Clear the Shelves and Counters

I've Written ads for a great many years and for different stores for a long time, but cross my heart etc., if I ever told of a greater merchandising event than this one.

I feel like spreading it in shrieking headlines over a dozen pages.

If you knew the half of it you would pile in here so thick it would be necessary to call on the police to handle the crowds.

Well, I'm coming to the end of my space, I gotta quit, so here are my last words---

'Grandma's Boy'

Oh Boy, What a Picture!

There have been good comedies before—and there will be again—but never, never has any crowd of humanity rocked and roared with such uncontrolled laughter as have the audiences Sunday and Monday at "Grandma's Boy."

Honestly a blind man could get his money's worth just listening to the laughter.

Hundreds of Medford people have seen it already, and still they come—so you're cheating yourself if you miss it.

And they don't only see it once—some have already seen it five times—and hundreds have seen it twice.

Come and join the happy crowds—if you never saw a play before in your life, you must see this. There's no greater joy on earth than wild, unrestrained, hilarious laughter when the crowd all around you is doing it, too.

And there's no man or woman born who can resist the humor of "Grandma's Boy."
