90% Fragrant Filler 10% Wrapper and Binder

Why the "De Luxe" marblehead shape?

BECAUSE-- It is scientifically and sensibly built. The rich, mellow Havana filler is laid from tuck to head so that when the thin wrapper cover over the head is cracked you will have a free smoking, fragrant, smooth burning cigar.

Select THE NEW 1922 CARABANA "De Luxe" 2 for 25c

You can obtain the slim shapes in the Carabana, but you will get a fuller measure of enjoyment from the "De Luxe" shape because the proportion and volume of fragrant filler produces an aroma, flavor and bouquet not obtainable in the slender shaped cigar.

MEXICANS HOPE FOR PEACE WITH MURGUIA GONE

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—A more optimistic spirit regarding the pacification of Mexico could be sensed in government circles today as the result of the execution of General Francisco Murguia, rebel leader and enemy of President Obregon, by a firing squad at Tepic, Durango, yesterday. All suspicion that the capture of Murguia while he lay asleep in a tiny room behind the high altar of the Catholic church at Tepic on Tuesday night was a case of mistaken identity was scouted here. Dispatches describing the execution which followed a hurried court martial, said the body had been exhibited at Tepic and had been recognized as that of the rebel leader by many persons, including several Northern American miners who were well acquainted with Murguia.

The hastiness of the court martial which decided the fate of the rebel leader shortly after his arrest was explained by the fact that it was known that Murguia was seeking legal restraints to prevent an immediate trial.

WIFE FINDS JAIL IS TOO SOFT FOR HUBBY

ANDERSON, S. C. Nov. 2.—(By I. N. S.)—When Frank Andrews went to the chain gang for violating the prohibition laws his wife, Mrs. Rosella Andrews, sorrowed. With true wifely regard she felt that "hubby" was falsely accused and muchly abused.

Not now. His six months' sentence is nowhere near what he deserves, according to her way of thinking.

Recently Mrs. Andrews decided to call on friend husband at the camp and cheer him up. He didn't need it.

When she arrived she found him sitting in an automobile billing and cooing with another woman and with one arm encircling her.

Mrs. Andrews went straight to J. Mack King, supervisor of Anderson county, told him about it and complained that "hubby's" work was entirely too light. He was transferred from kitchen work to breaking rocks.

"Rich Men's Wives," Page

A story rich in human appeal, settings rich and in good taste, a cast rich in talent and feminine beauty are the outstanding characteristics of "Rich Men's Wives," which opened yesterday at the Page theatre for a stay of four days.

While the story, which is the collaborative effort of Frank Dazey and Agnes Christine Johnston, turns the searchlight on the follies of the idle rich, it nevertheless shows deep understanding and sympathy for the unfortunate girls who are born, bred, and imprisoned in gilded cages.

A cast of extraordinary quality has been selected for the interpretation of the story. House Peters, the "man" type of artist, has the leading masculine role, and Claire Windsor, one of the most beautiful women on the screen, plays opposite him. Then there is Baby Richard Headrick, the screen's most wonderful child; Gaston Glass, the unforgettable hero of "Humoresque"; Rosemary Theby and Myrtle Stedman.

At the Rialto "Out of the Dust," the current attraction at the Rialto theatre, is splendidly directed, well cast, and scenically it has western settings which leave nothing to be desired. There is heart interest throughout the story which holds the attention.

Russell Simpson is an actor of unquestioned ability. As the commandant of Fort Sheridan in the days when it was considered a western outpost of civilization, he is called upon for serious work. He meets the requirements of the role more than satisfactorily.

Robert McKim also has an important role. Dorcas Matthews has the leading feminine role, which she handles satisfactorily. This story is of the popular type. It has in its make-up Indian fighting and post cavalry.

If you have enjoyed the many dramas of the burning desert sands which have been shown in motion picture theatres lately, you should see Neal Barras as the Shelk's naughty boy following in his father's footsteps in "That Son of a Shelk," a special comedy in which the Arabian desert films come in for a bit of gentle "kidding" on the same bill.

