The $75,000 Farm Mortgage Bonds of the M. F. Hanley Ranch give all the protection of a First Mortgage but none of the worry and attention which an individual mortgage requires.

The Portland Trust Co. has been appointed Trustee for this loan and holds the First Closed Mortgage of $75,000 against which bonds are issued for the full amount. The Trustee acts in the interest of the bondholders and sees that all terms of the mortgage are lived up to and that the principal and interest are paid on time. Thus the collection of interest is simplified, the usual delays incident to the collection of interest on farm mortgages being eliminated. This service costs the investor nothing.

What could be a better, safer and more conservative investment than the Bonds of this highly productive and old established ranch, secured by lands, equipment and livestock, valued at nearly 4 times the total amount of bonds issued? Moreover, it is an investment that you know is good—and its liberal interest return should appeal to every conservative investor in Jackson County.

RED CROSS FIELD REPRESENTATIVE IS MEDFORD VISITOR

Miss Nell Holsinger, who has succeeded Miss Katherine Ewing as field representative in Oregon for the Pacific division of the American Red Cross, arrived in Medford last Friday morning to remain until this evening.

An informal committee meeting of the Red Cross was held in the Red Cross offices Friday afternoon, at which some of the interesting problems in the Red Cross work were discussed. Miss Holsinger outlined a plan for a coming conference next June of all Oregon Red Cross chapters at which the work in the different counties will be discussed. A good sized delegation from the Jackson county Red Cross will attend this conference which will be of much value in bringing Oregon workers together and in getting a touch with the larger educative and social programs of the national Red Cross organization.

Visits have been paid by Miss Holsinger with members of the executive committee of the Jackson county Red Cross chapter to Central Point to meet Mrs. George H. Fox of the Central Point committee; to Rogue River to meet Rev. Lee Gray and Mrs. A. K. Earhart and also superintendent of the high school, Mr. Brown, and also a visit to Ashland to meet the members of the Ashland executive committee.

A committee meeting was held with Superintendent A. G. Smith, chairman of the Junior Red Cross committee and principals of the schools to discuss enrollment plans for the Junior Red Cross. There are over 30 active Red Cross chapters in the state of Oregon and among these are several that have opportunities for extended home service programs.

ED ANDREWS IN HIS BEST ROLE AT PAGE TONIGHT

Ed Andrews will appear in one of his most popular roles in "The Mikado" at the Page this evening. He is known as "Koko" in every town in the country where Gilbert and Sullivan operas have been produced, and that means every town worth mentioning. The veteran comedian is supported on this tour by a cast of principals and a chorus worthy of comparison with any former production of this ever popular freshness and sweetness of Yum-Yum, Paula Ayres as Kadisha, Harry Pfeil as Nanki-Po, Paul Bundschu as Pooch-Bah, and, last but not least,

Ed Andrews.

George Olsen as the Mikado, sustain every tradition of former days in the rendition of their parts, sung with a freshness and sweetness of voice that win enthusiastic plaudits from every audience. Of Ed Andrews himself, it is enough to say that he appears as Koko in his own inimitable manner; no praise can go beyond that. The production is costumed and staged in a manner and with a completeness of detail that reflect credit upon the producer, Rex Reynolds, who has found in his present organization, with Ed Andrews in the lead, a fitting vehicle of expression for his own high ideals of dramatic art.

Firemen Have Slang

Not the least picturesque phase of a fireman's life is the slang that bristles and sparkles in their conversation, according to Emory Johnson, world famous film producer, whose stupendous melodrama "The Third Alarm" is thrilling capacity audiences at the Rialto Theater where it closes tonight and paying a glowing tribute to the firemen of this country and their wives, sons and daughters.

"I lived for several weeks among the firemen of Los Angeles to get the color and atmosphere for my production of "The Third Alarm," remarked Mr. Johnson recently. "One of the singular things I noticed was their slang. It gave a tang and tingle to their talk that was captivating."

"The Sin Flood," Rialto.

Fifteen years ago a young Swedish novelist in Chicago was fighting the battle against starvation in his passion to become a great writer. His limited knowledge of the English language hampered him. Eventually he went home, weak in body and distressed in mind, set down to write and began a novel that has since become famous as "Yasall." He had written the first chapter when a speech of one of his characters made him reflect upon his Chicago experience.

"If only people didn't wear masks all the time," he thought. Suddenly the idea of stripping the masks from a group of people came to him. In a flash the play, "Synafloeden," had taken form. He laid aside his novel and wrote furiously on the play. A few months later Henning Berger's "Synafloeden" created a sensation. This is the play that was adapted for the screen by Goldwyn, and renamed "The Sin Flood," and which is the feature attraction at the Rialto tomorrow and for the remainder of the week.

The cast includes Richard Dix, Helene Chadwick, James Kirkwood, Otto Hoffman, L. H. King.

People Disapprove of Dry Officer's Methods

After having spent several days as a special prosecutor attempting to convict Philip Warren, Grand Ronde Indian, of the murder of Price and Todd, federal prohibition agents, Walter L. Tooze, Jr. of McMinnville, was at the Imperial hotel yesterday. He failed to convict the Indian of the crime that shocked the entire northwest several months ago. "The task of choosing a jury in Polk county that would convict Warren would be rather difficult," said Mr. Tooze yesterday. "It was established by testimony of the defense that the officers were drinking with the Indian prior to the time of the shooting. The jurors were evidently of the opinion that a man has no business drinking with others and then arresting his companions for violation of the federal prohibition law. People are set against that method of collecting evidence."—Portland Oregonian.
