each six months, showing all receipts and expenditures.

Water—The water now being served to the people of our city is of a very poor quality and the lack of sufficient quantity is a great danger to our business and homes in case of fire. I am heartily in favor of obtaining the purest of water and in copious quantity, to be furnished plentifully to all parts of the city at as reasonable rates as possible. The work to be accomplished by a properly constituted water commission.

Ex-Service Men—All appointive offices should be given to ex-service men when practicable. Our obligations to them should not be overlooked.

National Guard—The National Guard should be encouraged in maintaining an efficient organization.

Police Matron—An efficient woman should be appointed as police matron or advisor, whose duties and remuneration shall be defined by the council.

Women of Our City—The women should be encouraged to take more interest in municipal affairs.

Milk—All milk and cream sold to consumers in the city should be tested and approved by a competent inspector, and no milk or cream allowed to be sold within the corporate limits carrying less than standard amounts of butterfat.

Garbage—Our city should be kept clean and sanitary at all times, and the garbage disposed of without cost to the household.

City Market—Our city market should be encouraged and extended.

Main Street Crossing—The continual blocking of Main street by the S. P. trains should be remedied as quickly as possible by the opening up by viaduct or otherwise, of Sixth street through to West Main street, thereby relieving the congestion of traffic through the city and removing the danger of great loss by fire, because of the delay of fire fighting apparatus to points west of the railway tracks.

Payrolls for the Community—An era of prosperity is at hand and more industries should be encouraged to locate among us in order to increase the payrolls and add to the building up of our city and to the development of our great natural commercial resources so close to hand. We should assist those industries already located with us.
