CO. MEDICAL SOCIETY PASSES RESOLUTIONS ON DR. HART'S DEATH

At a special meeting last night the Jackson County Medical society adopted the following resolutions:

The Jackson County Medical society has learned with profound grief of the death of Dr. Henry H. Hart, who, since the organization of this society was an active member, and who but recently tendered his resignation to the society, which was not accepted by the society, and Dr. Hart was placed upon the honorary membership of this organization.

The members of this society have learned by their association with Dr. Hart through a number of years of active practice that he was unusually conscientious, both as a citizen and in his practice of medicine and surgery, and by his many deportment, both as a citizen and as a physician and surgeon, he had become sincerely loved by all the members of the profession.

This society therefore, in regular session assembled, adopts the following resolutions:

That this society, in the death of Dr. Hart, has lost one of its most influential, sincere and conscientious members, and that the community has lost a citizen that it could ill-afford to lose.

That this society hereby tenders to the family of the deceased its deepest sympathy, and to the community generally, its profound regret at the death of Dr. Hart.

That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of the deceased and to the press, and that they be spread upon the minutes.

JACKSON COUNTY MEDICAL SOCIETY.
By E. B. PICKEL, President.
By WM. W. P. HOLT, Secy.
Committee on resolutions: Robert J. Conroy, F. G. Swendenburg, Wm. W. P. Holt.

The association attended Dr. Hart's funeral this afternoon in a body.

'THE OLD HOMESTEAD' BACK AGAIN, AT PAGE

"The Old Homestead" is the one play that all could go to see. It ranked with the circus. Grandmas, heavy respectable with sideburns and plug hats, gamblers, school teachers. Was there ever such another play since? No more than there ever has been another Father Abraham!

All this seems to have come back to the directors of the photoplay as they turned over the pages of the book of this old masterpiece. They were fortunate enough, and old enough to have seen Denham Thompson in "The Old Homestead" when these were at their zenith.

Here it was, after all these years—the same old play, the same old magic! Denham Thompson had since long gone to Shakespeare's "undiscovered country." But his play lived.

Perhaps the old play seemed all the brighter and greater in that it represented an America which we had somewhat forgotten—an America of the good old days of '85, of bustles and bootjacks, sleighbells and checkers, noon dinners, an upstanding faith, an unflinching Providence.

There was another element in the old play though that had never been so apparent to younger eyes. This was a somber element—a background of tumult and tragedy, like that which besets all life and must inform all art to make it real. Rubie, the only son of Uncle Josh, was really a figure dramatic. Nor was Uncle Josh just genial fun and humor. He loomed—an "American Job." There was a thrilling love story predicated by the mere existence of that wistful elfin, Ricketty Ann. Eph Holbrook and his son, and the woman, Rose—there were characters but barely suggested in that earlier life of the play; but here they were, in the spirit manifestation, clamoring to be seen and heard.

"The Old Homestead" with that "grand old man" of the movies opened a four days engagement at the Page theatre yesterday.

BIG MEETING OF DE MOLAY TONIGHT

Unusual interest is being manifested in tonight's meeting of the Order of De Molay insofar as twenty-one members will be initiated before a large number of Medford and visiting Grants Pass Masons. This delegation from Grants Pass will come here for the express purpose of enjoying this initiation ceremony. A new portable stage has been arranged by the committee for tableaux and a novel and beautiful system of lighting effects will be provided. Refreshments will be served and every effort is being expended to make tonight's evening a big success.

Grade A Before Bottling

THIS shows how they used to get milk when cream on the top was still stylish and home-made butter was just butter and not "fancy creamery." Fritz Ridgeway is the young woman saying "So, boss!" just before supper. The scene is a part of the Paramount film version of "The Old Homestead," in which Theodore Roberts plays the role of Uncle Josh, made famous by Denham Thompson.

PERSHING AND "HELL MARIA" DAVIS ENTHUSE LARGE CHICAGO AUDIENCE

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—General John J. Pershing in two addresses here last night metaphorically linked arms with Brigadier General Charles G. Dawes in a plea for a national awakening to the dangers from external aggression and "fascism from within." The two generals were the chief speakers at a patriotic dinner of the Association of Commerce and a few minutes later General Pershing repeated a part of his address from a radio broadcasting station.

