It begins to look like the state was to be cursed by the packing trust. This is the same notorious outfit that built canneries in the fruit districts of California, wherever needed, and practically ruined orchardists, by making them prosperous. It is doubtful if the legislature, now in session, will stand idly by, without cooking up some fool and vicious legislation on the subject. Capital has never yet been able to sneak into the commonwealth without aggravation.

For the last fifteen years he has been superintendent of schools at Cleora, a suburb of Chicago. During this time Cleora has increased in population from 15,000 to 50,000.

The article on the codling moth (orchardist) is enlightening, but what the valley needs is a few words on the codling moth (shindigins). The codling moth (shindigins), can be detected by a roached mane, kept in place with goose grease or bear oil. In the winter, they are marked with sideburns, due to the barber not applying the razor, up high enough. The sideburns are also an indication of side curtains on the vehicle (translunus). The chief characteristic of the c. m. (shindigins) is a dogged determination to make a simple social pleasure, their life work. (Twelatis, St. Vitus and trotting, as do the fox.) A TURN TO THE LEFT.

THROUGH all the confusion and conflict and cantankerousness now afflicting Europe there is one consistent development discernible. This is a gradual but uninterrupted turn to the Left.

A turn to the Left in parliamentary terms, means a turn toward the labor-radical division, a departure from the conservative group and the established order.

Although England now has what is nominally termed a conservative government, the significant feature of her present political situation is the growing power of the Labor party. It was the action of the Labor party which prevented war between England and Turkey, it was fear of the Labor party that led to a temporary consolidation behind Premier Bonar Law.

Now organized labor in France advances to the footlights with formal condemnation of the French government's policy in the Ruhr. It is doubtful if this action deters Poincare as similar action deterred Lloyd George for French labor has never attained the powerful position of British labor, but the incident is very significant nevertheless, and adds its portion to the handwriting on the wall.

It is also interesting in this direction to note that in nearly every country in Europe, prominent radicals are in power,—men at least who only a few years ago were considered dangerous and uncompromising socialists.

Premier Branting of Sweden is one, Edward Renes, foreign minister for Czechoslovakia, Premier Pashich of Serbia, and of course, Mussolini of Italy who first attained prominence as a fire-eating labor agitator, are others.

One need not be the Seventh Son of a Seventh Son to predict that whatever comes out of the European mess, the final result will be more power to the proletariat. Whether Europe goes the way of Russia,—class domination through destruction,—or the way of Great Britain,—class absorption by a policy of enlightened progress and constructive change,—depends largely upon the wisdom and restraint the leaders of Europe exhibit in the next few weeks toward the critical problems in the Ruhr and in the Near East.

New Treatment for San Jose Scale

The San Jose scale is just now exceedingly abundant and destructive in many orchards in the Rogue River valley, and growers state they are unable to control the pest with the usual dormant treatments with Lime and Sulphur spray. While the Bureau of Entomology believes that thorough spraying with dormant tree strength of lime sulphur will control the San Jose scale, yet to meet the desire of orchardists for other than lime sulphur treatments, a number of experiments with sprays were undertaken. The purpose of this article is to call attention to results secured in the treatment of the scale by the use of spray containing 2 per cent of lubricating or engine oil emulsified with potash fish-oil soap.

This spray was first used by W. W. Yoshino in Florida against many citrus scale insects and the orange white fly. The writer used this spray during last winter in New Orleans against the camphor scale, a new insect imported to this country from Japan. The surprising efficiency of a spray containing such a low percentage of oil suggested the desirability of testing sprays of this character against the San Jose scale. The experiments were carried out by A. G. Ackerman of the office of deciduous fruit investigations and have included tests of lubricating oils with strength of from one-half per cent to four per cent, thoroughly emulsified with potash fish-oil soap. Results showed practically complete killing of the scale by one thorough application of the spray of a strength as low as 2 per cent of oil.

Orchardists have been so pleased with the results that the 2 per cent oil spray will be extensively used in their present necessity of bringing the pest under control.

