

STENOGRAPHER OF SLAIN ENGINEER IS INTERROGATED

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 20.—The tracing of Earle Remington's movements Thursday evening to within fifteen minutes of the time of his death failed to reveal the motive or the identity of the person or persons who slew the electrical engineer with a stiletto and shotgun just before midnight on the driveway of his residence, police detectives announced yesterday.

A coroner's jury today returned the verdict that Remington had come to his death by a gunshot wound through the heart by a person or persons unknown, with intent to kill and murder. Remington's last hours before his death were spent in two motion picture shows, according to Miss Estelle LeSage, stenographer, who was questioned early today by the police and released by them, with official statements that she knew nothing pertinent to the murder. She said she escorted her to her home shortly before midnight and the police investigation showed that the murder was committed within some fifteen minutes of the time he left the stenographer.

Miss LeSage told of a party at a downtown cafe the previous evening at which there were several guests but police declared no connection had been established between this and the slaying.

Two women in the house adjoining Remington's testified of hearing moans about the time fixed as the death hour but upon looking out the windows failed to observe anything unusual.

Charity Dawson, negro servant in the Remington house, who discovered the body Friday morning was taken to police headquarters for questioning following her testimony at the inquest that she last saw Remington alive Wednesday morning. That Thursday night she returned at 9:30 o'clock and slept until 4 a. m. and that later in the morning upon glancing out of the window, saw Remington's body.

EAGLE POINT EAGLETS

By A. C. Howlett

Among the business callers last Tuesday was Henry Tonn of Lake Creek, one of the thoroughgoing, progressive farmers and stockmen of that section.

George Daley, Jr., who bought the small farm known as the Jacks place, who was formerly the miller in the A. A. Davis mill of Medford and later was in charge of a grist mill in Klamath Falls, and when purchased the farm of about seven or eight acres a large part of it was covered with timber and brush but now he has it all cleared up and is making it into a lovely home.

Mrs. Irvin Daley of Medford, was also a caller the same day and stopped at the Sunnyside for dinner. She had been up to Brownboro coming for her mother, Mrs. Heasler who was quite sick, but is on the road to recovery.

Royal G. Brown, one of the firm of George Brown & Sons of this place who has been down in San Jose visiting with his wife, their daughter Mrs. Hazel Steiner returned last Tuesday, leaving his wife to care for their daughter and baby boy.

Elmer Wilson and wife of the Medford Furniture & Hardware Co., Medford, came out last Friday evening and spent the night and Saturday with her sister, Mrs. Geo. B. Holmes, the principal of our school.

Benj. Whitestone, another one of our enterprising farmers, was also a business caller the same day.

Marshall Minter who resides on his homestead on Reese creek, was a business caller Wednesday.

Mrs. Hayman and her daughter who used to live on the J. H. Cooley orchard, but are now living south of Phoenix, were business callers Wednesday.

H. E. Anderson, a livestock inspector, was here on official business, looking over a bunch of sheep belonging to George and Harvey Lewis and he decided that they were all O. K.

Our legislators are playing havoc with some of our old cattlemen. I heard two of our prominent stockmen discussing the merits of "The Bill" law that has just been passed requiring the stockmen to put one registered bull on the range with every twenty-five cows, and they talked as though it would break them up to have to furnish that many bulls, for one of them remarked that they would cost four or five hundred dollars each and that they would have to go out of the cattle business, and that in another year they will have to have all of their cattle inspected for tuberculosis and that would be another bother and expense.

H. E. Campbell, our banker, who has been appointed to administer the estate of James Jordan, so far as the property here is concerned, and Roy Ashpole, J. Frank Brown and W. L. Childreth who were selected to appraise the property met on the premises Wednesday and put a valuation on the personal and real property, but I doubt the propriety of making it public as the bonds and other property had not been counted up at that time.

Mr. H. L. Moore who has considerable interest in the timber beyond Butte Falls, was a passenger on the Butte Falls stage on his way to Butte Falls Wednesday.

Mayme Winkle and Alma Fredeen of San Francisco, called for dinner Thursday at the Sunnyside. They had come up to visit Miss Winkle's father and family and her sister, Mrs. Alva Mathews and other relatives.

A. C. Huse, the foreman on the J. H. Cooley orchard, was a business caller Thursday.

Wm. Pruitt, Thomas Vestal and family of Reese creek, J. Wattenburg who is living on the Andrews place, one of our best farmers in this section was here on business also and so was Ed Dutton, our ex-road supervisor and one of our prominent stockmen.

A man by the name of Jim Olson who gave his residence as Medford, came out from Butte Falls on the stage Thursday on his way home. He said that he had been up in the timber putting in a skidway for a lumber company.

O. A. Mack and wife who are on the Fred Pelouze (Meadowbrook) farm, were here trading Thursday. I understand that the farm belongs to a man by the name of Collins and Dr. J. J. Emmens of Medford. I have never met Mr. Collins although I understand that he passes through here every few days going to and from the farm, and that they have it stocked with thoroughbred stock and poultry, horses, cows, pigs, chickens and turkeys.

Mrs. Frank Stillie and Mrs. S. E. Coghill were here Thursday visiting Mrs. Stillie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bonaker, who live in the old Pool hotel, now owned by Mr. W. P. Morgan and Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Coghill are the people who have moved into the James Jordan house.

John M. Miller, one of our esteemed citizens, had the misfortune to lose one of his work horses the first of the week.

George Given, one of our prosperous and well-to-do farmers, who seldom comes to town, was here Friday.

Mr. Long, who is running the truck and Mr. Groves who is running the grader that is attached to the truck, were in town Friday afternoon having the grader repaired by our blacksmith, W. L. Childreth.

Mr. Ed Weller, who was a citizen of Medford and this section for several years, but now of Hubbard, near Salem, is here this Saturday afternoon looking after the interests of his wife, a daughter of the late James Jordan. He came in Friday afternoon and is stopping at the Sunnyside and George Albert of Butte Falls also came out and spent the night here.
