The Allies are going to spring a coup d'etat on the Turks. It will probably be an ultimatum that they smoke their own make of cigarettes.

An organization has been formed to boycott the "hostile press." The members will get their local news from male gossipis, and their state news from drummers.

Attorney General Daugherty is getting too corrupt for any good whatever. He is of an excitable nature, and aims to suppress anarchy, in all forms, before it reaches maturity. He is also opposed to regulating the courts with a switch engine.

This first fog of the season settled over the valley this am, successfully taking the wave out of whiskers and bobbed hair. Icicles were reported on the rims of straw hats. If it gets any colder the Galsheyiks will have to increase the washbone acreage, to insure pneumonia.

Some citizens will be unable to swallow the claim of Henry Ford, that his untaxed $2,000,000 found in a bank was "forgotten." A heartless government will undoubtedly look around for further lapses of memory, and the Lizzie King ought to frisk his old clothes for stray billions.

The esteemed Portland Journal throws one of its characteristic editorial caustics today over the failure of America to be mixed up in the European mess. This paper is intensely sincere, but has had no violent spasms over ballot banditry and petition forgery in the blatantly pure precincts of Multnomah county.

The taxes are pure unadulterated hell, as proven beyond a shadow of a doubt by the number of new high-toned motor vehicles in our midst this fall.

It begins to look like Walter M. Pierce, "the warm friend of the farmer," had overheated himself.

The intellectuality of Siki, the Senegalese, who slapped G. Carpenter to sleep is causing a lot of unfavorable comment. His head is described as merely a loafing place for kinky hair, and it is said to be quite a mental effort for the black boy to come in out of the rain. This will revolutionize the prize-ring, as all American pugilists can qualify as school superintendents.

THE PACE THAT KILLS

(Eugene Guard) The many friends of O. E. Woodson had a hilarious time Monday night. They took the hotel Bartell car and brought Mr. and Mrs. Woodson down town, rode them up and down Main street through the Woodson garage to the Hotel Bartell where they compelled them to register.

The work of transforming the pulpits into stumps, is progressing favorably. The candidate yelling "Amen!" the loudest will be awarded the front door handshaking right, providing the non-existent "liquor interests" have not put him "on the defensive."

WHY WAR IS IMPROBABLE.

THE war in the Near East is essentially a continuation of the ancient rivalry between Great Britain and France for commercial advantage in Asia Minor, but to understand the situation today it should be remembered that hostilities were started by Greece largely to prevent what has now happened, the dethronement of King Constantine.

After his return from exile King Constantine found far from a united and loyal country. The treaty of Sevres had given Greece control of Smyrna and the great part of Thrace which for centuries had been Turkish territory.

The Turkish nationalists, led by Mustapha Kemal, in revolt against the Sultan, who had accepted this treaty, forced the allies to reconsider their action, and despite Greek protests the treaty was modified in favor of Kemal's claims.

King Constantine seized upon this action to unite his people behind a war against Turkey, and quiet factional strife at home. At the head of his troops, Constantine captured Eski Shehr and drove the Turks back to Angora, whereupon there were great demonstrations of loyalty and joy in Athens.

But the triumph was short lived. The Turks, stung by this defeat, arose as one man, and with the aid of France, who sent money, guns and military experts, the Greeks were defeated and driven back in utter rout to the sea.

Now the allies have returned Constantinople and Thrace to the Turks and Greece, abandoned as far as war is concerned by England, has broken under the strain. In spite of the serious condition today in the Near East, the collapse of Greece will in all likelihood, prevent any serious extension of hostilities! For a country in rebellion can scarcely be relied upon to fight for Thrace effectively, particularly when allied assistance of any effective kind is out of the question.

The only real danger lies in Turkey losing her head and attacking the British troops, or Russia, entering the lists, to again try to capture her goal of many centuries, Constantinople; or Lloyd George, taking advantage of Constantine's downfall, by joining hands with Venizelos on a program of again driving the "unspeakable Turk" out of Europe.

The three contingencies are possible, but scarcely probable. The truth is, Europe as a whole is tired out. Among the people there is no stomach for war. And the diplomats in control must realize that if a general war should come, no national advantage would be gained, but general anarchy would, in all likelihood, sweep and destroy the society that now supports them.

