It has been definitely decided that the Medford and Rogue River school basketball teams will play two games, one on February 12, and the other on February 25, one in each town. It was suggested that one game be played in Rogue River, and one in Ashland on a neutral floor, and the idea was dismissed by the local school officials, without consideration.

The only advantage would be to give Rogue River a floor of its size—small and just within the regulations. The citizens of Rogue River feel toward their basketball team, like Gold Hill felt towards Ralph Hand, and the hot test game of the season is expected when the two teams clash.

LOCAL INTEREST IN SALEM GAME IS AT HIGH PITCH

The Salem high school basketball team and coach Hollis Huntington will arrive in Medford tomorrow morning for the contests tomorrow night and Friday night at the Nat. with the Medford team.

A hard struggle is expected and both Durno and his squad have been preparing for it to the utmost. Seats which went on sale this morning at Crowson's are selling rapidly and practically all the front row had been sold an hour after the sale opened this morning, for the Thursday night contest. A larger crowd than has been present at any game this year is expected both Thursday and Friday nights.

TIME TO SPRAY ROSES SAYS A. C. ALLEN

Just as soon as the weather settles down and we get a little sunshine, it will be well for people living in the city of Medford to have their spraying done. Especially all roses and shrubs that are infested with the San Jose scale and fruit trees that need spraying. This spraying can be delayed until later in the spring, but at that time most of the orchard sprayers will be busy and it may not be possible to get someone with a good spray outfit to work in town.

Use lime and sulphur standard strength diluted one part lime and sulphur to eight parts water. See that the spraying is done thoroughly and do not spray in cold or rainy weather.

ED ANDREWS IN 'MIKADO' SCORES A BIG KNOCKOUT

That the large audience at the Page last night enjoyed "The Mikado," the second in its series of four light operas the American Light Opera company is playing during this local engagement, was evidenced by the hearty enthusiasm which this ever popular comic opera of Gilbert and Sullivan was received and the almost continuous laughter which greeted the funny sayings and oddities of Ed Andrews, the chief comedian.

"The Chimes of Normany" was presented at this afternoon's matinee, and the last opera of the series, "H. M. S. Pinafore," will be given tonight.

Before the curtain at the opening of the performance, the manager of the company made a brief address stating that Ed Andrews was the mainstay of the American Light Opera company organization and because of his well known talent and experience, was mainly responsible for its success. He further related that in the initial performance in America many years ago Ed Andrews had created the character of Ko Ko, lord high executioner, in which he long ago became famed, and his brother, George Andrews, another well known and popular Medford man, of splendid voice, had originally played the character of Poo Bah.

Ed Andrews, since that time has accompanied this opera or lead it on its always successful journeys over the country, and has played Ko Ko over two thousand times.

"The Mikado" presentation of last night was to use a slang phrase, a veritable knockout. The principals and chorus were excellent in their singing and acting. The fine chorus blended together more nicely, if possible, than in "The Bohemian Girl" of Monday night. The costumes and stage settings were also pleasing.

But Ed Andrews as Ko Ko, fairly dominated the performance with his comedy, zest and subtle wit. He only sprang a few local gags, but they hit the spot and increased the spontaneous laughter, especially when he plaintively stated in his imitative way that he did not have the heart to execute "any one—never even had executed a woolly aphs.

Abscending Andrews in the mirth producing was George Olsen, that sterling young actor and comedian, in the character of the Mikado, emperor Japan.

Another big hit was a clever young lady, Miss Esther Snyder, who substituted last night for the star, Miss Thee Pennington, in the part of Yum Yum, which she played and sang with adorable simplicity and charm.

Miss Paula Ayres, the contralto star, whose work always wins commendation as Katsch, did some fine singing and comedy work. Harry Pfeil, the tenor, as Nanki Poo, and Car' Bundachu, the baritone, as Poo Bah, appeared to good advantage, as did Ethel May Cook and Norman Chandler in supporting roles.

ASHLAND WOMEN OPPOSE HAVING A CO. HEALTH NURSE

At the regular meeting of the county court this morning at Jacksonville there was a spirited and thorough discussion of the county health nurse appointment, that lasted all morning, and was taken under consideration by that body for future action.

A petition was presented from Ashland signed by 300 taxpayers, opposing the appointment of the nurse on the grounds of unnecessary expense, the delegation being headed by Mrs. Fred Pittmann and Mrs. Couzens. It also contended that the county nurse had "sometimes been coercive and ordered tonsils and teeth taken out, when not needed."

Delegations representing Medford, Rogue River, Talent, Phoenix, Central Point, Gold Hill, and Eagle Point were also in attendance, and were in favor of the appointing of a county nurse. These delegations were headed by Mrs. Fred Mears and Mrs. Noblett, as spokeswomen. These districts had no petitions, but plenty of statistics and orators.

Dr. W. W. P. Holt, Prof. Briscoe, superintendent of the Ashland schools, and Supt. Aubrey Smith, of the Medford schools, spoke in favor of retention of the county nurse, and told of the educational benefits derived. Outside of Ashland there was no organized opposition.

The situation was brought about by the resignation of Miss Faldine, county nurse, and the county court is said to be in favor of the system, and will make the appointment on the recommendation of the County Health association, which is in communication with two or three nurses available for the position. Provision for the county nurse is made in the annual county budget, and the appointment is expected about February 1st.

Before the delegations arrived, the county court started working on its road program, partly finished at the last session, and approved the build-

Three autoists were summoned to appear before judge Glenn O. Taylor in police court at two o'clock this afternoon for parking their cars on the east side of the "no parking" sign on the bridge last night. The arrests were made by Night Patrolman Cave.

Due to the large crowd at the Page theatre the motorists disregarded the "no parking" sign and left their cars on the bridge while attending the theatre. It is a violation of the city ordinance to park in an indicated area of restriction or within 20 feet of a fire plug.
