FRANK B. RILEY TO GIVE LECTURE ASHLAND TONIGHT

ASHLAND, Dec. 8.—(Special to Mail Tribune). The Ashland Winter Fair closes tonight after one of the best and most successful exhibitions of its kind ever held in southern Oregon. The feature of this evening's program will be the picture-lecture by Frank Branch Riley, "The Lure of the Great Northwest."

A ticket for the day admits the holder to all of the attractions of the day and to the evening program as well as including Mr. Riley's famous lecture. A dance and carnival following the lecture by Mr. Riley will terminate the program.

Few Medford people have attended the fair and those in charge of it hope for a better attendance from Medford this evening. They point out that Ashland day at the county fair enjoyed the largest attendance of any of the days during the County Fair.

An innovation has been introduced at the Winter Fair this season, this relating to substantial lunches available at the noon hour, served directly in the armory by high school girls, in both Junior and Senior classifications. These meals are not only served by the young ladies, but also cooked by them. It being National Education week, it was considered opportune to introduce this special demonstration as an instance of what is being accomplished in the public schools in a practical way through domestic art channels, the activities applying to both cooking and needlework. The charge for lunches has just been enough to cover the overhead expense. The fair closes Friday night. It has been a fine one, and the attendance has been good, notwithstanding adverse weather conditions. The show has not only been a practical exhibit, but has also incorporated a series of addresses and entertainments of a high order—in fact, it might be termed a winter chalet circuit in some respects.

At a meeting of Malta commandery, on Wednesday evening, the Templars chose Dr. F. H. Johnson for eminent commander; W. H. McGowan, Medford generalissimo; H. C. Sparr, captain general; Glen Fabricik, Medford, senior varden; D. H. Jackson, junior varden; E. V. Carter, treasurer; W. H. Day, recorder. Installation will take place Dec. 20, at which time the appointive officers will be named. In regard to assuming a proportionate share of new robe equipment recently purchased by Siskiyou chapter, the proposition was referred to a committee to submit recommendations at the next stated convocation.

In regard to the football debate between rival high school teams, a scrimmage which on Thanksgiving Day did not even materialize physically, the writer has been importuned by two or three local citizens to give the Medford contingent fits, one overzealous partisan even insisting that they be "given hell." Now, "war is hell," and

REAL ESTATE IS STILL ACTIVE IN PHOENIX DIST.

By Mary O. Carey.

EDEN PRECINCT, Dec. 7.—Property still continues to change hands in Phoenix. There have been several houses and lots sold to outside parties the past few days. Among them were the D. Lehnert property, and two plots of ground belonging to H. F. Pratt and wife. Another sale pending is the Soles house and lots which probably is a portion of the Lehnert property also.

James Harvey of Myrtle Creek, is in Phoenix looking for a location. Mr. Harvey prefers a small place out of town if he can get just what he wants. Taxes are too high for him in town, he claims. Mr. Harvey thinks he likes the climate of Myrtle Creek better than Rogue River valley, but he notices he has like everyone who has once resided here, come back.

We regret to learn of the death of J. E. Foss, father of E. E. Foss of Talent. Mr. Foss was for many years a resident of south Talent, or what is called Wagner Creek section. They sold out their fine ranch and moved to Ashland a few years ago, where they have since resided. Mr. Foss was a highly respected citizen and a good neighbor.

Noah Chandler sold a lot of his fine out hay to parties who are working on one of the canals being dug in the valley. This work is taking a lot of hay for feeding the many horses which are being kept on the work.

Mr. Ditsworth of South Talent, has a fine little ranch on the highway just south of town and has a dairy herd of ten cows. Mr. Ditsworth intends to start a poultry yard in the spring, but will raise the larger breed, instead of Leghorns. His idea is to have both meat and eggs.

E. C. Lockwood of the White Wing Poultry Farm has had three pens of his famous White Leghorns at the Winter Fair at Ashland. Mr. Lockwood is not in for premiums, as he, like many others of us has some of his finest birds with clipped wings. This of course bars birds from being entered for the highest score. Mr. Lockwood has one of the most dependable trapping records for all of his flock of any establishment on the coast. This I know as I have access to his houses at all times, and have examined his record sheets from year to year.

Mr. Mack, who was formerly with the Mason, Ehrman Co., has moved to the fine orchard home of which several business men in Medford lately made investment, and F. M. Sheets and family have moved into the Mack house on the Pacific highway at the extreme north end of the town of Phoenix.

Those from Phoenix who were business visitors in Medford Monday were Mr. and Mrs. Louis Colver, Mr. and Mrs. Norvin Walters and E. G. Coleman.

Wm. H. Bruin, road supervisor for district No. 2, was in Medford Monday on business.

Again the angel of death has come into our midst, this time to relieve the long suffering of Mrs. Elvira Wilder, wife of Jobe Wilder of Phoenix. Mrs. Wilder has resided in Phoenix for the past thirty years, has been a most faithful wife and loving mother. Funeral was held at the Presbyterian church Tuesday, burial in Phoenix cemetery.

There is a good investment for some one who has the cash to put into the machinery and get good interest on his money, and that is a good hay baling outfit. This should be owned by some one in Talent or Phoenix, as all the bales in the valley are in Central Point or nearer to Medford, when there are hundreds of tons of hay every year to be baled in this locality, and it is almost out of the question to get an outfit to come up this way without paying them a premium for the work.

Mr. Daron who bought the Weeks place in Phoenix, has had the biggest yield of English walnuts off the big tree in the yard that has ever been gathered off of it. The tree stood for many years without ever bearing at all but this year Mr. Daron harvested about three hundred pounds, which sold at thirty cents a pound. Mr. Daron has some of as fine celery as can be found in the market also.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Rader and Miss Twila spent Thanksgiving with Mr. Rader's sister and family. Mr. and Mrs. George Garrett in Medford. A most bounteous turkey dinner was one of the main features of the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Allen and James Allen were guests of Mrs. Allen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Rice of Ruch, Thanksgiving day.

Jack Allen has been busy repairing the truck which S. S. Stevens had got badly wrecked when he became stuck in the soft dirt with a heavy load while coming out of his garden some few weeks ago. Some of the parts were stripped or broken, as the power was thrown on with unusual force. Jack also has several other cars in his garage to repair. Jack is considered one of the most reliable men at this work.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Carleton and little son Thayer Ulrich were pleasant callers at Mrs. R. H. Vincent last Saturday.