A point yet to be established in connection with the present experiments is the possible injury of the oil spray which may result to the trees, twigs or fruit buds and several seasons' experiments will be necessary before a final decision on this question can be reached. In view of the experience in Florida in spraying citrus trees and foliage with one per cent of oil, it is felt that dormant deciduous trees will probably stand without injury one annual treatment containing two per cent of oil.

In order that orchardists who desire to make tests of the treatment during the present winter on a small scale, the following directions for making the stock emulsion are given: Formula for Stock Emulsion: 100 parts of oil, or oil of similar grade, gallon

Water, gallon Potash fish-oil soap, pound The oil, water and soap are placed in a kettle and heated until the contents come to a boil. A brown scum appears on the surface of the mixture as it first begins to boil. After boiling for a few minutes the brown scum begins to disappear and at this stage the kettle is removed from the fire and the entire mixture is pumped twice under pressure of about 60 pounds while still very hot. A proper emulsion cannot be made by stirring or should the mixture be allowed to cool before it is pumped. Too much pumping will often break up the emulsion. During pumping the ordinary pump packing is burnt up rather quickly by the hot oil mixture. For making the stock emulsion on a large scale an all metal pump would be necessary.

To make a two percent emulsion for use in a 200 gallon spray tank it is necessary to use 6 gallons of the stock emulsion or 1 1/2 gallons to 50 gallons of water. Precaution should be taken to prevent the stock emulsion from freezing which occurs at a temperature of about 15 degrees F above zero. In case difficulties are experienced in making a proper emulsion due to the hardness of the water, add 1 pound of caustic soda or 1/2 lb. of sodium alk. These oils not only give excellent results, but are easier to handle while spraying. The spray has not the objectional features of the lime sulphur spray and is not so harmful to the clothing, eyes and skin.

Codling Moth. During the meeting of the Fruit Growers' league last Saturday afternoon the value of applying the codling moth spray at the proper time was emphasized by the speaker. The following is given as further proof of the timeliness of spraying: Mr. Yoshino's government entomologist during the past season sprayed 10 acres of 100-acre Newtown orchard at the proper time and in accordance with the season's codling moth life history studies. He was satisfied in this spraying by Mr. Roberts, foreman of the orchard. The remainder of the orchard, 90 acres, was sprayed with one outfit four times in accordance with a "hit and miss" system. Mr. Yoshino obtained 93 per cent clean fruit, the remainder of the orchard produced between 25 and 50 per cent clean fruit. Mr. Charles Austin, who supervised the picking of the orchard, stated that he believed that the 90 acre portion of the orchard to be 50 to 65 per cent wormier than the ten acre portion which was sprayed thoroughly and at the proper time. The unsprayed trees in this orchard produced 6 per cent clean fruit. E. R. VAN LEEUWEN, C., Entomological Lab.

The Stage

The Merry Widow Franz Lehár's "The Merry Widow," the operetta that has made the whole world waltz, is at the Columbia Theater for a brief engagement. The music has the same thrill in its melting measures it exercised sixteen years ago, when the opera was done for the first time in America, one year after Lehár had entranced Europe with his wonderful waltz.

It is the music, the dance, the thrill of romance that runs through the opera that matters. Henry W. Savage is again the producer, who presents the Lehár work just as he did in 1907 and later, for it ran several years.

Jefferson De Angelis, San Francisco favorite comedian, is the Nial, and James Liddy, another San Franciscan, is the Prince. Both win new laurels in the performance, which is made still more delightful by the presence of Mario Wells and Eva Webber.

Josef Urban painted the scenery for this revival of the operetta, and there is a chorus of pretty young women and lusty voiced men to carry the Lehár score.—San Francisco Chronicle. At Page Theater February 5.

SCREEN

Rialto Offers Bebe Daniels Bebe Daniels is said to have the biggest role of her career in "The World's Applause," the Rialto attraction this week beginning today. In this drama Miss Daniels plays an actress who learns too late the difference between notoriety and fame. The story was written by Clara Beranger, and gives the star an opportunity to display unusual and startling gown.

