PREPARING TO SIGN COMPACT ON COLO. RIVER

Epoch-Making Agreement in U. S. Irrigation History Expected to Result From Meeting at Santa Fe—Hoover Represents President.

SANTA FE, N. M., Nov. 13.—(By Associated Press.) Members of the Colorado river commission expect to write a compact for the allotment of the waters of the Colorado river at the meeting now underway in Santa Fe, it was indicated today.

The treaty making powers of the states frequently have been availed of in matters respecting inter-state boundaries, fisheries and other like subjects, but this is the first instance in American history where several states are attempting to make an equitable apportionment of the benefits to be derived from the uses of the waters of an inter-state stream prior to the development of conflict respecting established uses and before the construction of large enterprises which might give rise to inter-state conflict.

The Colorado river is the third largest river in America. Its average discharge annually for the last twenty years has been about 17,400,000 acre feet, enough water to cover 17,400,000 acres one foot deep.
