William O. Webster of the local branch of the Associated Oil company returned yesterday from Marshfield where he has been for the past week on business. He reports a hard time in getting from Marshfield to Roseburg the trip having been made by auto stage. Seven people in a five passenger touring car made the trip and traveled the old Coos Bay wagon road as the highway was blocked by slides. The old wagon road has not been used for three or four years and, according to Mr. Webster the going was rough, the 68 mile trip taking 11 hours. For 16 miles the car was preceded by a team of horses to be used in case of emergency.
