The Salem high school basketball team, coached by Hollis Huntington, who directed Medford athletic teams last year, will arrive Thursday morning for two of the most important games of the year, with the Medford high school five.

The Salem five is said to be one of the best teams in the state although no one in Medford has any definite dope on how they are going this year. Three members of the Salem team played last year and should be valuable men. The local boys have been hard at work with Coach Durio in preparation for the contests and the first bursts of local basketball brilliance are expected to be disclosed Thursday and Friday evenings when the Salem and Medford teams meet at the Nat.

The tickets and reserved seats go on sale tomorrow morning at Crowson's for both Thursday and Friday night's contests, and large crowds are expected at both games.

By the Rev. Lovejoy of Central Point and intend to reside there until spring, at which time he expects to sell his business interests and move to Santa Rosa, Calif., where they will reside permanently. Their many friends wish them a happy voyage on the sea of matrimony.

GOODBYE DINNER

TOKIO, Jan. 22.—(By the Associated Press)—Better understanding between the peoples of Japan and America was the note at the Japanese-American dinner given here today as a farewell to Charles B. Warren, the retiring American ambassador and Masanao Hanihara, newly appointed Japanese ambassador to Washington. Among the large number present were several cabinet members.

Mr. Warren said the agreements reached affecting the Pacific ocean would survive because they were based on economically sound principles and were calculated to serve the enlightened self-interest of the participating powers. Time would prove that being good neighbors "will pay more dividends than the drastic method of seeking to expand commerce by military strength and the imposition upon others of our systems."

Ambassador Hanihara expressed pleasure at returning to Washington, where he formerly was attached to the embassy. He promised to work his hardest to maintain friendly relations.