Suspect Russ Hunters Killing Relief Man

MOSCOW, Nov. 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—Three Russians who went hunting on October 15—the day Philip J. Shield, American relief worker, disappeared from Simbirsk—are suspected by the police as his possible murderers, according to Colonel William N. Haskell, chief of the American relief forces in the field, who has returned from Simbirsk.

SENATOR BORAH SEES THIRD PARTY SWEEPING COUNTRY

SPOKANE, Wash., Nov. 2.—Prediction that the third party movement will "sweep the country in 1924," unless there is a complete change of program on the part of the republican party by the adoption of a liberal and constructive policy, was made by United States Senator William E. Borah of Idaho here today. Senator Borah arrived here en route to Lewiston, Idaho, on a speaking tour of that state.

"A man is totally blind to political conditions in this country who does not understand that there is practically a political revolution on," he declared in a newspaper interview. "The people are going to have relief and if they cannot get it through the old parties, they will get it through a new party."

"The economic conditions in this country," he said, "growing out of, among other things, governmental extravagance and oppressive taxation, demand a change of program and policy and if the republican party does not give it, another party will."

HUSBAND SUES AS 200-POUND WIFE OUTDOES FLAPPER

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 2.—(I. N. S.) The spectacle of his forty-year-old, 200-pound wife apparelled in knee-length skirts and stiletto shoes as short as those of any bobbed-haired flapper was too much for James Bowson, he told Samuel G. Houghton, in circuit court today.

Mrs. Grace Bowson appeared in court and asked for temporary alimony pending the outcome of her suit for divorce. Judge Houghton awarded her $50 a month.

Bowson also said that his wife complained continually that there weren't any beds in the house into which she could crawl and keep warm.

Auto Wrecks Landmark LEYTONSTONE, Eng., Nov. 2.—An ancient stone placed here by the Romans and a landmark for centuries has fallen before progress. A wild motor car driver upset the stone which the centuries had failed to displace.

Advertisement for Glands Can't Prolong Life. Includes text: 'Glands Can't Prolong Life. By DAVID M. CHURCH, International News Service Staff Correspondent. LONDON.—The cycle of existence cannot be modified, not even by the use of monkey glands. Dr. John Matheson, distinguished English physician, is out to disprove the monkey-gland theory and he is authority for the statement that medical science cannot abolish, or even greatly modify, the cycle of existence, growth, maturity and decay. Modern specifics, such as monkey glands, radio crystals and the like, may encourage and cheer but they do not affect longevity, according to the theories of Dr. Matheson. Life without disease isn't even possible, the doctor believes. Physical decay, which of course is responsible for senility, can be arrested, Dr. Matheson believes, but not by the use of any nostrums. Drugs cannot prevent decay, he states. Longevity, the doctor thinks, may be attained by raising the power of resistance of the bodily tissues to the attacks of germs and their poisons. "Germs cannot be extirpated, but we may make it more difficult for them to grow and multiply," Dr. Matheson said. The greatest success in preventative medicine is found in simple means, he believes. Personal hygiene, fresh air and sunshine give the body ample fortification against germs, and if coupled with wholesome food these should lead to longevity, the doctor believes. The statement of Dr. Matheson that sunshine is an aid to the fight against germs has led to considerable worry on the part of some English people, who are predicting that this will be the most unhealthy winter Great Britain has ever seen. This is all due to the rainy summer which has prevailed all over the British Isles. The average sunshine during the summer was less than two hours a day. People were unable to get their accustomed exercise because of heavy rains. Vacations were ruined and the population in nerve worn. It is freely predicted in medical circles that the winter will be an unhealthy one, for the people are not prepared to resist the rigors of the English climate this year. Harley street—the street of stethoscopes and pill boxes—already reports that early fall has brought an abnormal number of minor diseases to London. With Medford trade is Medford made.'