In the cast are Lewis Stone, Adolphe Menjou and Kathlyn Williams. A Century comedy, movie chats and Alvie Jay's music are the other delights of the program.

ORDER RAILROADS TO SELL MILEAGE BOOKS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Railroads were ordered today by the interstate commerce commission to resume the practice of selling interchangeable mileage books good for 2500 miles of travel at reductions of twenty per cent from the regular passenger rates.

Sale of the books must begin March 15, the commission decided. A number of small railroads were excluded from the requirements of the order because of their financial inability to meet the reduction. Practically all of the class one roads, however, must establish the reductions.

Woodrow Wilson Fund Exempt Income Tax

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Commissioner Blair of the internal revenue bureau has ruled that contributions to the Woodrow Wilson foundation made subsequent to December 26, 1922, are legally exempt for a application of the income tax law. The ruling presents a reversal from the bureau's previous stand because of the incorporation December 26 of the foundation.

Baseball Stars Return

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 31.—The American All-Stars, a baseball outfit of big leaguers which toured the Far East under the direction of Herbert Hunter in a series of exhibition games, arrived here today on the Japanese liner Korea Maru. Endeavors are being made to arrange a game between the visitors and an aggregation of coast leaguers Sunday. The travelers will leave for home early next week.

THYE TO TACKLE YOKEL AGAIN FOR FINAL DECISION

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 31.—Mike Yokel of Salt Lake City, who threw Ted Thye, Portland wrestler, recently, will again meet Thye here Thursday night. Thye recently won the championship belt in the light heavyweight class and his defeat by Yokel was his first defeat in Portland for ten years.

Grab Wins Decision

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Harry Greb, the Pittsburgh "wildcat," still is the American light-heavyweight boxing champion today, although he was more docile than wild in the fifteen round title bout he fought last night with Tommy Loughran, Philadelphia's youthful contender. Greb received the judges' decision.

Loughran received an enthusiastic ovation as he left the ring. The challenger showed a clever defense against the assaults of the champion, but he confined himself too much to defensive work to win. The battle was slow and neither man was damaged.

Seattle Miss Tennis Star

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Tennis critics evinced enthusiasm today over the showing which Miss Mae McDonald of Seattle made yesterday in the indoor invitation tournament of the Heights Casino, in which she lost a close match to Mrs. Benjamin E. Cole of Boston.

Experience enabled Mrs. Cole to win but it required two hours for her to finish the match. The score was 6-2, 5-7, 10-8 and in the third set Miss McDonald three times was within a stroke of victory. It was the second time that Miss McDonald had played indoors but she showed in varied style, speed, service and skillful play.

Eight contestants were left today to fight for the title which Mrs. Mollie Bjursted Mallory, national champion, is defending.

Bout Ends Fatally

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 31.—H. B. Fetzer was today under $500 bond and charged with involuntary manslaughter in connection with the death last night of Billy C. Zelly, Fetzer's 18-year-old opponent in a preliminary amateur boxing match. Zelly died from acute dilation of the heart just as the bout ended.

Promoters of the match also are charged with involuntary manslaughter.

TWO hundred calls an hour couldn't worry her now, declares Miss Jessie Hodges, of Roanoke, Va.

"When Tanite brought me such quick relief I could have shouted for joy," declared Miss Jessie Hodges, popular young telephone operator of Roanoke, Va., residing at 1231 Jamison Ave. S. E.

"I was in bed six weeks with flu, and it left me dreadfully run-down and suffering so with indigestion, everything I ate caused awful pains and gas till I could hardly breathe. I lost weight, my nerves were unstrung, and I thought I never would get well."

"But four bottles of Tanite gave me a wonderful appetite and built me up till I feel so strong that two hundred calls an hour couldn't ruffle me. I feel much improved in every way and can't say too much for Tanite."

Tanite is sold by all good druggists. Over 25 million bottles sold. Adv.
