NO MORE NIGHT RIDING!

THE NIGHT rider trials are over. Everyone is glad of it,—including the night riders. Everyone also regrets the disturbances which have agitated this county the past year, and culminated in the trials at Jacksonville. But like most misfortunes, some benefits may be derived.

The principal benefits are: First,—absolute confirmation that these night-riding episodes occurred. Some good people doubted them. The testimony of Thomas E. Goodie, however, one of the defendants, absolutely confirming the "hold-up" near Voorheis Crossing, as claimed by the state, removes all reasonable doubt.

Second,—A general crystallization of public sentiment in Southern Oregon against any organization or any group of individuals who attempt to take the law into their own hands. By a tremendous majority the people of Jackson county believe that this sort of melodramatic foolishness is as impossible as it is dangerous, and must stop.

The guilty parties in these various night-shirt excursions are unknown. Probably, as far as the law is concerned, they will always be unknown. But whoever they are, we believe, they too, have learned their lesson.

This must be a country of law and order, or it can be no country at all. If it is proper for a group of "leading citizens" to take the law into their own hands, then it is proper for any group of citizens to take the law into their own hands. And that means just one thing—anarchy.

What this country needs, what the entire world needs, particularly at the present time, is discipline. Discipline means restraint; discipline means respect for law and the courts; discipline means obedience to established authority.

Call the order what you will, if that order seeks to usurp the authority of the government, local or federal; if it seeks to usurp the authority of the courts or peace officers; if it seeks to deprive American citizens of their constitutional rights,—the right of trial by jury, for example,—then it is a bad order, a dangerous order, and if American institutions are to survive, it must be put down.

The agitation of the past year, culminating in the trial, has done great harm to Jackson County, but it is harm for which only those who instituted "lawlessness" in this community are to blame. Now there is reason to believe that even those who first thoughtlessly welcomed a "clean up brigade," are convinced of their error, and of the great danger of any such "extra-legal" procedure.

If this is true,—and we believe it IS true,—then all the mess and agony the past year has been worth the trouble. For it means that a dangerous and prevalent tendency in these disordered times has been eradicated in this valley at least and it also means that as far as Jackson county is concerned, this night-riding foolishness is over.

TRAPPER VICTIM OF HUNGRY WOLVES

SASKATOON, Sask., Mar. 16.—Carl Lynn, world war veteran and one of the best known trappers in the North country, is believed to have lost his life in a fight with a pack of timber wolves, two hunters reported here today. They said they thought his body had been devoured by the pack after he had killed six of the hunger-crazed beasts.

Shreds of clothing and a gun, identified as belonging to Lynn, surrounded by the carcasses of the wolves were found by the hunters near Croelak, 200 miles north of the-Ala-Crosse, but trace of the hunter's body was lacking.

Lynn was an expert rifleman and during the war served as a sniper.

COMMUNICATIONS

Medford Must Go Ahead

To the Editor: Word has just been received that the petition of the California public service commission for a rehearing in the famous Medford-Klamath Falls Northern California freight rate case has been denied by the interstate commerce commission, and the new rates will go into effect on April 24th.

This ends a long drawn out fight that has been carried on for years. The contention of the traffic department of the Medford chamber of commerce has been upheld in every particular and the benefits to southern Oregon will be far-reaching, maintaining as it does Medford's supremacy as the jobbing and distributing center of a territory reaching from Roseburg to Dunsmuir.

If our chamber of commerce had done nothing else for the community, excepting to fight this case, it would have been worth while. Without a chamber of commerce it would not have been possible.

If this community is to go ahead as it should, it must have a chamber of commerce that is properly and amply financed in order that those in charge can devote all of their time to constructive work and not be hampered by the lack of a few dollars that are required to carry on the work. Join the chamber of commerce!

Rob Gently and Upward Toward the Heart as Blood in Veins Flows That Way.

If you or any relative or friend is worried because of varicose veins, or bunched, the best advice that anyone in this world can give is to get a prescription that many physicians are now prescribing. Ask your druggist for an original

(two-ounce bottle of Moore's Emerald Oil (full strength) and apply night and morning to the swollen, enlarged veins.