General Dawes spoke heatedly of the "skulking cowards and demagogues in office," but his language was unadorned by the adjectives which have gained him the nickname "Hell Maria."

General Pershing spoke regarding the state and civic conditions and urged the education of the people "up to their obligations."

Then he took up discussion of the public defense. "Some day war will come," he admonished with pointing finger, "some day war will come—and come it will. We have come to the point where we must consider national defense."

"There is too much of a tendency to tamper with the constitution, too little respect for the authority of this country. The constitution is all right, no need to tamper with it. If those who want to do that will let it alone and live up to it we will have no more of a lot of trouble that this country is in right now."

Two resolutions, one introduced by General Dawes, were adopted by the patriotic meeting. General Dawes' resolution condemned Governor Len Small for his release of William Lloyd, wealthy radical and sixteen associates from the state prison. The other resolution, introduced at the conclusion of General Pershing's speech, called upon the government to maintain a standing army of 150,000 men.

Now and Then

The always-expected Kolb and Dill coming in Aaron Hoffman's latest Volsteadian kick, entitled "Now and Then," arrive at the Page theatre Tuesday night, Dec. 12th. As is usual, the special Kolb and Dill orchestra accompanies the company, which is now on one of the most successful tours in the history of this firm of funmakers. "Now and Then," in laughter-filled lines, with never a slow moment from curtain to conclusion, tells a unique story of the trials and tribulations of Kolb as a prohibitionist and the rotund Dill as a hard-working saloonist who became a bootlegger when the law gave him an opportunity.

The Gold Diggers

At the Vining theatre, Ashland, on Friday evening, December 8th, David Belasco will present "The Gold Diggers," which, during its two years run in New York was frequently alluded to by the dramatic critics as "the best entertainment of the season." Of its entertaining qualities there is not the slightest doubt, as it reveals, in the most humorous and blithesome fashion, the colorful life of typical New York chorus life. The company, which is headed by Gertrude Vanderbilt, is now on its first transcontinental tour, having appeared, up to the present season, only in New York, Chicago and Boston.

Select Col. Paine Temporary Leader Spanish War Vets

Local United Spanish War Veterans met at the city hall last night for the purpose of organizing. Lieutenant P. C. Elbert of the Portland Telegram staff attended.

The preliminary meeting was held to establish a camp in Medford. Col. W. H. Paine, 56 North Orange street, was chosen temporary commander, and a number of the old "scouts of 1898" were present. Lieutenant P. C. Elbert is a member of Scout Young Camp No. 2, Portland, and saw service in Porto Rico and Cuba, and also in the World War.

Mayo at Rialto

The story of a gambler who always played fair, save upon one occasion when a life was at stake, is being told on the screen at the Rialto theatre, where the attraction, "Caught Bluffing," is the feature offering.

Frank Mayo, the star, plays the part of the gambling house proprietor who tolerates no crooked play on the part of his "guests" and refuses to allow his particular friends to "buck the house." He foils a dangerous gunman in his attempt to abduct a girl by offering to stack a fortune in gold against her in a hand of poker. He saves the girl and wins her love.

Edna Murphy plays the feminine lead.

There Is No Substitute for Quality

When you buy a house you make sure that the foundation, the walls and the roof are constructed for permanence. Buy a motor car in the same way.

The sturdy body of the Studebaker Light Six Sedan is an admirable example of substantial body-building. It is constructed of the finest materials and with a high degree of craftsmanship to give years of satisfactory service—no makeshift construction merely to meet a price.

Eight stout ash pillars, from floor to roof, insure permanent strength and rigidity. The four wide-opening doors are a real convenience in getting in and out. Broad windows provide clear vision in every direction.

Seats are of generous proportions with deep springs to give lasting comfort. The upholstery is of mohair velvet plush, as durable as it is attractive. The heater will give warmth and comfort on cold days.

The Light Six has proved its reliability on the highways of the world. The ample power, quietness and remarkable flexibility of its motor are a source of continuous satisfaction. It is easy to handle in traffic. Constant gear shifting is unnecessary because it throttles down to a walking pace in high gear. Vibration, which is so annoying in closed cars, is virtually eliminated.

The low price is due to complete manufacture by Studebaker in one of the most modern and complete automobile plants in the world. Middlemen's profits are eliminated and the savings are passed on to the buyer.

The same Studebaker stands for comfort, quality and durability.