Quill Points

Even the man who is deaf to reason can hear money talk. Another fine thing about travel is that it teaches you to appreciate home. Assurance of better times was brought back in a dove's bill, not in a tariff bill. The restless youngster who is forever pining to go somewhere, might try going to work. The knock in the motor is heard more distinctly when it is idling. This is also true of mortals. It should be understood, however, that even the college with the highest salaried coach, maintains a faculty, also. This advice to go to the ant is sound; but if the ant could, no doubt it would go to the movies. "Plane remains up in the air three hours without power." Huh. Washington officialdom has been doing that for months. In China, "the dawn comes up like thunder," but over here the Red thinks the dawn of the new day will come up like dynamite. Correct this sentence: "Don't bother to flick your ash in the tray," said the wife; "sweeping it off the rug is delightful exercise." England and France are in perfect agreement on everything except the German situation and the Turkish situation and things like that.

FOREST FIRES SERIOUS IN NORTH MINNESOTA

DULUTH, Minn., Sept. 28.—With several forest fires reported in the district north of here, forest and railway officials here turned their attention today to the removal of settlers who might be menaced by the flames. More than thirty refugees reached Duluth during the night from Ellsmere where the flames approached within 100 feet of buildings on the outskirts of town.

COMMUNICATIONS

Lindas Challenges Gaddis. To the Editor: I have sent to Mr. E. C. Gaddis and the press of Medford the following letter:

Dear Sir: I notice in yesterday's Mail Tribune that you have filed for mayor. As you know, I filed several months ago on a platform asking for reduced water, a market open six days a week, a careful investigation of the books and periodical reports. In the letter and statement accompanying your statement is an assertion that what I propose to do would bankrupt the city.

I therefore, respectfully challenge you to meet me in a public debate or a series of debates on any feature of city government proposed in my platform. I challenge you to meet me either on the water question, the question of publicity of city affairs, the question of a city market, the garbage question, your financial report or any other feature that you think is your strongest plea for public support. I agree to pay half the cost of the rent of the hall and agree to divide the time with you. Should you not care to meet me I should be glad to meet any representative or any official of the present government.

I make this challenge honestly and with the sole intention of letting the people know the facts. I will agree to stick to the records and agree that you shall select time and place of debate.

Respectfully yours, R. F. LINDAS. Medford, Sept. 27.

Used by Three Generations "I use Foley's Honey and Tar personally, give it to all my children and now to my grandchildren with the same good results. I tried many kinds of cough medicines, but never want anything but Foley's Honey and Tar," writes Mrs. E. K. Olson, Superior, Wis. Foley's Honey and Tar was established in 1875 and has stood the test of time serving three generations. It quickly relieves colds, coughs and croup, throat, chest and bronchial trouble. When You Have a Cough or Lose Weight and Appetite Take This Advice

Fresno, Calif.—"After an attack of scarlet fever I was in a weak, anemic condition. My appetite was poor and I had no interest in anything. My friends did not expect me to live as with the weakness I had a bad cough. I had heard my parents speak of Dr. Pierce's medicine, so I got a bottle of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and began to take it. Before I had used all of the first bottle I knew it was doing me good, for I felt a desire for food, my cough ceased and I began to have color and to take an interest in life. I continued to take the Golden Medical Discovery till I felt strong and well. Today I am enjoying the 'best of health.'—Mrs. Esther Wolfe, 2311 Tyler Ave.

As soon as you commence to take this "Discovery" you begin to feel its bracing, appetizing effect. Buy it of your druggist, in tablets or liquid. Write Dr. Pierce, President Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., if you desire free medical advice. Adv.

The final test. The real value of a motor lubricant can be determined in only one way—through its use in the engine for which it is intended. Hence this company maintains an engine-testing laboratory, equipped with a Sprague dynamometer, in which Zerolene and other lubricants are constantly being tested under actual operating conditions. This dynamometer laboratory is in charge of competent trained men, who spend all their time in conducting comparative tests of Zerolene and other lubricants in automobile, airplane, marine, truck and tractor engines. Correct Lubrication Recommendations. On the results of these tests, supplemented by equally careful tests in the field and on the road, our Board of Lubrication Engineers bases its Chart of Recommendations. Close attention is given to the design and construction of the engine. It is necessary to know, first, the speed of the bearing surfaces; second, clearance between bearing surfaces; third, temperatures at which bearings operate; fourth, pressures exerted in each bearing; fifth, the means provided for the distribution of the oil to each bearing. The recommendations embodied in the Zerolene Chart are calculated with the greatest precision, and if Zerolene is used in accordance with them, correct lubrication and maximum fuel mileage are assured.
